Q. MY APARTMENT HAS AN OLD BLACK & WHITE TILE BATH. HOW CAN I GIVE IT A NEW LOOK WITHOUT SPENDING A FORTUNE.

A. A black and white bath is probably the easiest to decorate -- I would start with a black & white print wallcovering, then use a pure primary color for curtains, towels, rugs, etc. Keeping the background basic you can change your decor in minutes with new accessories.

GD Pleads For Foreign Trade Break

Carter W. Eltzroth, general counsel for General Dynamics, told the City Council Monday night that the Fore River Shipyard needs a waiver of customs charges and limitations to remain competitive.

General Dynamics had applied for creation of a foreign trade subzone at the shipyard so that it can bring in foreign-made parts and install them on ships without paying import duties.

"The goods we import will be stored in the subzone, prepared and installed on the ships without being subjected to the normal customs duties, quotas, procedures and other limitations," said Eltzroth.

"We have to take advantage of every opportunity to reduce the cost of building ships here. We hope that this will give us a competitive edge.

"We think that it will give local business and the workers in our area an advantage because we'll be more competitive both with other shipyards in the United States and foreign shipyards."

Approval from a local governing body is one step in creation of such a zone under the requirements of the Foreign Trade Zone Board in Washington.

Under questioning by City Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro, Eltzroth conceded that "there probably are no products that we can't buy in the United States but we expect to get a competitive edge by foreign purchases." DeCristofaro said he feels "this equipment should be bought in this country, made by American people and used in American yards."

The Council's Ordinance Committee took the matter under advisement.

DENTAL IMPLANTS
Q: I read an item in the Sunday supplement about dental implants. What are they? Can anyone have them?

A: When teeth are lost, the usual way to replace them is with a fixed bridge or a removable denture. But what if substitute teeth could be placed back into the jaw, to remain there like natural teeth?

The idea of implanting artificial teeth into jawbones is an old one. Only in the past several years, however, has serious work been done on dental implants. Dentists can now replace single teeth, groups of teeth, even a whole jawful. Some implants are inserted right into the jawbone itself, others rest on top of the jawbone, just under the gum.

Not all patients can successfully have implants. Oral hygiene must be excellent, and the jawbone must be large enough and healthy.

Some dentists still consider implants to be experimental, but for many people they can be a new answer for missing teeth.

ELECTRICAL FIRES

Thousands of persons die each year in home fires. Among the causes of these fires, faulty or overloaded electrical wiring take more than their share. This is one fire source that can be avoided.

Among the warning signs of an overloaded system are lights dimming when an appliance goes on, a shrinking television picture, slow-heating appliances, and fuses blowing frequently. Remember, when a fuse does blow, it should be replaced with the same size fuse. Never use a substitute such as a penny.

A sufficient number of circuits and outlets should be available throughout the home to avoid using several electrical appliances on a single circuit. In addition, never use extension cords with appliances drawing large amounts of current such as refrigerators or irons. Prevent damage to cords by not running them under carpets, through doorways, over nails or hooks.

A Happy Ending For Cambodian Family

Phoeurk celebrated his birthday and was given a cake with candles.

"I like," he smiles.

Phoeurk was also fitted with a new artificial leg which he proudly shows visitors.

During the day, Phoeurk began working around the grounds of St. John's Church.

Says Sullivan of Phoeurk and his family, "They're remarkable people. This has been a very graced experience."

"You recognize how much we as people have."

Phoeurk returns the compliment, "They (the Sullivans) very nice to me. I like very much."

Using part of the $1,200 provided by the Catholic Charities to help with resettlement, Phoeurk and his family were recently able to move into a one bedroom apartment in Quincy with the help of Fr. William McCarthy. St. John's parishioners have also helped with their time and offers to tutor the family.

The future for Phoeurk and his family appears bright.

"Phoeurk is very, very bright, a great worker," says Hobin, who with Sullivan, hopes to help Phoeurk enroll in a training program in prosthetics or possibly in a hospital.

Though Phoeurk has a sister who lives with her husband in Florida, his mother and other brothers and sisters still remain in Cambodia, now known as Kampuchea.

He hopes to be able to see his country again some day.

"When it has freedom," he says.

Kelly, Earle Go Route North Wins 2 Out Of 3

North Quincy's baseball team got off to another slow start, losing five of its first six games but last week the Raiders won two out of three to improve their record to 3-6.

North played Waltham Tuesday, will host Weymouth South today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Adams Field and will be home for Newton North Monday at 3:30 at Adams.

Charlie Bunker's Raiders roared to a 6-0 lead after two innings last Thursday and went on to defeat Weymouth North, 7-5.

North put together three hits and three Weymouth errors for a four-run second inning, but had to hold on as Weymouth rallied for a run in the fourth, two in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Paul Earle, who had lost two tough games in a row in which his mates failed to score, went all the way for his first win and displayed a lot of courage in the late innings.

"We'll take what we can get," said Bunker. "We hit better today than we have all season and took advantage of their mistakes. Weymouth deserves credit for the way it came back and you also have to give Earle a lot of credit for making the big pitches when he had to."

Wayne Wilcoxon had two of North's eight hits and Jack Bolster, Jim Kelly, John Kozlowski, Steve Hogan, Mark Hubbard and Earle had one each. Earle allowed five hits, struck out six and walked four.

In its previous game North Quincy lost for the second time to Brockton, 6-2, with three of the Boxers' runs being unearned. Wilcoxon and Bolster, Chris Bunker and pitched for the Raiders and gave up seven hits.

Bunker had two triples and an RBI. Bob O'Brien a triple and Wilcoxon had an RBI single.

Earlier in the week Kelly, a junior right-hander who had been hounded by a shoulder injury, made his first start and pitched a three-hitter as the Raiders blanked Brookline, 2-0.

Kelly, who had been expected to pitch for only four innings, went the route, striking out 12 and not giving a walk. Only one Brookline runner reached second.

Bankers Softball League Hancock, State St. Remain Undefeated

Hancock Bank improved its league-leading record to 4-0 in the South Shore Bankers Softball League with a 10-6 victory over South Weymouth Savings Bank.

Al Sassi made several outstanding plays at the field and also had two hits, while Terry McCormack and Tom "Spinner" Connolly also hit well. Len Smith and Bill Striano stood out for South Weymouth both offensively and defensively.

State Street Bank also remained unbeaten (3-0) by defeating Atlantic Data Services, 10-3. Bill Sims pitched a strong game and received plenty of support both at bat and in the field. Lee Watkins was outstanding, and Pete Cahill had two hits, John Tanutta had a home run for Atlantic and Bob Reilly had two solid singles.

Quincy Co-Op handed South Shore Bank its first defeat, 12-5, sparked by the pitching of Bob Foy, the sensational fielding of Kevin Chase and the timely hitting of Larry Jackson and Chris Costello. John Dunne led South Shore with two hits and Rich Conely played strong defense.

With two outs and the bases empty in the last inning, Bay Bank Norfolk came up with two singles and a clutch triple by Dave Kenyon to snatch victory from Quincy Savings Bank, 8-7. Bay Bank catcher Tom Coughlin played outstanding ball and came up with a timely hit. Phil Johnes had a long home run. Bill Lomano pitched well again in a losing cause for hard-luck Quincy Savings and Dave Scollins sparkled at third base.

Hancock will play Bay Bank tonight (Thursday) at 8 o'clock at Kincaide Park.

Kiwanis Wins 4th, Gear Upsets Keohane's

Kiwanis improved its Junior Baseball League record to 4-1 with a 13-6 victory over Foley Chrysler.

Ronnie Fletcher was the hitting star as he hit two home runs and drove in seven runs. He hit a three-run blast in the first inning and a grand slam in the second, both to left-center field. Earlier this season Fletcher had hit a two-run homer off Tommy McDonald of Burgin Platner in Kiwanis' only loss. Also hitting well against Foley were Timmy Roche, Matt Hurley, T. J. Steen, Ron Hersey and Paul Meehan. Steen was the winning pitcher.

Boston Gear upset previously unbeaten Keohane's, 6-2, with Steve Rabs pitching six-hit ball, striking out three and walking only one. Rabs was given outstanding support by Paul Adams, Matt Furtado, Jimmy Glynn, Nancy Flukes and Chris Higgins. Gear, defending city champion, was paced by Furtado with a three-run homer, while Shawn Craig had a double and single and Chris Higgins, Mike Leonard, Glynn and Rabs one hit each. Danny Gilmartin, Mike Paccetti, Patrick McDonough, Mike Cronin and Jimmy Collins also played key roles in the win.

Rotary and Foley's played two interesting, high-scoring games, the teams playing to an 8-8 tie, necessitating a replay, which Rotary won, 10-9.

In the tie game Mike Mullaney led Rotary with a home run and a double and drove in the tying run in the final inning. John Pennellatore pitched four strong innings and also had two hits. He was relieved by Mullaney in the fifth. Dan Biagini had two home runs and a single for Foley's and Mike Sanda, making his pitching debut, threw well.

In the replay Mullaney drove in the winning run with a double. He had four hits and Dave Murphy, who scored the winning run, had three. Matt Collins, Rich Golden, Pennellatore, Dan Ward and Tom Holyoke all had hits. Dan McDonald, in relief of Murphy, was the winning pitcher. Joe Mulvey and Bill MacDougal sparked defensively. For Foley's Sanda had two hits and Sean Gately had a home run. Kevin Duffy, Bill Mulhern and relief pitcher Joe Gately played fine games.

Morrisette is off to a fast start in the Babe Ruth League with two victories.

Morrisette walloped Bryan VFW, 16-6, with Rick Kelley giving up six hits, all singles and striking out five. Bryan scored two unearned runs in the first and Morrisette came back with one in its half. Bryan added two runs in the third on only one hit, and again Morrisette bounced back with two, featuring a tremendous triple by Jack Outerbridge.

Morrisette broke the game open with six runs in the fourth inning, the big blow being a tremendous triple by Chris Doyle with the bases loaded. Morrisette added two in the fifth with Doyle hitting another triple and, after Bryan added two in the top of the sixth, Morrisette exploded for five more runs, keyed by doubles by Rick Dondero, John Cristiani and Paul Canavan.

Canavan had three hits, Cristiani, Tommy Connolly, Outerbridge and Doyle two each and Tim Morrison, Kelley and Dondero one apiece. Cristiani, Outerbridge, Kelley, Doyle and Paul Connolly all played well defensively. For Bryan Post Eric Roukey, Steve Austin, Ed Boyle, Mike LaRourke, Rich Pettinelli and Bob Kozlowski starred. Its pitchers struck out 10 but gave up 14 hits.

Three Home Runs, Barry's Pitching Wins For North

Joe Creedon, Dave Burke and Scotty Whitelaw belted home runs and Larry Barry pitched a five-hitter and struck out 14 as the North Quincy High School baseball team walloped Hingham, 14-0.

Tom Conley had four hits, including a pair of doubles, and Dinny McDonald, Burke and Whitelaw had three safeties each in leading the 17-hit attack for Coach Hal Forest's Raiders.

North Quincy got all the runs it needed in the first inning as McDonald singled, Whitelaw walked and Conley clouted the first of his two doubles, all with only one man out.

The raiders clinched the verdict with five runs in the eighth inning on singles by Conley, Tom Meade and Dick Donovan, a walk to Bob Fisher, a double by Burke and Whitelaw's long homer to deep center.

The North Quincy lineup: McDonald lf, Higgins lf, Walsh rf, Meade rf, Whitelaw 3b, Conley 1b, Gallagher c, Fisher c, Burke 2b, Donovan ss, Creedon ss, Dunlop cf, Barry p.

RUUTILA MISSES NO-HITTER

Hugh Opie, Braintree's leadoff batter in the very first inning, reached base on an infield hit and then Quincy's Eero Ruuttila shut down the Wamps without a safety to win a 1-0 victory at Adams Field.

Shortstop Lou Marini managed to knock down Opie's sharply hit grounder but was unable to make the play at first base. Ruuttila went on to strike out nine and permit no one else to reach base.

Quincy got the only run of the game in its half of the first inning without a hit of its own as Dan Libertine and Carl Koury walked and Libertine scored on a Braintree throwing error.

The Quincy lineup: Libertine 2b, Koury rf, Wessell c, Ruuttila p, Marini ss, Hurley cf, Kerr 3b, Casali lf, Burrell lb.

FORE RIVER WINS OPENER

Veteran pitcher Dave (Lefty) McKeag scattered 11 hits and singled home two runs to lead the Fore River baseball team to a 6-5 victory over Woonsocket in the New England League opener at Fore River Field.

The lineup for Manager Jeppie Saunders' Fore River team included: Reggie ss, Burns lb, Novello rf, Catarius c, Graham cf, Saunders 3b, Nelson lf, Rinaldi 2b, McKeag p.

NORTH GOLFERS WIN

Harry Bloom combined his booming drives with Charlie Leveroni's accuracy on the greens to lead the North Quincy High School golf team to a 3½ to ½ victory over Walpole at Walpole.

The teams of Capt. Dick Meehan and Hattie Peterson and Walter Smith and Buzz Reed also chalked up victories for Coach Jack Donahue's golfers who were winning their third in a row against no defeats.

ROYAL NAVY SUNK

Bennett, Guyda and Buttery scored the goals as the Fall River All Stars soccer team defeated a British Royal Navy team, 3-1, at Municipal Stadium in a game that netted $2,500 for British War Relief.

The Fore River lineup included: Ostberg g, Brady, Ritchie, backs; McGuire, Anderson, Buttery, halfbacks; Yacoubian, Guyda, Ellis, Ferris-McLaughlin, Bennett, forwards.

WILL, HONKELETO SHINE

Dave Will and Hank Honkeleto swept the final match of the day, 6-2, 6-2, over Archie Delorey and Arthur Bjorklund as the Quincy High School tennis team upset Hingham, 3-2.

The other Quincy victories came in the singles matches where Johnny Reardon disposed of Herbie Campbell, 7-5, 6-3, and Norm Young hung on to beat Delorey, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

THREE-HITTER BY DYER

The three-hit pitching of Johnny Dyer enabled Vic Ericson's Old Colony DeMolay team to blank the strong Wollaston Townies, 4-0, in a Quincy Park League game at Upper Merrymount Park.

ST. MARY'S WINS

St. Mary's of West Quincy scored all its runs in the first inning and then settled back to take a 3-0 Quincy Park League decision from Sacred Heart of North Quincy behind Bob Quintilliani's five-hitter.

SPORTS BITS '44

Coaches Bootus Chapman and Arthur Taylor were putting candidates for the Wollaston Junior Legion baseball team through workouts in preparation for a practice game with the Hingham Ammunition Depot team Bob Triglia knocked in five runs as St. Mary's strengthened its hold on first place in the Park League with an 8-7 victory over the Comets Al Javery, who had lost his previous six games, came through with his first victory of the season for the Boston Braves, a 1-0 three-hitter over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Bandera Fires 2-Hitter Despite Record, Things Not So Bad For Quincy

Although the Quincy baseball team has only a 5-7 record, there have been several positive aspects to the season for the Presidents.

Coach Bud Mosher got his 100th coaching victory, Quincy blanked North Quincy in their first meeting and then provided one of the season's major upsets by handing Brockton its first loss after six wins.

One of the key players for Quincy this spring has been Jim Bandera, who last week pitched a two-hitter to blank Weymouth South, 2-0.

The Presidents played at Cambridge Tuesday and today (Thursday) will play at Newton North at 3:30.

Bandera, who has led the Suburban League in batting all season and who is batting well over .500, had made his first pitching start against Brockton and held the Boxers to seven hits in a 4-1 victory.

At the start of the season he was labeled a power hitter who couldn't hit for average and was a decent left fielder with a good arm.

Quincy scored the only run it needed against Weymouth South in the third inning when Steve Spencer reached on an error, Andy Eames, who has had an outstanding year, singled and Spencer scored on another error.

The Presidents scored again in the sixth when Paul Quigley walked, moved up on a fielder's choice and scored on still another Weymouth miscue.

Mosher wasn't the winning coach as he was away on business. The winner was first year junior varsity coach Bob Sylvia. Quincy's highly successful hockey coach for 17 years.

"I think the boys sensed that I wanted this one really bad," said Sylvia smiling. "For some reason Quincy kids always seem to rise to the occasion." The players presented him with an autographed ball for his first varsity win.

Two of Quincy's four hits were by left fielder Eames, who has been doing a fine job in the field and also pitching. Bob Mudge and Jim DiPietro had the others.

Sylvia had praise for Quigley, the Presidents' excellent catcher. "He is the leader of the team and he called a great game," he said. "He gave Bandera a lot of support, especially in the seventh after he'd walked a couple of batters."

This was Quincy's only win of the week, as it lost two other games.

In their previous game the Presidents had lost to Weymouth North, 8-1. Bandera had two of Quincy's three hits and drove in the only run.

Earlier in the week Quincy bowed to Waltham, 4-2.

North Girls In Win Streak

By TOM SULLIVAN

Coach Lou Ioanilli's North Quincy girls' softball team is on a hot streak.

Tuesday the Raiderettes sought their fifth win in a row and seventh in eight games at Waltham. They play at Weymouth South today (Thursday) at 3:30 p.m.

The North girls won their fourth in a row since losing to Quincy when they topped Weymouth North, 5-1, last week, improving their record to 7-4.

Elva Reed (5-2) pitched all the way, scattering five hits and striking out four.

Reed also singled home two runs to key a five-run third-inning rally. Mary Holleran, Sue Ayles and Patt McKinnon all drove in runs for the Raiderettes.

In their previous game the North girls defeated Brockton, 11-6, collecting only four hits but capitalizing on 14 walks and two hit batsmen.

Debbie Kiley had two hits, including a two-run double in the fourth inning when North exploded for eight runs and an 11-0 lead.

Reed was again the winner, giving up six hits, striking out two and walking two. Reed and Laurie Barba each drew three bases on balls.

Earlier in the week North rolled over Brookline, 14-4, with Karen Boutlier (2-2) going all the way with a four-hitter.

Holleran had three hits and Ayles, Ann Souza and Kiley had home runs. Kiley's was a three-run blast. The Raiderettes broke the game open with a six-run second inning, keyed by McKinnon's two-run single.

"This is a young team with only three seniors," Ioanilli said. "The girls are learning fast and have played outstanding ball. We have not hit all that well, but have taken advantage of walks and errors. Reed and Boutlier have pitched well and the big thing is they have been able to get the ball over the plate, something very important in high school ball."

"Julian, Holleran, Ayles and McKinnon are our leading batters, all hitting around .400, while Kiley has a lot of runs batted in and Barba and Souza, who we recently brought up from the junior varsity, have had key hits."

Ioanilli also singled out Cheryl Murphy and Lisa Tenaglia for their defensive performances.

"With so many young players, things look good for next year," the North coach added.

Ken McPhee's junior varsity has also played well with an 8-3 record.

The jayvees have solid hitting with Sandra Whitehouse, Chris Choukas, Ann Bray, Karen Horrigan and Sheila Graham leading the offense. Lisa Ventola is the team's top pitcher.

HN Women's Softball League Neckers, Bunnies, Hustlers Win

The Houghs Neck Women's Recreational Softball League recently got under way with the Neckers defeating the Castaways, 18-11, in the opening game.

Marge McIntyre pitched well for the Neckers and also hit a triple. Ginny Thompson hit a home run and Maria Burkhead had a triple and played well in the field. For the Castaways Marion Knudson pitched a strong game and Michele Hebb and Nancy McQuinn made several good field plays.

The Bunnies defeated the Sea Gals, 9-7, with Nancy Carmody the winning pitcher, Shirley Lyons drove in two runs and Donna Brill

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF EXPLANATION

To All Interested Agencies, Groups and Persons

The City of Quincy has received a $1 million UDAG Grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to assist in the development of an office building located at 200 Newport Avenue Extension (the "Project") with supporting retail uses and a parking garage. This Project is to be built primarily in the air rights over the North Quincy MBTA parking lot with retail uses to be located on the ground area of the parcel presently owned by the MBTA. It has been determined that this Project is in a Federal floodplain district. According to executive orders 11988 and 11990 and pertinent Department of Housing and Urban Development Regulations contained in the Federal Register on Community Development Block Grants, the City is required to publish a Notice of Explanation of alternatives that were considered to avoid adverse impacts and incompatible developments for projects that are to be located in a floodplain area. This Notice is in compliance with such regulations and the following facts support such a finding:

1. The Project is located in close proximity to a large development of office buildings that have been constructed over the last ten years immediately adjacent to the subject parcel.
2. The property over which the Project is located has been filled; in that the small creek that previously ran across the property has been channelized in a 96-inch drain pipe that runs beneath the parcel in an easement owned by the City of Quincy. Further, the present owner of the parcel itself, the MBTA, has built-up the area by filling in order to accommodate a parking lot which is presently operating on the ground.
3. The air rights in which the office building is to be located are to be constructed on columns that will place the structure itself at least 15 feet above the ground itself. Therefore, all construction will be above the base flood level or 100 year storm area; (including the retail area which will be located above mean sea level of 11 feet or city base of 16.82 feet which is the base flood level).
4. The City has developed standards for acceptable floodplain management which are contained in its Zoning Ordinance and the City has, through its issuance of a special permit by its Board of Appeals, approved of the Development in the air rights.
5. The Conservation Commission of the City of Quincy has also reviewed the Project and has found, since the development will be in the air rights over an area that has been built-up previously by the MBTA, that there will be no effect upon the flood area itself.
6. The City has not completely investigated other alternative methods of minimizing the impact of this particular development since it is to be constructed in the air rights; (only the footings and columns shall be in the floodplain district itself).
7. Negotiations and discussions have taken place satisfactorily between the City of Quincy, the MBTA and the proposed developer to insure that the parking lot presently operated by the MBTA at ground level will be maintained and operated efficiently. Therefore, all efforts have been taken to minimize any effect that this particular development will have on the floodplain district.
8. It is believed by the City of Quincy that compliance with any additional standards to avoid adverse impacts is not meaningful since it has determined that the construction over the already built-up area has no real effect upon the floodplain itself.
9. Additional information is available at the City of Quincy Department of Planning and Community Development, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.
10. All interested parties are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City to the Department of Community Planning. Such written comments should be received at the Community Development Agency on or before June 7, 1982. All such comments so received will be considered and the City will not request the release of Federal Funds or take any administrative action on the project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

Replace Commissioner Condon Urges Board Head Health Dept.

By TOM HENSHAW
and NANCY McLAUGHLIN

City Councillor Joanne Condon plans to propose at the June 7 meeting of the City Council that the post of health commissioner be abolished and replaced by a board of health.

The proposal is the latest development in the controversy that has swirled around Commissioner Dr. Robert McKeogh, who may be holding two jobs in violation of state law.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he expects an opinion from City Solicitor William Golden later this week on whether Dr. McKeogh can still maintain his gynecological practice in South Quincy.

Meanwhile, Dr. McKeogh said that he has no thought of resigning from the post that pays $37,180 a year.

In advancing her board of health proposal, Mrs. Condon questioned whether a medical man is needed to head a department whose primary function has changed radically over the years.

"At this point in time," she said, "the health department has gotten out of the business of directing health services, which called for a medical doctor."

"We are now in the business of code enforcement and spraying for gypsy moths and things like that. An administrator, not a medical doctor, could perform those duties."

"Mind you, I'm not an advocate of the city getting out of medical services. But we have. They have been picked up by the Manet Health Center, the City Hospital outpatient department, etc."

Mrs. Condon also criticized Dr. McKeogh for "not being responsive to the people."

"He says that's not his function," she said. "He was quoted in The

Tax Bills In Mail Friday

Final tax bills for fiscal 1982 with a due date of June 28 will start going in the mail tomorrow (Friday), Mayor Francis X. McCauley promised Tuesday.

"We want them out Friday so that the due date will be before July 1 and we can have some tax money in the treasury when the year-end balance sheet is closed," he said.

The tax bills will reflect the $205.60 tax rate recently approved by the State Department of Revenue for the current fiscal year, the one ending June 30.

The final bills are expected to be considerably below the first ones that were mailed last fall since they were based on the previous year's tax rate which was $37 higher.

McCauley said Chief Assessor Elmer (Mike) Fagerlund has written to Edward Collins, deputy commissioner of revenue, asking a quick approval of the city's revaluation.

The tax rate for fiscal 1983 will be based on the new values, and, said the mayor, "we want to avoid having to be late in setting the rate again."

Lydon Withdraws From Court Clerk Race

City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. has withdrawn as a candidate for clerk of courts in Norfolk County, leaving seven people still in the race for the Democratic nomination.

Lydon said he was unable to work out a plan whereby someone else could take over his funeral business while he was putting in a full day at the courthouse in Dedham.

"The professional sacrifices were too great for what we had worked so hard to build up here," he said. "It would take me too far from my business."

Lydon also said he discovered while he was circulating his Ward 3 for names on his petition that "a large number of people were concerned about the possibility of losing their ward councillor."

"I'm withdrawing," he said, adding, "I am looking on to bigger and better things locally."

Remaining in the Democratic race are Nicholas Barbadoro of Quincy, acting clerk; Quincy City Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia; Robert Bloom of Braintree, assistant clerk at Quincy District Court.

Robert O. Flynn of Canton, assistant clerk at Stoughton District Court; Elizabeth R. Laing of Braintree, a former assistant attorney general; Paula O'Brien Killion of Milton and Michael Joyce of Braintree.

Martha (Marti) Monell of Brookline, a probation officer at Quincy District Court, is running as an independent.

GD Wins Share Of $1.25 Million Contract

The Navy has awarded the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard a $1.25 million contract, shared with a West Coast shipyard, for Phase 2 design work on the conversion of eight container ships.

The announcement was made jointly by Cong. Brian J. Donnelly and Gov. Edward J. King, who was in Washington last week to hustle contracts for the Fore River yard.

"President Reagan and the Navy have once again shown their confidence in the skill and expertise available at General Dynamics," said King.

The Quincy yard will share with Todd Shipyards of Seattle the design grant for conversion of the eight container ships into fast logistics ships for the Navy's rapid deployment force.

Three other teams from around the country are competing with General Dynamics-Todd to receive $480 million ($60 million per ship) Phase 3 conversion contracts in the fall.

The teams have 90 days in which to complete final engineering design work and resubmit price proposals for the actual conversion.

Gov. King met with Presidential Counsellor Edwin Meese and Navy Undersecretary George Sawyer May 18 to urge the award of the Phase 2 contract to Fore River.

The award of Phase 3 contract for actual conversion of the ships could mean up to 2,400 jobs at General Dynamics, King said.

Toland Promises Fight On Sevin In '83

City Councillor Patricia Toland conceded this week that it is too late to do anything to stop the city from spraying the controversial chemical Sevin to control gypsy moths.

"But," she said, "the small vocal groups that are against the use of Sevin are beginning to get together to get organized and make our concerns heard next year."

Mrs. Toland emerged as a leading spokesman for the anti-Sevin folks shortly after the city began spraying the chemical from the ground in wooded areas of the city.

When the "mist blower" was shut down by inclement weather early this week, Forestry Supt. John Koegler said some 1,500 gallons of mixed spray had been used in West Quincy, Adams Shore and Quincy Point.

Still on the schedule were Faxon and Merrymount Parks and other sections of Wollaston.

"It will take another three or four days to get through the heavy areas and then we will take some time to mop up," said Koegler.

Koegler and Mayor Francis X. McCauley said they have received very few calls to protest the use of Sevin.

"A lot of people have spoken to me about it," asserted Mrs. Toland. "They said they didn't speak up about it before because they were afraid."

She said she arranged a meeting between a group of protesters and Health Commissioner Dr. Robert McKeogh to discuss the use of Sevin.

"He listened to them and looked at their material," she said. "Then he called me to say that he had not changed his mind that Sevin is not harmful if used properly."

"Maybe the evidence against it is not conclusive enough to ban but it's scary enough to make its use questionable. It even smells like poison to me."

"We'll be much louder about it next year."

City Seeks Parking Proposals

The city is seeking proposals for the design, installation and management of a parking system for the John Hancock and Ross Parking areas, including the Ross Parking Garage.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said the proposals being sought are not really bids but guidelines for specifications from "people who know about those things."

Proposals are due in the office of City Purchasing Agent Robert Denver by 10 a.m., Wednesday, June 30.

McCauley said part of the proposals must deal with the maintenance of the parking areas and the comfort station in the Hancock lot, which has been closed for more than a year.

The mayor has indicated that he is interested in a system of validated parking for the downtown area to replace the parking meters that have become controversial in recent weeks.

He was named to replace Concannon, who has gone on to a judgeship in Boston Juvenile Court, by vote of the State Supreme Court.

Board Denies Hours Extension At Recreation Facility

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The City License Board is sticking to stipulations it set in February when it issued a beer and wine license for the Wollaston Recreation Facility.

And it is requesting that the facility administrator, John C. Nourse, appear at next week's meeting to explain why those seeking rental of the facility are apparently not being informed of the restrictions.

The board denied a request Tuesday from Anne M. McDonald of 44 Pope St., Montclair, for extension of the facility's club house hours until 2 a.m. on Saturday, May 29.

In a letter to the board, Mrs. McDonald stated that her family reserved the function room at the club house several weeks ago for a graduation party for her son.

She was informed that only beer and wine were allowed, but did not learn until May 14, that the club house would have to close at 9 p.m., a restriction in the license.

"This would be extremely inconvenient since the party starts at 8 p.m.," she wrote.

"Why didn't management inform her?" asked Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, "its their responsibility to inform people, and not get them in this situation."

"They're throwing the responsibility on the board," answered Fire Chief Edward Barry.

"We chartered our course long ago."

In addition to the hours and other restrictions, the board voted April 6, not to grant one day all alcoholic licenses for any group activity at the facility for at least one year from the date the license was issued.

St. Mary's Pastor Calls Klein's Remarks Offensive

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I certainly must commend Father McCarthy of St. John's Parish in taking Mr. Klein, the chief probation officer of the Quincy District Court, to task for his uncalled-for derogatory remarks about Catholics and their families. I am sure I voice the feelings of my parishioners in resenting the offensive remarks of Mr. Klein.

It is unbelievable in this age of ecumenism and love of your neighbor that a public official would irritate the good will of the people of Quincy and, as Father McCarthy rightly says, "those living throughout the South Shore and other parts of the Archdiocese of Boston".

In 1973 Father Blum of Marquette University formed a "League for Religious and Civil Rights" to combat such degrading remarks against the Catholic Church. He formed this League because he admired the tremendous good work of the Jewish Anti-Defamation League founded by B'nai B'rith. This latter League was formed to respond to the false charges against Jews and Judaism.

The Anti-Defamation League has served Judaism and the Jewish people well and, in doing so, has the respect of the news media and the nation's institutions.

The Catholic League has not fared so well as it is missing the support of its own people. Such a League needs the support of us all. Further information may be had by contacting me.

We are all grateful to the two local papers for cooperating in fighting those who would divide us.

Father John J. McMahon
Pastor - St. Mary's,
W. Quincy

Mother Of 12 Replies To Klein

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a citizen of the United States of America, born in Quincy, Mass., being geographically relocated to New Jersey, we have been thankful for The Quincy Sun for it has always "fed us" our news from home!

My husband and I would obviously be the Catholic couple that Mr. Andrew Klein refers to, that 'spoon fed' the delinquents onto this society for we are indeed Roman Catholic and we do have twelve children. We did lose three, the number should have been fifteen!

As of this date, five are college graduates, two have completed Graduate School, Harvard being one of these schools, one is in Graduate School, three are attending college, the two in High School are Honor students, one being a member of the National Honor Society. Our "baby" is thirteen, she just won an essay contest in Harrington Park (168 contestants) and she does excel in many ways.

The top seven of our children were privately educated from K-thru college, so we feel we did not over-tax the system, but contributed substantially to it. No one has ever gone to jail!

My question to the City of Quincy - how could Mr. Andrew Klein be unbiased in his position as a Chief Probation Officer if he had to deal with - God forbid! a Catholic juvenile from a family other than - a family with two children five years apart!

A Tribute To Edward R. Snow

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I recently read in my copy of The Sun that I receive out here, that Edward R. Snow passed away. I knew Mr. Snow as a young boy and read almost everything he wrote. I will miss him, and penned this little goodbye. I like your brand of newspaper.

Goodbye Mr. Snow

On the shores of olde Mt.
Wollaston
To the north of Plymouth Bay,
I met a man named Edward Snow
On the beach one sunny day.

I talked to him of many things
For I was very small
He told me all those wondrous tales

That now I still recall.

Summers came and Winters went
As the days rolled swiftly by
And I can't recall all the boyhood

But I remember Edward Snow
His gleamings and his lore
And I will pass them on to mine
What treats they have to store.

The Indians, the shipwrecked boats,
And stories from the sea.
The Lady in Black, the Island
tales
Were all for you and me.

So to you old friend
I'll say adieu
It's really not goodbye
For as long as all your stories live
You truly never die

Barron Eyeing Ward 5 Seat?

As they say, there's never a dull moment in politics.

The next city election is still 18 months away but already Wollaston insiders think they see signs that John Barron might be warming up for a run for the Ward 5 City Council seat now occupied by Stephen McGrath.

BARRON

Barron, now a member of the City Planning Board, would be making his first bid for office. But it wouldn't be his first campaign.

He was former chief aide to Congressman Brian Donnelly and knows his way around political circles.

Coincidentally, Barron now works for Jack Conway, the realtor and was top sales associate for April. Conway is seeking the Republican nomination for Congress in Gerry Studds' district.

WELL, School Committee Vice-Chairman

COLLINS

Mary Collins finally got the opportunity at a recent meeting to preside. Until then, Mayor Francis McCauley, as school board chairman by virtue of his office as mayor, has wielded the gavel at all meetings since his inauguration.

McCauley who was at the meeting invited her to do the honors and quipped: "It's time to allow Mary a little on-the-job training."

McCAULEY seems to be enjoying both his jobs as mayor and school committeeman chairman. At the same meeting, the board was wrestling with the question of a mid-winter vacation for students in order to set a school calendar for 1982-83.

Five snow days are usually included in the calendar. McCauley, acting like a straight man in a comedy skit, served notice that "under the McCauley administration, there will be no snow."

It got a lot of laughs.

AND, speaking of His Honor, the McCauley Committee is sponsoring a get-together dance Friday, June 4 from 8 p.m. to midnight at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St. Houghs Neck. Music will be my "A Touch of Class." Tickets are $10 per person and may be purchased through Chairman John Powers or at the door.

CITY COUNCIL President John J. Lydon Jr. recently returned from three weeks in Italy and Switzerland thoroughly in awe of the talents of the 16th Century artist Michelangelo, especially the Pieta, the statue of the Virgin Mary holding the body of Jesus in her arms that stands in St. Peter's in the Vatican.

LYDON

"He was only 23 when he sculpted that Pieta," said Lydon. "How can someone 23 have all that expertise?"

Lydon and his wife, Diane, went to Europe specifically to visit with their daughter, Janet, 19, a junior at Providence College, who is spending the year at the Dominicans' sister college, Fribourg University, near Geneva.

They stopped over for a night in London, where the chief topic of conversation, of course, was the dispute with Argentina over the Falkland Island.

"The attitude of the man in the street in London is, 'They're ours, period, and that's it,'" reports Lydon.

MCINTYRE

The chair is old Victorian, turn of the century vintage. Six other similar chairs were also donated for the display including those used by former Senate Presidents John Powers, Maurice Donahue and Kevin Harrington all of whom were honored at a reception.

SMILE DEPT: Jack Silverstein notes: "The reason the various rock groups can afford all that expensive equipment, tuners, microphones, amplifiers, and instruments is that they have saved all that money by not taking music lessons."

Cemetery Cleanup

The city is in the midst of a last minute drive to get the Mt. Wollaston Cemetery in presentable shape for Memorial Day.

"We have had a lot of calls from people who are concerned about the shape the cemetery is in," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

"The grass has gotten ahead of the cemetery workers in some places to such an extent that it is obscuring the grave stones. We are watching it closely for Memorial Day.

A Park Department crew of half dozen men with a foreman was in the cemetery over the weekend, cutting grass and cleaning up a whole section.

A crew from the Public Works Department has been helping out this week. Equipment from other city departments has been called in during the evening hours.

"This is not something that's new," said McCauley. "It has been a problem for the past several years."

"The" is the most commonly used word in written English.

Evelyn Murphy In Spotlight Women Come A Long Way At Democratic Convention

By ALICIA COLETTI

"Mississippi has a woman as lieutenant governor, how about MASSACHUSETTS?"

That was the message distributed to delegates on the floor of the Democratic State Convention in Springfield before the fourth ballot for lieutenant governor. At least 50.2 per cent of the delegates got the message and endorsed Evelyn Murphy for the No. 2 spot on the September ballot.

Delegates had been getting messages from Murphy all along: the fortune cookies with "There's a Murphy in your future" on a paper inside, the local newspapers on their seats Saturday morning with "Compliments of Evelyn Murphy" stamped on them and the Hollywood production number which put Murphy's name before the convention.

A color slide-tape with a male voice narrating Murphy's accomplishments, experience and plans for the future was shown in a darkened Civic Center to the 3,000 delegates who stood or sat in almost complete silence. As the slide-tape drew to a close, Evelyn Murphy stood at the rostrum under a spotlight with her arms extended and spoke in short dramatic sentences about how she had done things, "they said I couldn't do." The theme from "Chariots of Fire" played as her workers marched around the hall. The delegates were first stunned and then broke into enthusiastic applause.

This Democratic State Convention was the first one to be held in Massachusetts since the McGovern rule of 50 per cent male, 50 per cent female representation was passed by the Democratic National Convention. That was one very important factor. Both the Sam Rotondi and Murphy campaigns had some of the same ingredients: a year of hard work by the candidate, excellent organization, sufficient funds and a corps of dedicated supporters. So the new rules made an important difference. The rapid entrance of women into the political arena has finally reached the state level in Massachusetts which has curiously lagged behind other states in this regard.

A glance around the half female Norfolk delegation (Quincy, Braintree, Avon and Holbrook) gave pause and food for thought. Joan Dwyer, Quincy delegate displayed a T-shirt with "Democratic State Convention, Springfield 1982" imprinted on it. "I bought one size for my daughter and when I asked for the right size for the baby I'm expecting in November the man was bewildered."

A brief survey of the convention floor showed women at every stage of pregnancy and a woman in the next delegation with a tiny infant on her shoulder.

However, the younger male delegates in the Norfolk delegation outnumbered the young females. Quincy delegates like Steve Durkin, Charles Phelan, Tim Cahill, Eddie Graham Jr., Mario Traficante, Dave Colton, Tom Koch and Bill Arienti remained active and interested through the long and grueling votes for lieutenant governor.

Delegate Mary Collins, school committee vice-chairwoman and delegate Pat Toland, councillor-at-large discussed the phenomenon. Mary said, "I think males become politically active at an earlier age than females." But Pat said, "Something should be done very early on, while girls are still in school, to show girls how important the political process is."

When she reached the party Friday night being held by William Geary of Quincy, candidate for lieutenant governor, Ward 5 delegate Catherine McDonald was happy to sit down. Catherine had been interviewed by the Dukakis Campaign Committee before they chose the person to nominate Dukakis for governor. She was No. 2 and just barely lost out. "It would have been the high point of my life," she said. But Mary Dawson, Ward 3 delegate, commented about Catherine who was secretary to Governor Dukakis's appointments secretary. "She knows everybody and everybody knows her. It will take us an hour to get her out of here because so many people stop to talk to her."

Ward 4 delegate, Lorraine Bartholomew, was on her feet all day as a whip for Rotondi and her feet were feeling the effects.

"I've gone from heels to espadrilles to stocking feet but I'm not sitting down," she said. Kathleen Kelley, another Ward 4 delegate did get to sit down but the lieutenant gubernatorial candidates sought her out to shake her hand. "As President of the Boston Teachers Union I'm naturally most interested in their views on education," she said.

Rosemary Wahlberg, director of the Community Action Organization in Quincy, whose husband Archie was a delegate, was pleased to be at Senator Paul Harold's breakfast Saturday morning at the top of the Holiday Inn. "We just came from the poor People's Breakfast and there wasn't much to eat, so we're happy to be here," she said.

The Democratic State Committee was quite strict about identification. Louise Marshall (Sheriff Clifford Marshall's wife) was waiting at the Credentials Committee Desk and said, "I left my driver's license in my room and so I had no photo I.D." It was all straightened out, however, and she was soon seated with the Norfolk delegation.

Bernice Mader, Quincy Dukakis coordinator, remained cool almost to the end of the convention as she called out delegate's names, recorded and tallied votes and expertly pulled together a delegation that was up and down, loud and soft and in and out. Bernice, a former social studies teacher at NQHS commented, "It's exciting to play a role in the democratic process and see people, most of them for the first time, participate actively in their party's decision-making. I wish more people would participate at all levels. As the person says, 'Democracy is not a spectator sport.' It was great fun. I can't wait until 1986."

Most of the women who were delegates are anxious to return because they realize what a difference their participation makes in choosing who will represent the political party to which they belong.

These women who are active members of the Democratic Party are enjoying their recently acquired power and will not let slip from their grasp too easily.

Burgin Pledges House Cleaning When Mayor

Former City Councillor Thomas S. Burgin, a candidate for mayor in the special June 11 election, said that if he is elected he will remove every major department head not protected by tenure.

"I make no ifs, ands or buts about this issue," he said. "Their removal from city management will give the city back to the people and the taxpayers."

His opponent, acting Mayor Leo E. Mullin, saw the issues differently.

"Is Quincy to be run by the Quincy Savings Bank or the small homeowner? That is the real issue in the present campaign," he said, noting that Burgin's father, Clarence E., is president of the bank.

Meanwhile, City Councillor William M. Edmonston and County Commissioner Russell T. Bates, who were defeated in the preliminary election for mayor, both endorsed Burgin.

A third beaten candidate, former Mayor Thomas J. McGrath, hinted that he might put together a last minute sticker campaign.

"I am not interested at present in a sticker candidate for mayor," he said.

"If, however, the thousands who are dissatisfied with the results of the recent primary believe that a sticker candidate is advisable I will give all the assistance I can to make such a candidate successful."

GALA LAUNCHING

Acting Mayor Mullin met with leaders of Quincy civic organizations to plan a gala festival for June 19 when the cruiser USS Quincy is scheduled to be launched at Bethlehem's Fore River Shipyard.

Mullin proposed that two murals of the frigate "John Adams" in action against the pirates of Tripoli and the French privateers in the Caribbean be given the USS Quincy as the city's gift.

Sketches of the proposed murals by Frank Vining Smith of Hingham were on exhibitions in the mayor's office at City Hall.

SHELLMAN DIES

Sam Shellman, the black man who ran for the City Council in 1932 on the slogan "The Council needs more color," collapsed in his Wollaston barber shop and died in an ambulance en route to City Hospital.

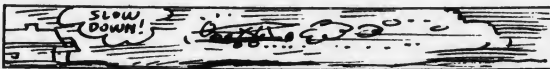

A native of Georgia, he lived in Quincy since 1911 with his last home at 458 Beale St., Wollaston.

CLOTHING STOLEN

Thieves used a 25-foot, 100-pound iron bar to pry open the skylight at the Donaher Clothing Store, 1559 Hancock St., and made off with clothing valued at $2,500. They stole the bar from L. Grossman and Sons yard.

QUINCY-ISMS

The square at the intersection of Sea St., and Pilgrim Blvd., Merrymount, was dedicated to the memory of the late City Councillor John J. Hurley, who suffered 18 shrapnel wounds with the Yankee Division in the World War. City Assessor James J. Flavin was certified by the Massachusetts Board of Real Estate Appraisers. The first case of diphtheria since Aug. 16, 1934 was reported in Quincy spoiling the city's hopes for a perfect record for a year. Mackerel was 4 cents a pound and lettuce was 7 cents a head at the Mohican Market, 19-23-25 Chestnut St. Governor's Councillor Joseph B. Grossman of Quincy returned from a fishing trip to Moosehead Lake where he was the guest of Gov. Brann of Maine. Sen. John D. Mackay opposed a bill that would require public and private school teachers to take oaths of allegiance to the state and federal constitutions. There was dancing on Memorial Day eve to the music of Fred Gerstel and his orchestra at the Merrymount Spa, 211 Sea St. The Bryan VFW Post criticized the Quincy and Wollaston Legion posts for conducting "Buddy Poppy" sales a week before the annual VFW sale. Hiram Walker whiskey was $1.79 a quart at the Elks Home Wine and Liquor Store, 1222 Hancock St. Asst. Postmaster Joyce reported little increase in mail in the city, indicating that Quincy had not yet been caught up in the chain letter craze. Some 600 Boy Scouts canvassed the city for 40,000 signatures on a petition calling for the use of Quincy granite in the replacement of the Quincy Adams railroad grade crossing. A survey by International City Managers showed that Quincy was one of only 17 cities in the nation to maintain pay scales for city employees during the current depression. "Go Into Your Dance," starring Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler, and "One New York Night," with Franchot Tone and Una Merkel, were playing at the Strand. Grace E. Murphy of Wollaston was re-elected chairman of the Norfolk County American Legion Auxiliary. Quincy borrowed $250,000 in tax anticipation notes from the National Shawmut Bank of Boston at .62 per cent interest. The 50-cent Tuesday special at Abbott's, 516 Adams St., was cube steak, delmonico potatoes, buttered carrots, rolls and butter, and ice cream.

The first airplane purchased by the U.S. government was called the Miss Columbia and was bought from the Wright brothers in 1909.

Woodward School To Add 6th Grade

The Woodward School for Girls will include a sixth grade next fall announces Rev. Keith Munson, chairman of the board of supervisors at the school.

Rev. Munson said the board voted at its meeting Tuesday to add that grade which will include not more than 25 students.

The action is being taken to coordinate Woodward's program with the new alignment in the Quincy schools, says Rev. Munson who is also a pastor of United First Parish Church.

"In the 1890's, there was a sixth grade at the school so this is not really setting a precedent," says Rev. Munson.

The hiring of staff, procuring of equipment and reorganizing of classroom spaces will begin immediately, and parents can begin making application for their daughters, he says.

The sixth grade will become part of the lower school which also includes grades seven and eight. The school also includes the ninth, 10th, 11th and 12th grades and currently has 120 students.

The matter of adequate space doesn't seem to be a problem according to Rev. Munson.

"We've spent time looking at the present space and it all seemed to fall into place quite well.

"We're also looking at the possibility of space in another building if it becomes necessary.

SENSITIVE TEETH

Q: If I have no cavities, why do my teeth hurt?

A: We all know that cavities can cause pain. But decay is only one of many possible causes of tooth pain.

Wearing down of the teeth, whether from an abrasive diet or overzealous toothbrushing, can cause sensitivity. So many receding gums caused by gum disease. Teeth may also become sensitive after being filled or cleaned.

Sensitivity is a problem: not only is it uncomfortable, but it can make proper cleaning impossible, and lack of cleanliness only makes the problem worse.

Sensitive teeth should be cleaned gently but thoroughly with a soft nylon toothbrush and a low-abrasion toothpaste. There are effective medicated cleansers made specifically for sensitive teeth. Severe cases can be treated with fluorides and other desensitizing agents by the dentist.

Why teeth become sensitive is only partly understood, but that hasn't prevented effective treatment of this uncomfortable condition.

Found Dead In Maine Cabin

Funerals Thursday For 2 Quincy Youths

Funerals will be held today (Thursday) for two Quincy youths who succumbed to refrigerator gas fumes early Sunday while on a Maine lake fishing trip.

A Mass will be celebrated for Gregory G. McKinnon, 17, of 26 Hawthorne St., at 9 a.m. in Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck.

A Mass will be held for Eric A. Swanson, 18, of 81 Assabet Rd. at 11 a.m. at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount.

The two friends were found dead in their beds in a log cabin on the shore of Gilman Pond in North New Portland.

A third member of the fishing party, Robert Cavanaugh, 18, of Woodbrier Rd., may have been saved from death when a neighbor pounded on the cabin door Monday to make sure the youths were all right.

Cavanaugh was taken to Reddington-Fairview Hospital in Skowhegan where he was reported in fair condition.

A memorial observance will be held for young Swanson at next week's Quincy High School graduation exercises.

Swanson was to have graduated with honors this year. McKinnon was to have graduated from Boston College High School. Cavanaugh is a senior at Quincy High School.

The fishing trip had been planned by the youths as a breather between high school and working this summer toward college expenses.

The trio left Quincy last Wednesday to go to the cabin owned by Swanson's grandfather, James Black of Quincy. A McKinnon family member said they had been at the lake several times in the past.

Somerset County authorities said the deaths occurred when the refrigerator pilot light went out, allowing gas to seep into the cabin.

McKinnon had planned to attend the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y. Swanson had been accepted at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Cavanaugh was awakened by Tyler Brown, 22, the lake's only year-round resident, who had gone to the cabin at the behest of Black who had become concerned for the youths' safety.

According to Brown, Cavanaugh had lost track of the passage of time, thinking it was still Saturday or Sunday, when he was awakened. He did not know his friends were dead.

'Telling Your Story' At Squantum First Church

"Telling Your Story" was the title of the pastor's sermon and the theme of the service recently at the First Church of Squantum.

All the music during the service had to do with "telling", also. Hymns were "We've A Story To Tell To The Nations," "Tell Me The Old, Old Story" and "Fling Out The Banner."

For the anthem, the Youth Choir and Chancel Choir combined to sing, "Go and Tell John" by Lloyd Fautsch. Mary Ruth Scott directed.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, taught the children the hymn, "Tell Me The Stories of Jesus."

Text for the sermon was "But rise and stand upon your feet; for I have appeared to you for this purpose, to appoint you to serve and bear witness to the things in which you have seen me and to those in which I will appear to you. . ." Acts 26:16.

This year, the pastor's sermons have been taken from the Books of Acts.

Greeters for the morning were Jennie Preston and Isabelle Preston.

The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Gretchen Bumpus,

$1.3 Million Fine Arts Complex Underway At ENC

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held recently for a new Fine Arts complex on the Eastern Nazarene College campus, Wollaston.

The new structure will house the Departments of Music and Communication Arts which are now in the only remaining frame structure that was part of the original campus.

The new building, named for Edith F. Cove, will be located on Wendell Ave., opposite the athletic field.

Plans for the building were approved at a special March meeting of the trustees. Although original plans called for attachment to the present Edward S. Mann Student Center, the developing needs of the fine arts area mandated a larger building than originally planned which could be separately located.

The interior of the building, planned jointly by the two occupying departments, will include an auditorium seating nearly 500 with full stage area for dramatic production, a large rehearsal room, a music-communication arts library, faculty offices, practice room for piano, organ, and instruments, classroom facilities, a teaching darkroom and some radio-TV studio facilities.

Preliminary estimates indicate construction will cost approximately $1.3 million with needed furnishings totaling an additional $50,000 to $100,000.

In naming the fine arts center in memory of Professor Edith F. Cove, "The Board of Trustees," according to President Stephen W. Nease, "recognized the service of a dedicated professor who was instrumental in establishing the college's music department, and whose life touched many students and community friends for Jesus Christ."

Pres. Nease commended the board for the way members "responded admirably to a developing understanding of the need for such a facility and willingly increased the scope of the project."

Construction should be completed by late fall this year.

Mothers' Cooperative Officer Nominations

Nominations of officers will be taken Wednesday, May 26 at the next meeting of the Quincy Mothers' Cooperative to be held at the Lincoln-Hancock School

Condon Proposes Board Of Health

Quincy Sun a few weeks ago as saying, "I don't think it's my job to reflect the community. I think it is."

"A board of health comprised of members of the community would be subject to ongoing input from the community."

Mrs. Condon said she feels Solicitor Golden will rule against McKee, citing the law which says "said commissioner shall devote his entire time to the performance of his duties and the supervision of the employees of the department."

"If the mayor is put in the position of having Dr. McKee resign, then the mayor will have an opportunity to look in other directions," she said. "I propose a board of health."

Mayor McCauley said he agreed that Mrs. Condon's proposal is worth looking into.

"That's an option to look at if Dr. McKee does not hold the job," he said. "I agree that a number of functions are administrative but I wonder if we need a doctor in the job by law."

He noted also that replacing the commissioner with a board of health would call for a major revision in the license board, on which the commissioner is one of five members.

"The License Board would have to be revamped," said Mrs. Condon. "But we have a lot of options. We would have to look at communities our size and see what they are doing."

Dr. McKee denied in an interview with The Sun that there is anything unusual about his maintaining a private practice while serving as health commissioner.

As far as he knows, he said, his predecessors in the job all had their own practices.

"I know Dr. (Alfred) Mahoney did," he said.

Dr. McKee said he is not sure what he will do if he is not allowed to continue his private practice.

"I'd have to think about it," he said, "and go over it with my financial advisers. I have ongoing tuitions and so forth."

"The commissioner's salary is not within the range of what an average physician makes and I don't consider myself average."

Dr. McKee says he would rate his job performance as "excellent." He said he works 110 to 120 hours pwer week, with about 40 going into the Health Department, although not necessarily at the commissioner's office.

Talking to groups such as the Visiting Nurses and Kiwanis Club, reading material on public health and government documents and attending conferences are among the activities that also fill his workdays.

"These are things the commissioner should be doing," he says, "Not sitting in the office looking at the ceiling.

As far as the issue of two jobs is concerned, Dr. McKee said that it is the "mayor's privilege" to delve into it.

Depending on the city solicitor's ruling, it will be "up to the mayor to replace me or not," he said.

Dr. McKee was named commissioner in 1979 to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Samuel Solomon, who resigned due to poor health. He was reappointed to a five year term Jan. 6, 1981, by then-Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

Sewer Use Plan Would Divide Tax Payers Into 3 Classes

Quincy property owners would be divided into three categories for purposes of paying for sewer use under a plan advanced by the McCauley administration and now under consideration by the City Council.

Small commercial and residential sewer users, which make up 76 per cent of the system use, would be billed as part of the tax rate, the way they are now.

Seven major users -- General Dynamics, City Hospital, Procter and Gamble, Raytheon, Boston Gear, Jordan Marsh and Boston Edison -- would be billed on the basis of water use. They represent 19 per cent of use.

Tax exempts, including churches, schools, veterans organizations and others, also would be billed on the basis of water use. They make up 5 per cent of the system use.

The Council's Public Works Committee listened to details of the proposal from Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson for an hour and a half Monday night and adjourned without making a recommendation.

Anderson urged them to hold another meeting with all due haste since the city cannot receive badly needed federal funds for its antiquated sewer system until it has a user charge in place.

He noted the urgent need for the Fort Square pumping station in South Quincy, a $2.8 million project that is to be paid for mostly with federal money. Quincy's share is only 10 per cent.

"We are 40th on a priority list of 40," Anderson told the committee. "If we don't move forward in the future we will close ourselves out."

"We are not eligible for federal funds at this time because we have no ordinance."

Anderson said the proposed rate for sewer use charged to residential and small commercial users would be $1.55 per thousand valuation.

Tax exempts would be charged 71 cents per 100 cubic feet of discharge.

Major industrial users would be charged $1.55 per thousand valuation and $1.05 per 100 cubic feet of discharge with the first charge returned as an abatement.

Anderson said that under the plan the public works commissioner would have the authority to set the rates.

He said he is not sure whether the users will be billed as part of their tax bills, or on a separate piece of paper with the tax bills, or by separate notification.

"The best information we have," said Anderson, "is that we have in this plan met all the specifications that the federal government has asked for."

Charging the tax exempts a sewer use fee, he said, would net an estimated $116,000 to the city.

Councillor James A. Sheets raised the question of whether or not the city should categorize taxpayers according to their use of a certain service.

"Could we then not use categories for a school tax according to who has children in schools?" he asked. "Are we opening ourselves up to this?"

"I've never canvassed the law in that area," said Asst. City Solicitor Dean Nicastro, "but I would suspect that the current ad valorem school charge program has been found constitutional."

"You may not be opening up something for challenge as you are perhaps giving some ammunition to someone who wants to proceed to challenge the school charges."

DIET CENTER

Salt can have both a serious and a dangerous effect on the body. Research indicates that high sodium (salt) intake is one of the major causes of hypertension (high blood pressure) and hardening of the arteries.

Even if you have never used a salt shaker, your body is receiving more salt than it needs. While the body requires only 1,100 to 3,300 mg. of salt per day, the average person consumes 2,200 to 11,000 mg. from a typical diet of canned and processed foods.

Diet Center believes you can lower your sodium intake, and therefore your chances of hypertension by getting "back to basics" and eating natural foods. An average diet of foods cooked in their natural state yields 800 mg. or less of sodium per day, while a diet of processed, canned and prepacked foods yields 10,000 mg. or more of sodium per day. Processors use salt for seasoning and as a preservative. Diet Center suggests that if you use processed foods, leave the salt shaker off the table!

Spring Cleanup Dazzles Southwest Quincy

"Hopefully," said Jane Ford, "this will become an annual event." Mrs. Ford, who is executive director of Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, was surveying the results of three and a half hours of concerted cleanup work by residents of Southwest Quincy.

From 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. some 200 of them toiled up and down Copeland and Water Sts., cleaning up sidewalks and yards of residents and merchants plus three parks and the Lincoln Hancock School grounds.

Then they adjourned to Kincaide Park for a barbeque and listened to words of commendation from Mayor Francis X. McCauley, City Councillor James A. Sheets and President Charles A. Pearce of the Quincy Savings Bank.

"As a board member of Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, I am impressed with the enthusiasm of the residents of Southwest Quincy," said Pearce, whose bank donated T-shirts for all the volunteer workers.

The project was organized by Jean LaCoste, also a board member of QNHHS and chairman of its Community Relations Committee. The area was decorated with brightly colored balloons donated by the Hancock Bank.

The QNHHS office at 266 Water St. was the headquarters for activities in the southern end of the cleanup area and the Southwest Community Center at 372 Granite St. was the center for the northern end.

DETER THE BURGLAR

Burglary is the most common crime in America, therefore it's important that everyone safeguard his home or apartment. There are a number of devices available that can help deter burglars.

The most important of these devices are locks. Experts say that most locks provide little protection because they can be picked or jimmied (forced) easily. Locks with deadbolts or - deadbolts, however, provide good protection because these features make a burglar's task more difficult. If there is a window in or near the door, use a door lock that can be opened only with a key from both inside and out. Otherwise, the burglar could break the glass, reach inside and open the lock.

The most likely time for a burglar to strike is when your home is empty. You can give it that "lived in" look by using inexpensive timing devices that turn houselights on and off at various times of the night.

Quincy, North In Finale Under The Lights

The Quincy and North Quincy baseball teams will clash under the lights at 7:30 tonight (Thursday) at Adams Field in the final regularly scheduled game for both teams.

North Quincy, which had lost six of its first seven games, came back to win three out of five and last week walloped Newton North, 12-5.

Jim Kelley pitched a six-hitter and struck out eight and also aided his own cause with three singles and four RBI.

John Koslowski had two hits and two RBI and Jack Bolster drove in two runs with two hits.

The Raiders then lost to Waltham, 8-5, as Waltham's Wayne Bilardi hit a three-run homer to break a 2-2 tie in a five-run third inning.

North had taken a 2-0 lead in the first inning.

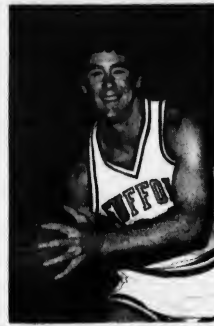

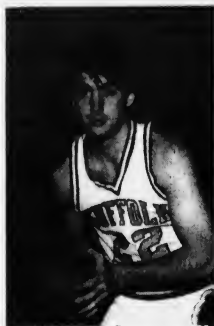

Chris Bunker had three hits and Koslowski and Dwayne Wilcoxon two each for the Raiders. Paul Earle was the losing pitcher.

Quincy had a bad week as it bowed to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 7-5, and to Newton North, 10-9.

In the loss to Newton Bob Mudge, John Balsano and Bob Reidy all hit two-run homers for the Presidents.

Newton jumped off to a 10-1 lead after three innings and barely held off the charging Presidents. Jim DiPietro drove in the final two runs with a bases loaded single in the final inning but Quincy couldn't push the tying run across.

Quincy's Jim Bandera continues to lead the Suburban League in batting with a .550 average and also is among the top pitchers with a 3-0 record.

Undefeated North Girls In E-Mass Meet Saturday

The unbeaten North Quincy girls' track team, winner of seven straight meets following an opening day tilt with Weymouth South, will compete in the Eastern Mass. championship meet Saturday at Lawrence High Stadium.

Last year the Raiderettes finished a close second to their jinx team, Falmouth, and must face the same team in Saturday's meet.

Coach Lou Tozzi's North girls finished their Suburban League season Tuesday against Quincy and were favored to finish 8-0-1 in the league.

Last week North defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 68-50, for its seventh win in a row, as Deirdre Donovan was a triple winner and set a school record of 16-11 in the long jump, and Michele Millane remained undefeated in the shot put and discus.

Donovan won the 100 in 11.8 and also won the 220 in 26.4 with Chris Francis third, Mary Kate Kennedy won the 440 in 59.8 with Eileen Crehan third, Sheila Barrett won the mile in 5:19.8 with Linda Kennedy second, Tracey Corrigan was second and Meg Leary third in the two-mile and Lauren O'Rourke was third in the hurdles.

Donovan won the long jump with Francis third, Karen Crehan was second and O'Rourke third in the high jump, Eileen Crehan won the javelin at 96-7, Millane won the shotput at 40-6 with Chris Donovan third and Millane won the discus at 119-4 with Lindenfzler third.

The North mile relay team of Lindenfzler, Janet Zdanowski, Reynolds and Mary Kate Kennedy won in 4:22.

Earlier in the week the Raiderettes rolled over Waltham, 95-23, with Donovan again a triple winner and Millane and Lindenfzler double winners.

Donovan won the 100 in 11.9 with Francis third, Donovan took the 220 in 26.1 with Kristin Howard third, Lindenfzler won the 440 in 61.9 with Reynolds second, Bernadette Murphy won the 880 in 2:37 with Liz Toland second, Leary won the mile in 5:53.1 with Kelly Coutts third, Corrigan won the two-mile with Nancy Wildes second and Chris Comeau third and Maria McGurl won the hurdles with O'Rourke second and Howard third.

Donovan won the long jump at 16-1, O'Rourke won the high jump at 4-6 with Howard second, Millane won the shot put at 40 feet with Chris Donovan second, Lindenfzler won the discus at 85-8 and Millane won the javelin at 102-0 with Zdanowski second.

Both North relay teams won, the 440 team of Francis, Lindenfzler, Zdanowski and McGurl winning in 54.8 and the mile team of Murphy, Joanne Zdanowski, Morris and Reynolds winning in 4:37.8.

Quincy Tennis Team Seeks 12th At North

The Quincy boys' tennis team, with only three returnees from last spring, sports an 11-3 record.

The losses are to Newton North and Brookline, teams which the Presidents have never beaten in Coach Wayne Hamilton's eight-year tenure.

The Presidents finish their Suburban League season tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 at North Quincy.

Quincy lost for the second time to Newton North, 4-1, last week, and is one game behind Newton (12-2) in the league.

Gary Durante won his 14th straight match to remain undefeated for Quincy but that was the only victory for the Presidents.

"We never beat Brookline and Newton, but hopefully this is the year we will," Hamilton said early in the season. "They are always the league powerhouses and you just about start the season off with four losses."

Hamilton has done a lot of juggling this spring and it apparently has paid off.

Freshman Steve Durante has been alternating between third singles and doubles, teaming up with Billy McCarthy for a successful doubles team.

Another solid performer has been Tony O'Malley, one of the three veterans, who missed much of last year due to injuries but has had an excellent season in the first singles spot.

"Tony is one of the two best players I've ever had," Hamilton said. O'Malley's two losses were against Newton.

Matt Tobin, another returnee, has been playing well, but the most impressive player has been Gary Durante, the third veteran.

"He's our captain and our team leader," Hamilton said. "He keeps our team together. He's a great kid and one of the finer persons I've coached, which makes life a lot easier as a coach. There's a really good mixture on this team and potentially it's one of the best teams I've had."

Others who have helped the Presidents to their fine record are Matt O'Brien, Peter Papile and Steve Klayman.

O'Malley qualified for the South Sectional tournament and last weekend advanced to the finals before bowing to Howard Schwartz of Brookline, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1.

North Boys Roll Over Waltham

The young, sophomore-dominated North Quincy boys' track team, which rolled over Waltham last week for its second Suburban League win (2-4), finished its league season Tuesday against Quincy.

Bart Petracca's Raiders, who should be strong the next few years, had little trouble topping Waltham, 94-51, as Kevin Wood, Rich Palma and Terry Stark were double winners.

Wood won the 100 in 11.2 with Richie Stevens third, Garth Petracca won the 220 in 26.1, Stark won the 440 in 55.6 with Tom Kearney second, Jim Kennedy won the 880 in 2:06 with Jeff Stryker third, Rick O'Brien won the mile in 4:46, Paul Seeger won the two-mile, Palma won the low hurdles in 40.2 and Jaime Paz was third in the high hurdles.

Wood won the high jump at 5-9, Stark won the long jump at 18-9 with Kearney second and Petracca third, Palma won the triple jump with Stryker second, Mike Panaro won the javelin at 144-4, Bob Pound won the shot put at 46-10 with Paul Ciarella second and Stevens won the discus at 122 feet.

North Quincy won both relays, the 440 team of Stevens, Palma, Dave Cuervels and Petracca winning in 50.2 and the mile team of Stryker, Stark, Kearney and Kennedy winning in 3:53.

Riggs Quincy Football Captain

Kevin Riggs last week was elected captain of next fall's Quincy High football squad by his teammates.

Riggs, a six-foot, 185-pound linebacker and offensive end, was a two-year starter last season.

Coach Tom Fitzgerald announced that the Presidents will play Everett and Fitchburg next fall in place of Weymouth South and Weymouth North, who have moved from the Suburban League to the Old Colony League.

Thus, Quincy's rivalry with Weymouth is ended after many years of interesting competition.

Kickers Frustrate E. Bridgewater

The North Quincy Kickers entry in the South Shore Soccer League Div. I (19 and under) evened its record at 2-2 with an impressive 4-1 victory over East Bridgewater.

North turned in a fine two-way team effort and scored first on a corner kick when George Dolbec hit a nice cross and Jim Boudreau headed it past the Eastie goal keeper. E. Bridgewater tied it just before the half ended.

North Quincy dominated the second half and the tie-breaking goal was almost a carbon copy of the first as Dolbec hooked a perfect corner kick in front of the goal and this time Jamie Paz headed it by the keeper. The barrage continued as Boudreau scored his second goal and the final goal came when John Joseph took a rebound off a North shot and from 17 yards out drilled a shot into the far right corner of the goal.

The play of North Quincy fullbacks frustrated E. Bridgewater all day. Bob Flynn, Alex Coutts, Chris Harrington and Greg Dibella all had fine games and goalie Dave Marchem came through whenever he was called upon for a save.

North had earlier defeated Holbrook, 6-4, as Mike Bourikas had a hat trick and Craig Orrock, Joe LaPierre and Boudreau had one goal each. Rob McElaney played well in goal and Peter McGillicuddy, Dave Brown, Steve Golden and Mike Cocce all played well.

Mayor Promises Spray Warning Parents Protest Sevin 'Drenching'

By TOM HENSHAW

There are three more days of Sevin spraying for gypsy moths in Quincy and Mayor Francis X. McCauley has promised that residents will be warned loudly before the truck enters their neighborhoods.

The promise was made to a group of Wollaston residents who descended on the mayor's office Tuesday to protest that the truck had sprayed, even "drenched" their children with the controversial chemical.

McCauley also promised them that he would confer with Forestry Supt. John Koepler and the city employee who is licensed to spray to discuss the incident in the Safford St. area last Thursday.

Three boys who were following the spray truck on their bicycles were doused heavily with Sevin, a chemical that some claim is hazardous to health. The boys showed no immediate ill effects.

The mother of one of the boys, Mrs. Nancy Jolly of Safford St., led the delegation of 11 women, three men and 17 children to the meeting with McCauley Tuesday afternoon.

She told the mayor that the man who was on the back of the spray truck saw the youngsters following the vehicle but did nothing to warn them away.

She suggested that the city have a car precede the spray truck with a bull horn warning people to get in their homes because the Sevin truck is coming. McCauley embraced the proposal warmly.

Ross Edwards, of Merrymount, who has a doctorate in cell biology and works at Harvard Medical School, suggested that the city should use a biological, rather than chemical, control for the moths.

A woman identified only as Mrs. Daley of Southwest Quincy charged that the city had violated all its own guidelines for the use of Sevin and failed to notify residents of the streets to be sprayed.

She called it "gross negligence."

"Let's have a full scale investigation," she urged. "Let's not finish the spraying."

McCauley explained to the group that he had had only one call opposing the use of Sevin prior to last Thursday's incident.

He said he had been assured by Koepler and Public Health Commissioner Dr. Robert McKeogh that Sevin is not hazardous to health if it is used properly.

"I relied on the people I have to rely on," he said.

He indicated that he still feels that Sevin is safe to use but he apologized for the spraying of the youngsters.

"Kids are kids," he said. "They will be attracted by anything that is new and unusual but there was no excuse for it. I told Koepler that his people used poor judgement."

The mayor said he sees no problem with finishing the spray program but, he added, there will be no spraying between 7 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. when kids are going to school, nor after 1 p.m. when most get out.

There has been no spraying since the Thursday incident on Safford St., mostly because of the rainy weather which renders spraying ineffective.

Tax Money Flows Gently Into City

Fresh new tax money is starting to fill the city's coffers, much to the relief and delight of Mayor Francis X. McCauley and Tax Collector Robert E. Foy III.

"We're getting good play already," said McCauley Tuesday, the first working day following the massive mailing of nearly 23,000 final real estate tax bills for fiscal 1982 on Friday.

The due date for payment is Monday, June 28, but Tuesday morning there were long lines of early payers at the window of the tax collector's office in the new City Hall.

By the close of business Tuesday, several hundred thousand dollars was in the till.

McCauley urged Quincy taxpayers to pay their bills as soon as possible so that the city will not have to resort to any more short term borrowing just to meet day-to-day expenses.

He also urged early payment of 1,200 personal property tax bills, the last of which went out Tuesday, as well as water and auto excise tax bills before June 30.

The more money the city has in its treasury the stronger will be its financial position at the close of the fiscal year.

The new tax bills reflect the $205.60 tax rate recently approved by the State Department of Revenue for the current fiscal year ending June 30.

The final bills are considerably below the first ones that were mailed last fall since they were based on the previous year's tax rate which was $37 higher.

2 A.M. Closing Before License Board June 15

The Quincy License Board will again consider rolling back the closing hour of local liquor establishments from 2 to 1 a.m. at its June 15 meeting at 10 a.m., according to City Clerk John Gillis.

The controversial issue was last discussed at a public hearing May 11.

A vote was postponed until a full board would be present.

Police Chief Francis Finn was out for several weeks, but has since returned.

Indications are that the roll back will not be approved.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh, who appears to hold the deciding vote, has indicated that he will vote against the roll back.

Schools Close June 25

The school year ends for students and teachers in the Quincy Public Schools Friday, June 25.

Students will be dismissed at the end of the morning session. No lunches will be served.

Council May Name New Auditor Monday

Quincy may have a new auditor as early as next week.

Gov. Edward J. King signed a bill Friday authorizing the City Council to name an auditor and Council President John J. Lydon Jr. said the nominations for the job will be on Monday's Council agenda.

William Grindlay has been acting auditor since March, 1981, following the resignation of Charles L. Shea and there has been a mild dispute over who gets to name his successor.

For many years, the appointment has been the prerogative of the Council but someone discovered that it was really up to the mayor. The legislation signed by the governor corrects that.

Lydon said he will accept nominations for the post at Monday's meeting. The nominations, he said, will not be restricted to applicants whose resumes were screened by a Council committee.

"There are some new members of the Council who were not involved in the screening process," he said. "They may choose to nominate others who were not on the original list of applicants."

One of those who was not on the original list is Grindlay himself, who said last year that he was not interested in the post but has since changed his mind.

The leading candidate on the list is Robert E. Foy III, the current treasurer and tax collector.

Others who have been screened include:

Ronan J. Fitzpatrick, 265 Adams St., a principal accountant with the Boston School Committee; William McArdle, 19 Doyle Terrace, an auditor with the Internal Revenue Service; James Mullaney, 86 Sims Rd., an accountant; Robert Trahan, 143 Edgewater Drive, an examiner with the State Department of Revenue.

The auditor's job pays $34,884.

Lydon said at next Monday's meeting he will accept nominations and seconds and then the Council will vote for candidates, with five votes needed to win the post.

Vandals Desecrate Wollaston Nazarene Church

An upside down cross and the figures 666, symbol of devil worship, were spray painted sometime Saturday night on the front of the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

Pastor Russell Metcalfe attributed the act of vandalism to youngsters.

"I hope it's an isolated thing," he said. "I hope it's not organized. Houses of worship are being desecrated everywhere, it makes you feel heart sick to have this happen."

The incident occurred on the eve of commencement day at the adjoining Eastern Nazarene College and the offending characters were scraped off and the building repainted during the ceremonies.

Pastor Metcalfe described it as a "swastika-like thing, an attack on Christian worship. The figures 666 are from the book of Revelations signifying the mark of the anti-Christ.

"It's not very funny," said Pastor Metcalfe. "There are a small number of teenagers in the neighborhood who go around with the symbol 666 on their T-shirts. I hope it's not organized."

"We have been scrawled on before but not like this."

"If I could deliver any message to them it would be that we forgive them. But if I caught them I would be awfully, awfully angry. I'd want to know why?"

Donnelly: Don't Forget Americans Still In Vietnam

By JOHN NOONAN
The United States should never cease its efforts to find some 2,500 Americans still missing in action or taken prisoners of war during the Vietnam conflict.

That was the stirring plea of Congressman Brian J. Donnelly in his brief but poignant Memorial Day address delivered at Mt. Wollaston cemetery under misting clouds.

Donnelly was the keynote speaker at the annual exercises to honor Quincy's war dead at the cemetery war memorial podium.

The exercises and parade were sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council.

The rights of assembly, a friendly and free press, and freedom of speech are the fruits of the sacrifices of the American war dead. Donnelly told the gathering of veterans groups, civic officials, Gold Star mothers, some with misty eyes, and scores of young children with parents, relatives, and friends.

Donnelly paid tribute to the veterans of all wars who served and those who died in the cause of democracy.

"It is a sad commentary on our society that the last Monday of May is considered by many as the last day of a three-day holiday when it is really a privilege for us to be here today and set aside this time to honor these dead patriots and heroes," said

Donnelly.

"You honor yourselves when you honor the memory of these departed veterans."

He noted that the United States is not a perfect nation, that it is not without its problems, its divisions, but that it is a nation worth giving one's life for.

He also paid tribute to the many Gold Star mothers present whose sons and daughters had made the supreme sacrifice in World War II, Korea, and, in particular, the Vietnam conflict.

In an interview with The Quincy Sun, following the exercises, Donnelly expanded on his plea that the United States government should go all out in its pursuit to find or free the 2,500 young Americans whose whereabouts in Vietnam are unknown.

He said that periodically we are getting additional information and reports concerning those missing in action or being held prisoners in Laos. He cited the recent recovery of four more American bodies as a result of the incessant intervention of one American Vietnam veterans organization.

The U.S. must not, and, should never, stop investigating until all those so-listed as missing or being held prisoners are accounted for, he said.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley also spoke briefly at the exercises and called attention to a new scroll hanging in the new City Hall annex. The scroll was dedicated Sunday to honor the 1,700 Quincy residents who served in the Vietnam war.

John M. Gillis was Chairman for the memorial parade and exercises. Thomas McDonald of the Bryan VFW Post was master of ceremonies.

City Pays Tribute

'Vietnam Vets Contributions Often Ignored'

By JOHN NOONAN

The many contributions made to today's society by Vietnam veterans are often forgotten, or ignored. Frank Brillo, Quincy Point wounded Vietnam veteran, told an overflow audience at City Hall Sunday at the unveiling of a scroll honoring 1,700 Quincy veterans of that war.

"We are here today to observe Quincy's Vietnam Veterans Day and to dedicate a scroll to all Quincy residents who served during the Vietnam war," Brillo said.

"Because it was such a painful period for all Americans, we are tempted to want to put the Vietnam war out of our minds. But, it is important that we remember honestly and with humility. It is important, too, that as we do today, we must remember those who answered their nation's call with full measure of their valor and loyalty.

He said that acknowledgment should be bestowed upon the majority of the Vietnam veterans who still bear their wounds, both physical and mental, and have managed to fit back in the mainstream of American life.

Veterans who left cities, just like Quincy, as young boys, not fully understanding what Vietnam was all about, have returned as men and still quite frequently do not understand that war, Brillo said.

"These men were able to pick up their lives and become valuable citizens. The contributions these men have made to society on all levels is often times forgotten, or ignored. This is one of the tragic stories of Vietnam," Brillo said.

Brillo spent 10 months in combat during the Vietnam war in 1967. He was wounded in action and received the Purple Heart and other military citations. Brillo is former assistant director of recreation in Quincy.

The scroll containing the names of the 1,700 Quincy veterans who served in the Vietnam war, including 42 war dead, will hang permanently in the main foyer of the new City Hall.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said the scroll will serve as a constant reminder to all who see it of the many sacrifices made by Quincy veterans in that war.

The 42 members of the armed forces from Quincy killed in action during that war are listed on the scroll as follows:

Takes Issue With Councillor Condon

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Quincy, Massachusetts, city of two great Presidents - and Joanne Condon. Yes, perhaps my wording is a bit too harsh, but then isn't Councillor Condon's every utterance. In fact, every time I read the papers Mrs. Condon is incessantly criticizing some faction of our city government.

This week the victim is Health Commissioner Dr. Robert McKeogh. The crime - the Councillor charges that "the health department has gotten out of the business of directing health services, which called for a medical doctor." So what does this mean? According to Mrs. Condon, perhaps the city would be better off with an administrator and not a medical doctor. My question to Mrs. Condon - what's wrong with a person who can perform both functions? (As Mrs. Condon has not provided any information to back her charges that the Health Commissioner is not performing his duties up to par.) Moreover, she fails to comprehend how a hard-working man can handle more than one job. Perhaps, and with all due respect to the Councillor, if she spent a little less time criticizing the performance of others, she would realize that in these times of economic hardships many men and women work more than one job.

The problem with Councillor Condon's argument is that it lacks both direction and substance! The use of such sophistry to take haphazard stabs at other city officials is not effective government. But the Councillor does not stop with the Health Commissioner; rather, according to Mrs. Condon, "the License Board would have to be revamped." Sounds to me as if Mrs. Condon has a vendetta against those gentlemen who dared vote down her personal recommendation to force all liquor establishments to close at 1 a.m. On the same issue, the newest addition to the Condon Regime, Mayor McCauley, seems to have trouble distinguishing between "the public interest" and his own conceptions (or misconceptions, if you will) of the public wellbeing - contending that the Licensing Board members recently made decisions that were not in the "public interest."

As a firm believer in both subtlety and discretion in politics (as well as business), I am always leery of headline-seeking witchhunters. For as we should have learned from history, particularly the 1950's, words without substance - political headhunting - can only undermine our democratic system. Moreover, further apathetic appeasement on the part of the public, and strategic avoidance on the part of compromising politicians can only lead to more of the same talk. All talk.

Name Missing From Vietnam War Scroll

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The announcement was made last week in your paper that on Sunday, May 30, the City of Quincy was to honor all their citizens who served in Vietnam by the unveiling of a scroll to hang in the New City Hall, listing all their names.

I attended the ceremonies with my family in anticipation of seeing my brother's name on that scroll.

You can imagine our dismay when the scroll was unveiled and the name of Richard J. Malvesti, who served in Vietnam 1969 - 1970, was omitted. Richard is presently serving his country as a Major in the U.S. Army.

Who is responsible for this previous oversight?

Seeks Help For Perry Beach Cleanup

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I'm a 16 year old Houghs Neck resident who is concerned about our beaches, Perry Beach in particular. The pumping station adds to the mess. You can't walk two feet without seeing some kind of debris. It is really disgusting. Now they want to add to the mess. They want to make the pumping station into Nut Island

Treatment Plant.

My mom and I have started a cleanup Perry Beach campaign. We are looking for support from Mayor McCauley. We are hopeful that Mayor McCauley will join our campaign. He lives on Perry Beach as well as I do. So far all the people have been very supportive and hopefully Mayor McCauley and the Quincy Sun will be just as supportive.

Billy Graham Crusade

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Considering that Billy Graham will shortly be holding crusade meetings at Nickerson Field over by Boston University, I think it would be proper to ask God to bless Boston and the Quincy and the entire South Shore with the Holy Spirit of revival.

We probably should apply all the promises of Holy Writ to Quincy Ave., Southern Artery, Washington St., Billings Rd., and Hancock St.

God bless all involved in our salvation history.

Pay Hikes, Elect Judges?

Former Superior Court Judge Henry H. Chmielinski, Jr. thinks Judges should be making a lot more money than they do now.

And, maybe electing them instead of having the governor appoint them, might not be a bad idea.

In the long run, he thinks, the quality of justice would improve because the quality of judges meeting it out would improve, too because better lawyers would be attracted to Judgeship.

CHMIELINSKI

Chmielinski, a former Quincy attorney who recently hung up his black robe after 20 years in the superior court, is now running for district attorney in Plymouth County.

So, he wouldn't benefit from a pay raise nor be affected by elections of Judges.

How much should judges be paid? He think $85,000 — or about twice as much as they make now — might be a good figure. Says he:

"When I went on the bench, I was making considerable money and were it not for the fact that I have independent means, I could not have afforded to stay on that bench for more than one year.

"I had six children to educate and everyone of them has gone to private schools and colleges.

"It speaks for itself. You either have to have independent means and be wealthy enough to afford the job or else have been so incompetent in your practice that the emolument amounts to a promotion rather than a demotion.

"When I went on the bench, the salary was $26,000 a year. This was 20 years ago. If my salary had been adjusted as far as terms of purchasing power is concerned today I'd be making $87,000 a year to keep up with inflation.

"There isn't a capable lawyer practicing today who has appeared before me in the last three or four years whose income is not in six figures.

"We'd like to get judges around 40 or so who are going to be around for a while. To ask them to step down from $150,000 to $200,000 a year to a job that pays $42,500 with no amenities and no support whatsoever, is asking too much.

"In the 20 years that I was on the bench, I never had a secretary. I conducted all my correspondence in longhand. I wrote my decisions in longhand and had them typed. The library I've had to buy myself."

And, on electing judges:

"I think the plan has some merit. Now a judge is appointed for life pending good behavior. However, there are some judges who continuously seem to have a faculty for making bad decisions. There's no mechanism for removing them because they haven't really done anything reprehensible.

"In Missouri, a judge is appointed by the governor and serves for a period of say, eight years. At the end of that time he goes before the electorate for either approval or disapproval.

"The bar associations become actively involved in those elections. They either endorse the judge or fail to endorse him and failure to endorse almost inevitably leads to defeat. It's a good check on judges.

"Every system has its faults. Appointments for life theoretically relieves you from any political pressure. But you're stuck with him for the rest of his life."

UNsung HERO of that CPR incident on Hancock St. involving a 68-year-old Brookline man the other day was Quincy Police Lt. Donald Riley.

RILEY

Riley and Lt. Walter Fraser were in the area when the call went out that Isaiah Gordon of Brookline had suffered a heart attack at the wheel of his car.

While Norwell Patrolman Robert Clyde, who was returning from a stolen car chase, applied chest massage, Riley gave Gordon mouth-to-mouth resuscitation that revived him.

After all those tiring situation "comedies" and other silly junk being served up — and repeated over and over on Boston's commercial TV stations, Ch. 2 is a refreshing oasis.

Friday Hearing To Decide Health Commissioner's Future

By TOM HENSHAW

A hearing will be held tomorrow (Friday) at 10 a.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall on the future of Dr. Robert McKeogh as the city's public health commissioner.

City Solicitor William Golden ruled last Friday that Dr. McKeogh is in violation of state law by conducting a private practice that prevents him from working fulltime as health commissioner.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley asked Dr. McKeogh to resign at a meeting in the mayor's office, also attended by McKeogh's attorney, Richard W. Barry. McKeogh refused to resign.

McCauley said his administrator Arthur Foley will conduct the hearing at which Dr. McKeogh will be asked to show cause why he should not be fired from the $37,180 a year post.

"I want to give Dr. McKeogh a chance to present his case formally before I make a decision," said McCauley. "I would like to hear what he says."

Dr. McKeogh said he would have no comment prior to the hearing.

McCauley said a two-page report by Golden informed him that McKeogh was in violation of state law by conducting a private practice when he was supposed to be serving as health commissioner.

"You have cause to remove him," Golden's report informed the mayor.

McCauley conceded that he had clashed twice with Dr. McKeogh as a member of the License Board over video games and 2 a.m. liquor licenses but, he said, that played no role in initiating the action against the commissioner.

Last week in an interview with The Quincy Sun, City Councillor Joanne Condon said she plans to propose at the June 7 Council meeting that the commissioner's post be abolished and replaced by a board of health.

McCauley said the matter of Dr. McKeogh's private practice was brought to his attention by the Patriot Ledger in response to a telephone call complaining about the doctor's outside work.

"The statute is clear," said McCauley. "It calls for a public health commissioner who devotes his full time to the city, supervising the department from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m."

"Dr. McKeogh's problem is that he is conducting a private practice four or five days a week."

McCauley said he did not give Dr. McKeogh the option of giving up his practice.

"I don't want to have to act as a policeman," he said. "I don't want to give him, say, six months to wind his practice down. The cleanest way was for him to resign."

"Dr. McKeogh had always been cooperative with this office. Sometimes you can't get him when you call the Health Department but in my experience he has always called back quickly."

"I don't mean that he has to beat his desk every minute of the day, but he should be in the city on city business during working hours."

McCauley said when he and his aides were making up the fiscal 1983 budget "it was discussed whether or not we should abandon the Health Department entirely. It is down to 13 people."

The mayor said if Dr. McKeogh is ousted, he anticipates some difficulty in finding another doctor to serve in the post.

"The qualifications are such that we might have trouble getting someone," he said. "The pay is not a lot of money for a doctor whose practice returns three or four times as much."

McCauley Seeking New Personnel Head

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is preparing specifications to fill the $24,450 post of city personnel director which will be open June 30 when Mary McGinty retires.

The Civil Service post will be filled for a while by a provisional employee, said McCauley, until an exam can be set up to qualify a permanent one.

That may take a year or two, he said.

The mayor said he is also considering the removal of the personnel director's job from under the Civil Service umbrella, since it is a department head like many other appointive posts.

He said notification will be posted in City Hall and advertised in local papers for the successor to Mrs. McGinty, who has worked for the city for 28 years and for personnel for 23 of them.

Two of the qualifications for the job will be a college bachelors degree and three years of experience in personnel work. Resumes will be handled by McCauley's aide, Arthur Foley.

Steak To Cost More Points On Ration Table

Most beef steaks went up by three red points, beef roasts by two points and stew beef and hamburger by one point in Quincy markets as the official table for consumer rationing point values was announced for June.

Top round steak reached a new high of 12 points per pound while porterhouse steak was 11 points, boneless rump roast 10 points, hamburger six points and tripe one point.

Evaporated and condensed milk and several varieties of cheeses were added to the chart at one red point per pound by edict of the Office of Price Administration (OPA).

Meanwhile, a number of consumers complained to local newspapers that some stores were charging as much as 10 cents a pound for hard-to-get potatoes, a clear violation of OPA price ceilings.

Spaghetti and macaroni were selling for 12 cents a pound at the Stop and Shop supermarket on Southern Artery.

On the non-food front, stamp A-5 in the gasoline rationing book was good for three gallons until July 21, and Stamp 17 from War Ration Book No. 1 was good for the purchase of one pair of shoes.

Police Chief John J. Avery instructed his men to check the registration numbers on cars at the Fore River-Providence New England War Workers League baseball game at Adams Field and report them to the OPA.

Officers Harry Pitts and Frank Schaller took some razzing from fans who noted that they left the motor running on their cruiser while they went from car to car, a possible official misuse of gas.

City Councillor Christian A. Burkard disclosed that Quincy firefighters had voted 107 to 21 to give up their summer vacations in order to help Chief William J. Sands through the manpower shortage.

Kincaides Considers Move To Sears

The Kincaide furniture store, long a fixture at 1609 Hancock St., is considering a move down the street into the much larger Sears building, which has been vacant since the fall of 1980.

But City Planning Director James Lydon said the city and the owners of the building will exhaust all possibilities of a department store-type operation before turning to the Kincaide proposal.

Sumner Cohen, manager of Kincaides, said his company would enable Kincaides to share the 90,000 square feet of space in the Sears building with another firm. Kincaide now has 12,000 square feet.

Cohen said the move into larger quarters would enable Kincaides to move its warehouse operation in Charlestown to Quincy. Kincaides has other stores in Arlington and Plainville.

Cohen said he got the go ahead from Kincaides owner Joseph Goodman last Thursday to start negotiations with Meredith and Grew, the realty firm representing the Faxon trustees, owners of the Sears building.

"We would like to grow with Quincy," said Cohen. "We have faith that it is a viable shopping town."

Lydon said Meredith and Grew, as well as the city and many downtown merchants, who like to see a department store-type of operation that would attract a lot of shoppers to the downtown.

"Meredith and Grew has sent out about 300 brochures to possible tenants," he said. "If nothing shows from that then they would be willing to consider the Kincaides offer."

Lydon said the city and the realty firm have also been discussing the possibility of light industry use of the Sears basement with three or four retail shops on the ground floor.

"Meredith and Grew is particularly interested in having shopper movement in and out of the building because they have other store properties in downtown Quincy," said Lydon.

Cohen said Kincaide has been "a little unhappy" that the Sears building has been empty for more than a year and a half when Sears moved its profitable operation to South Shore Plaza.

"We were hurt badly when Sears left," he said. "If a big department store were to come in, fine, we would probably stay where we are. But there is a need to fill it."

"We think of Quincy as a good shopping area. When Sears left it was not because the company was not making money. It was that they needed a larger store."

Cohen said that if Kincaide took a lease on the Sears building there is a possibility of sharing it 50-50 with another store.

Don't Let 'Em Get Away!

We spend millions of dollars to educate and train our community's young people...the finest "crop" of all we produce.

Then we watch them steal away to other cities, other states, where they believe opportunities are greater.

Why can't WE, right here at home, offer them the career futures they seek in distant places? Why not try to keep our home-raised talent at home?

Our stores, factories and service firms could offer lots more job opportunities if they did more business. They'd HAVE more business quickly, if we would quit buying items and services out of town.

Shopping here at home is the best insurance we have to keep our local businesses strong and growing . . . to provide brighter futures for our precious young people.

Keep part of the dollars you spend . . . SHOP AT HOME!

QJC President Selection Deferred

Selection of a candidate to succeed Quincy Junior College President Dr. Edward Pierce has been deferred by the School Committee pending further advertising and circularization of job specifications for the post.

Pierce is stepping down from that post on Aug. 6. He has held the position for 10 years.

The job specification for the position will be the same as those devised in 1972 when Pierce was hired.

Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon will be chairman of a special committee of 10 to screen applications and candidates.

Creedon told the school board a certain number of votes, possibly eight, of the special committee may be required before a candidate's name could be brought before the school committee for final consideration.

Committee member Joan Picard took exception to the required vote provision saying she would like to have the names of candidates who may be shy one or two of the required eight votes brought before the committee for consideration.

Gas Boiler Conversion At Snug Harbor Approved

By JOHN NOONAN

Some 400 units of the Snug Harbor housing facility in Germantown will be converted from oil to gas-fired burners in time for the heating season next fall.

The Quincy Housing Authority last week approved installing the conversion to gas fired burners at a cost of $29,000.

QHA Administrator John Comer, said that the conversion had been in the planning stages for almost two years and he was pleased that the QHA commissioners had voted to go ahead with this first group of units that will be changed over as an economy measure.

It was pointed out that the boilers now using oil at Snug Harbor are approximately 30 years old. QHA had also asked for permission to convert 36 units at Westacres in West Quincy but the request was denied. There are 1,000 units to be converted throughout the state and Quincy received approval for 400 of those units.

West Quincy Facility Named Arthur V. Drohan Apts.

The Quincy Housing Authority housing facility in West Quincy will be called the Arthur V. Drohan Apartments as a tribute to the former city counselor and prominent business man from that area.

Ratification of the name Arthur V. Drohan Apartments was made by the QHA at its meeting last week.

McCauley Unhappy With Cemetery Cleanup

The condition of Mt. Wollaston Cemetery on Memorial Day drew a grudging "all right" from Mayor Francis X. McCauley following a week of furious cleanup activity.

"We finally got the grass mowed," said the mayor, "but the trimming around the grave stones was not done. The whole thing presented an unfinished effect."

"I certainly have to thank Richard J. Koch of the Park Board and Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson for loaning men to the Cemetery Department to get the job done."

McCauley said he was concerned that the Cemetery

Department allowed the grass-cutting to get so far behind.

"There are people who visit the graves starting on the first of May," he said. "The mowing was not done then."

"This is my first year as mayor and it is not going to happen again. I'm looking for no problems next year. There was a lot of last minute work and overtime to get the job done."

"In recent years we have talked about putting the cemetery work out for bids. Possibly we'll take another look at it, maybe just to cut the grass while the department handles the burials."

Quincy Cooperative Bank has a word for this...dedication.

Since 1919, Buell and John Fuller have been working for a better world through Scouting.

Buell and John Fuller of Quincy are as committed to Scouting today, as when they joined ... 63 years ago!

In their belief that Scouting can help ALL young people to reach their full potential, the Fullers have organized and are active with two Scout Troops for the handicapped, in Quincy and Milton.

And, as outdoor enthusiasts, the twins hope that there will always be wilderness for Scouts to explore ... thus, they recently spearheaded the renovation of Scout Camp Massasoit in Plymouth.

The Fullers' careers in scouting are living proof that DEDICATION—to one's work and to one's beliefs—is not a lost art.

At Quincy Cooperative, we strive to be as dedicated as the Fullers are, in helping our customers meet their financial goals.

On June 5, Buell and John Fuller will be presented with the 1982 Josiah Quincy Community Service Awards at a special ceremony at the Quincy Cooperative Bank Headquarters. The public is cordially invited.

Top Middle School Jobs To Be Open

By JOHN NOONAN

By a vote of 4-3 the School Committee has adopted a recommendation of Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon to open all principal and assistant principal positions under the middle school system that begins in September to all qualified and certified candidates in the Quincy system.

The School Committee had wrestled with the decision for several weeks following its adoption of a middle school system and the phasing out of the old junior high school plan.

The five junior high principals and their five assistants will now be required to compete with elementary school principals for the top leadership positions under the new middle school plan.

Voting for the open policy were Frank Anselmo, Mary Collins, Christopher Kennedy and John Sullivan. Voting against were Mayor Francis McCauley, Joan Picard and Nicholas Verenis.

Notices of the open policy along with job descriptions will be circularized throughout the school system by the Superintendent's office. Candidates will be invited to submit their applications and credentials for the top middle school jobs.

Creedon anticipated that the interviews and selection of candidates will be completed sometime around June 14.

6 Koch Club Scholarship Winners

Anthony T. Delmonico, chairman of the Koch Club Scholarship Committee, announces six local high school students will each receive a $100 scholarship. They are:

North Quincy High School: Miss Mary E. Golden, 47 Waterston Ave., and Paul V. Dindy, 140 Grand View Ave., Wollaston.

Quincy High School: Miss Denise L. Jolley, 44 Paulding St., Quincy and Jeffrey Morrison, 16 Doyle Terrace, Germantown.

The formal presentation of the awards will take place at the 31st annual Koch Club Flag Day Ceremonies, Monday, June 14, at 7:15 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Koch Club awards have totaled $500, annually. However, the Vocational Technical Scholarship Awards were increased from $50 to $100, this year resulting in a $600, total amount.

Although the Koch Club is largely involved in athletic and recreation programs, the prime purpose of the Scholarship Fund is to impress upon the boys and girls the fact that the organization is interested in the scholastic and vocational education of its members for their future success and happiness.

This year's awards will bring the total to $10,000, provided to 112 boys and girl graduates of the Quincy School system during the past 24 years with funds from the Active Scholarship Committee derived from individual donations, the Koch Club men and women's bowling leagues and contributions from a few of the districts.

A Permanent Scholarship Fund was established on the 25th Anniversary of the Koch Club in 1973 with a $5,000 grant established to insure that the tradition of the activity will continue beginning on the 50th Anniversary in 1998. The donations and interest have increased the principal to $12,000.

John Faulkner Receives Fulbright-Hays Scholarship

John C. Faulkner, son of Mrs. Carole Mae Faulkner of Sextant Circle, Germantown, has earned a highly competitive Fulbright-Hays Scholarship.

The scholarship is for a one year study program at Seoul National University in South Korea.

The award caps four years of distinguished academic excellence at Connecticut College where Faulkner was consistently named to the dean's list and was designated a Winthrop Scholar last fall.

Faulkner is the only Fulbright candidate chosen by the South Korean government this year.

A Chinese and economics major, Faulkner plans to use his year abroad to study the Korean language, culture, and economic development, with special emphasis on the economic policies of the past two decades which have brought extensive economic development to the Asian country.

JOHN C. FAULKNER

Faulkner is the sixth student in the history of Connecticut College to win the Fulbright award.

Faulkner, a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, recently won the Helen Carey Courdett Prize for excellence in Chinese and the Phi Beta Kappa Graduate Scholarship.

Upon completion of his South Korean studies, the scholar will enter the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University to study for his Masters of Arts Degree (M.A.L.D.). Faulkner plans a career in international economics and finance, with particular emphasis on the Far East.

Faulkner, who originally had no plans to attend college, credits his junior high basketball coach, Peter Swanson of Quincy, with encouraging him to pursue higher education; particularly at Connecticut College.

"It was late into my senior year of high school when I made the decision to attend college," Faulkner recalls. "Mr. Swanson knew Charles Luce, the basketball coach at Connecticut, and together they helped me to get in. I'm glad I came here."

PATRICK M. FAHEY, (left) son of Mr. and Mrs. Brendan Fahey of 104 Crescent St., and Paul J. Valante, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Valante of 65 Unity St., were graduated recently from the Xaverian Brothers High School in Westwood.

Diet facts & fallacies

These nutritional tips brought to you by DIET CENTER

Did you know that you fight most of your battle to lose weight long before you sit down to eat? Although you may not realize it, your biggest challenge comes not at the dinner table but at the grocery store. Grocery products are designed to get your attention and spur impulsive buying. To combat this, remember: You can't eat what you don't buy! Make out a shopping list ahead of time and stick to it. Check your newspaper for sale items and compare prices. When you make your list, remember to include foods that require preparation; they are more nutritious and not as costly.

Carolyn MacDonald Counselor

Never shop when you are hungry or just before a meal. Your stomach will overcome your head every time! Shop the outside aisles of your grocery store—these aisles contain fresh fruits and produce. Avoid those aisles full of candy, snacks, and highly processed foods. By following these suggestions, Diet Center guarantees that you will come home with not only more nutritious, low-calorie foods, but also a smaller grocery bill!

4 To Receive Quincy Cooperative Community Service Awards

Four area volunteers will be presented the 1982 Josiah Quincy Community Service Award at a ceremony Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Quincy Cooperative Bank, 85 Quincy Ave., sponsor of the award.

Honored will be Patti Morris of Quincy who has given more than 600 hours in volunteer work as a Candy Stripper at Quincy City Hospital; Deborah Orman, chairwomen of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, and Buell and John Fuller of Quincy who have been volunteers in the Boy Scout movement for more than 63 years and are presently active in Scout troops for the handicapped they have organized in Quincy and Milton.

The award is named for Josiah Quincy Jr., a 19th century advocate of cooperative enterprises who made cooperative banking possible in Massachusetts and for whom the Quincy Cooperative Bank is named.

CANKER SORES

Q: Why do I get canker sores? What are they?

A: Most people get canker sores in their mouth from time to time. These sores can occur anywhere inside the mouth except the palate and gum tissue surrounding the necks of the teeth. Some people get them singly; others get them in bunches.

These sores (known to dentists as aphthous ulcers) are caused by a bacterium that is present in everyone's mouth. Just why these germs cause sores in some mouths isn't known. Smokers almost never get them — evidently the smoke is noxious to germs as well as people.

If these sores are very painful, your dentist can treat them with caustic agents. This will relieve the pain, but they will heal more slowly. Sometimes eating yogurt with active cultures or taking lactobacillus acidophilus tablets (available in health food stores) will speed healing.

Other conditions can cause sores too; if a sore persists longer than a week, see your dentist.

No. 2 In E-Mass Meet Raiderettes Suburban Track Co-Champs

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' track team, which earlier had finished another undefeated Suburban League season, made another fine showing in the Eastern Mass. meet last Saturday at Lawrence, but, for the third year in a row, finished second to its jinx rival, Falmouth. North had 55 points, Falmouth 78.

Two North girls broke records, Mary Kate Kennedy winning the 880 in 2:11.2 and Nancy McCarthy winning the mile in 5:02.5. Kennedy's time was the fastest ever in any of the three divisions. Michelle Millane won the discus at 122-11.

North also won the mile relay in 4:00.9 with Mary Kate Kennedy, McCarthy, Deirdre Donovan and Karen Lindenfelzer.

Kara Crehan tied for fourth in the high jump. Donovan placed third in the long jump and fourth in the 220. Eileen Crehan was sixth in the javelin and Lindenfelzer sixth in the 880.

Mary Kate Kennedy, McCarthy, Millane and the mile relay team will compete in the Mass. Invitational Tournament Saturday at Boston College.

"My only regret is that our two top two-milers, Sheila Barrett and Linda Kennedy, missed the meet due to an unfortunate incident and I take the full responsibility," coach Lou Tozzi said.

Tozzi paid tribute to his assistant coaches, Mike Burke, Doc Doherty, Chris Morton and the boys' coach, Bart Petracca.

The Raiderettes rolled over Quincy, 88-30, last week to finish up with a 7-0-1 record. They won seven in a row after tying Weymouth South in their opening meet and share the title with South.

"I'm very proud of this team," Tozzi said. "At the beginning of the year I didn't feel we had the depth and we had only six seniors on the squad. But many of the younger girls came along fast and did a super job. My seniors performed as I knew they would and it was just a tremendous season."

Michelle Millane, who usually competes in her specialties, the shot put and discus, set a school record in the javelin, winning with a 126-11 toss, and she also remained unbeaten in the discus.

Deirdre Donovan won the long jump at 17-1 and also ran a leg on the winning 440 relay team.

Other North Quincy winners were Lisa Reynolds in the 440 (1:05.4); Bernadette Murphy, 880 (2:31.8); Tracey Corrigan, mile (5:59.9); Meg Leary, two-mile (12:56); Marie McGurl, hurdles (17.2) and Georgia Traficante, high jump (5-0).

Both North relay teams won, the team of Donovan, Karen Lindenfelzer, Nancy McCarthy and Mary Kate Kennedy winning the 440 race and Diane Flynn, Janet Zdankowski, Monika Reilly and Cindy Olsen winning the mile race.

John Franceschini's Quincy girls had three winners, Darlene Marston winning the 100 in 11.8, Kris Picarski winning the 220 in 27.3 and Beth Anderson winning the shot put 28-6½.

Earlier in the week the Quincy girls had made an excellent showing but were edged by Brookline, 58-55.

Picarski won the long jump at 15-6½ and the 220 in 27.1. Marston won the 100 in 11.6 and took second in the long jump. Lisa Zannis won the javelin at 96-8 and Jacqui Irvine won the discus at 79-10.

trate on his schoolwork this spring when it was apparent that he wouldn't be able to play baseball."

Junior Jim Kelley turned in another excellent pitching performance for North, holding the Presidents to five hits, striking our four and walking three. It was his third win and there is little doubt that North would have done much better over the first half of the year if he hadn't been sidelined with shoulder problems.

Quincy's starter, Jim DiPietro, was in command for the first two innings, giving up one run on Jack Bolster's triple and John Kozlowski's single, but the Raiders exploded for four runs in the third and added three more in the sixth as Dan Dunn relieved DiPietro.

Quincy was held to a run in the second on hits by Bill Harris and Paul Quigley and another in the seventh on a walk to DiPietro and Steve Spencer's single.

Earlier in the week North had squeaked by Weymouth South, 1-0, in one of the better pitched games of the season as Paul Earle edged Mike Fitzgerald.

Earle pitched a three-hitter and struck out six as the Raiders recorded their second shutout.

Sophomore Steve Hogan drove in Kozlowski with the only run of the game with two outs in the third inning.

The Raiders were handed an 11-3 wallop by Cambridge Rindge and Latin and Quincy dropped a 2-1 squeaker to Brookline in other games.

Sports

Student $20 Athletic Users Fee

It will cost every student who participates in Quincy public schools sponsored sports programs a $20 athletic users fee beginning September, 1982.

The School Committee adopted the users fee in an attempt to raise an estimated $20,000 annually to help defray the cost of the school sports program which costs some $330,000 per year.

For a family where more than one student is involved the maximum charge will be $40. The $20 basic fee allows the student to participate in as many sports programs as he or she wishes to become involved in.

Mary Schmitz Wins State Tennis Title

Mary Schmitz of Quincy High School defeated Jane Drisko of Belmont, 3-6, 6-1 and 6-2, to win the state girls' tennis title and give Quincy racketeers an unprecedented sweep.

A week before, the Presidents' Dick Maloney was crowned state boys' champion.

Miss Schmitz really clinched the title in the second round of the tournament in Belmont when she upset top-seeded Jean Clancy of Arlington, 6-2 and 6-4.

A second Quincy girl, Virginia Doyle, reached the finals of the junior singles before bowing to Arlene Foley of Belmont, 6-2 and 6-3.

The Quincy doubles team of Mary Lawrence and Martha Stevens went to the finals before losing out to Margaret Paige and Eleanor MacAuley of Arlington.

BIKE RIDING RULES

Sure, bikes are great for fun and exercise, but in careless hands they can also cause serious injury. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimates that a million injuries result from bike accidents every year. An increasing number of them are caused by collisions with cars. But most of the spills, skids, crashes, and other mishaps that trap riders in a tangle of wheels and handlebars are avoidable with proper precautions. Here are some pointers:

Be sure your bike is safely-equipped, proper reflectors and lights for night riding, slip-resistant pedals, comfortable adjustments of seat and handlebars, proper grips, efficient brakes, a loud horn or bell, and wear clearly visible clothes when riding in traffic.

Know and obey the rules of the road. Ride single file. Obey traffic signals, stay in the right hand curb lane. Never ride against traffic. By all means, never weave in and out of traffic.

Quincy's Durante Wins 15th Straight Singles Match

Quincy boys' tennis captain Gary Durante last week won his 15th straight singles match without a loss as the Presidents edged North Quincy, 3-2, to improve their record to 12-3.

Durante posted the best-ever single season record at Quincy.

Durante defeated North's Ron Affsa as Quincy swept the singles. Matt Tobin defeated

Frank Scanlon and Steve Durante topped Andy Curtin.

North swept both doubles matches, Eric Peterson and John Purland defeating Matt O'Brien and Rory de la Paz and Alex Coutts and John Joseph defeating Paul Hutchins and Kevin Cameron.

The North Quincy girls got even for the boys' defeat by blanking the Quincy girls, 5-0, as

North Track Team Future Looks Bright

North Girls Bomb Quincy 12-4

The North Quincy girls' softball team, which earlier had lost an 8-0 lead and dropped an 18-14 decision to Quincy, got even for that last loss when it topped the First Ladies, 12-4, to improve its record to 9-6.

It was the Raiderettes' eighth win in the last 11 games.

Lauri Barba and Mary Holleran paced North offensively with three hits and four RBI. Elva Reed was the winning pitcher, striking out a season high eight batters.

Earlier in the week the North girls had rolled over Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 11-2, as Karen Boutlier allowed only one hit and Holleran drove in three runs with two hits.

Barba had two hits and an RBI and Kiley scored three runs for the Raiderettes.

Quincy topped Brookline, 6-4, as Kim Moccia scattered six hits to get the win. Cheryl Carmody had two hits and drove in a run and Cathy Duggan also had two hits and an RBI.

While the North Quincy girls' track teams have been dominating the Suburban League the past few years, the boys' teams have been struggling.

However, this spring Bart Petracca, a former Raider star who later stood out at Cornell University, took over the reins and things have begun to look up.

The Raiders won only two meets this season but, with a squad dominated by sophomores, things are definitely on the upswing and North rivals should look out for them in the next few seasons.

The Raiders showed what could be expected in the future when they rolled over undermanned and winless Quincy, 122-14, last week, to finish with a 2-6 record.

"If this season is an indication of what is to come, we will be very hard to beat in the future," Petracca said. "We have a lot of strength in the running events with some outstanding sophomores, but we need more depth in the field events to produce a more balanced team in years to come."

Rich Palma set a school record of 42-11½ in winning the triple jump against Quincy and he also won the low hurdles in 41 seconds. Kevin Wood was another double winner, taking the 100 in 10.9 and the high jump at 5-8.

Other Raider winners were Gerry Petracca in the 220 in 26.4, Terry Stark, 440 in 54.4; Rick O'Brien, mile in 4:49; Paul Seagraber, two-mile in 10:37; Jaime Paz, high hurdles in 23.8; Bob Pound, shot put at 47-7; Ed Geran, discus at 71 feet and Mike Panaro, javelin at 149-7½.

Both North relay teams won, Dave Cuervels, John Tamburi, Petracca and Palma winning the 440 race in 49.6 and Jeff Strycker, Stark, Bill Mahoney and O'Brien winning the mile race in 4:15.

The Raiders swept the triple jump with Strycker second and Jim Kennedy third; the high jump with Paz second and Art Collings third; the 440 with Strycker second and Kearney third, and the 100 with Panaro second and Cuervels third.

Mike Williams gave Quincy its only two wins, taking the 880 in 2:02 and the long jump at 19-11.

Several Raiders made good showings in the Eastern Mass. Meet Monday.

Palma won the long jump with a fine leap of 21-9 3/4 and will compete in Saturday's Mass. Invitational meet at Boston College.

Pound was sixth in the shot put at 48-4 and the mile relay team of Stark, Kearney, Kennedy and Palma finished sixth.

O'Brien made a good showing in the mile with a 4:41 and Kennedy won the unseeded heat in the half mile in 2:02.4. —TOM SULLIVAN

On Saturday and Sunday five boys from the center competed in the Regional USGF Jr. Olympic championships at the U. of Bridgeport. They were competing for individual honors and a chance to qualify for the nationals next month.

In the Class II division for 13 to 15 year olds, Dave Johnson, Gerry Haran and Carlton Noble made up the No. 1 team. They scored 267.75 to easily outdistance the Mass. Gym Center of Waltham.

As for individual performances, Johnson moved up to Class II in the middle of the year and did a good job, scoring 70 points. Haran was impressive as he placed in several events and scored 93.3 for third place and a qualifying score for the nationals. Noble won three events outright, floor exercise, rings and parallel bars. He placed second in the all-around at 104.55 and also qualified for the nationals.

The Class I team followed in Class II's footsteps as it also won the N.E. title, easily outdistancing the other teams.

John Hill and Mark Arnold put it all together as Hill had a difficult time with the compulsory routines Saturday but came back Sunday with the top optional score to place fifth in the all-around at 93.35 and qualify for the nationals. He placed second in vaulting and high bar.

Arnold placed second in all-around, just two-tenths behind the winner. He scored 99.9 all-around and won the rings and high bar events.

The Somersault Center is holding a summer gymnastics camp in July and August for boys and girls. The camp is open to gymnasts between the ages of 6 and 18. Further information can be had by calling the center at 328-9405 after 3 p.m.

Board Dismisses Hearing On Recreation Facility

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A hearing on rental of the function room at the Wollaston Recreation Facility, 357 West Squantum St., was dismissed Tuesday by the Quincy License Board.

"They (the facility) did nothing wrong," said Police Chief Francis Finn who suggested that the hearing be dismissed rather than just placed on file.

The board had requested that facility administrator John C. Nourse appear at this week's meeting in regard to a request from Anne M. McDonald of 44 Pope St., Montclair, for extension of the facility's beer and wine license until 2 a.m. May 29.

In a letter to the board, Mrs. McDonald said her family reserved the function room at the facility several weeks ago for a graduation party for her son.

She said that she was not informed until May 14 that the facility's beer and wine license would only extend until 9 p.m.

The board denied the request because of a stipulation in the facility's license which requires a 9 p.m. closing, and questioned why Mrs. McDonald had not been informed earlier.

"We told her that the license was only until 9 p.m.," said Rosemary Foster, manager of "Rosie's" at the facility.

Mrs. Foster also indicated at this week's meeting that no firm commitment had been made by Mrs. McDonald to rent the facility.

Nourse added that the facility did not book functions last week-end because it was the height of the golfing season.

He also said that he "shies away from anything remotely resembling a graduation party."

Nourse told the board that the facility has already exceeded its income of the last fiscal year.

Workshop For Bar Owners, Employees

The Quincy License Board voted Tuesday to endorse a workshop to be held at the end of June on dealing with intoxicated patrons of liquor establishments and other topics.

According to a letter sent to the board by Andrew R. Klein, Chief of Probation at Quincy District Court, the workshop is being organized by Quincy Court, the South Shore Council on Alcoholism and many area bar owners.

Klein stated that Atty. Louis Cassis, a member of the State Beverage Control Commission, has agreed to address the group on civil and criminal responsibility.

The South Shore Council will provide training in determining intoxication and dealing with the intoxicated patron, according to Klein.

Klein also wrote that model programs in operation in Massachusetts bars will be presented as well as state of the art devices for determining blood alcohol levels.

"We are all enthusiastic over the potential of this workshop to help bar owners and employees meet their responsibilities in this critical area," stated Klein.

"The willingness of area bar owners to co-sponsor this event demonstrates a commitment and concern which certainly bodes well for our communities."

TOM CALANY of Squantum guards his boat, 'Punkin' after it was washed up on Wollaston Beach by the storm.

City Bailing Out Weekend Storm Dumps 7-Plus Inches Of Rain

The kind of storm that the weathermen figures happens only once in a hundred years dumped upwards of seven inches of rain in Quincy during the five days Friday through Tuesday.

At press time Tuesday evening, it was still showering.

The rain, which was accompanied at times by high winds, precipitated flooding in some sections of the city and a brief loss of power to at least 1,500 users in Quincy.

A number of boats, many of which had just been put into the water for the summer sailing season, were swept up on Wollaston Beach by the surf generated by the high winds.

The city's Civil Defense force, headed by Anthony Siciliano, worked tirelessly through the weekend, helping to pump out cellars. They were still working in Miller Stile Rd. as late as Monday night.

The Morrisette and Houghs Neck Legion Post homes were kept open through the weekend nights to house prospective refugees from the flooding but they were not needed.

"We were fortunate to have the Civil Defense people," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley. "They had eight or nine pumps going for most of the weekend."

"Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson was out during the night as were personnel from the Sewer and Water Departments. One of the big problems was overflowing sewers."

Some 1,500 Mass Electric customers, including the Quincy Fire Department's Central Station on Quincy Ave., lost power for some two hours Monday morning due to the storm.

Thomas Cote, a spokesman for Mass Electric, said the power was out due to fallen tree branches from about 2:20 a.m. to 4:30 a.m. in the Independence Ave. and Federal Ave. sections of South Quincy.

Deputy Chief Carl Valenti said the emergency generator at the fire station kicked in when the power was lost so no sections of the city were in danger.

A number of homes were evacuated in the Miller St.-Cross St. section of West Quincy when rain-swollen Furnace Brook went over its banks coming down from the Blue Hills.

Ballou St. in West Quincy was reported to be flooded and there were water problems on Quarry St. and Grogan Ave. near Furnace Brook Parkway and Ballou and Connell Sts.

Trees and branches were down all over the city and firefighters stood by a sparking wire at Federal Ave. and Sachem St., Wollaston, until the break was repaired by Mass Electric, early Monday morning.

Foy Election As Auditor Breezes Through Council

The City Council wasted little time Monday night in electing Treasurer Robert E. Foy III to the $34,884 post of city auditor.

The 55-year-old Foy, who lives in Wollaston and has been treasurer and tax collector for the past 11 years, was nominated and voted in unanimously in less than 15 minutes.

Foy succeeds Charles L. Shea, who resigned the post in March, 1981. Acting Auditor William Grindlay, who served in the interim, resigned Monday to clear the way for Foy.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Foy will continue to oversee the operation of the treasurer's office, which is now busy collecting taxes, until a new treasurer is chosen.

Assistant Treasurer Mary Papile and Assistant Tax Collector Nancy Fisher will do the day-to-day work, the mayor said.

Thus far, said McCauley, he has received resumes from seven people, three of them from Quincy, who are interested in filling the rest of Foy's term as treasurer, which expires in February, 1983.

He declined to name the applicants but he said there was one each from Wollaston, West Quincy, Quincy Shore Drive, Wayland, Waltham, Brockton and Franklin.

The treasurer's job pays $26,478 a year.

Foy was nominated for the auditor's job by Councillor

Stephen McGrath, who noted that he "easily met the criteria set up by the Council's special committee."

There were no other nominations.

In fact, Foy's selection was so certain that the city had already bought space in The Quincy Sun and the Boston Globe to advertise for his successor as treasurer.

Foy, the scion of a well-known Quincy family that once operated Foy's markets, is a 1948 graduate of Boston College where he obtained a degree in accounting. He received a certificate in municipal finance from Bentley in 1973.

He and his wife, Mildred, have five children.

$1.2 Million In Taxes Roll In

By TOM HENSHAW

Some $1.2 million in property taxes were in the city's treasury at the close of business Monday afternoon, roughly 5 per cent of the expected $25 million tax levy for the second half of fiscal 1982.

Tax Collector Robert E. Foy III, who left that job to become city auditor a few hours later, called the influx of tax money about normal.

Bills for the second half of the current fiscal year, based on a $205.60 tax rate, went out May 28 and collections started Tuesday, June 1. The deadline for payment is Monday, June 28.

The city is anxious to get as much tax money in the till as possible before the end of the fiscal year, June 30, so that it can present a better balance sheet to financial institutions.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has written to the presidents of Quincy banks urging them to make payments as soon as possible out of real estate tax escrow funds held on behalf of their mortgage customers.

The mayor noted that payments made in advance of the June 28 due date will eliminate the need for additional expensive short term borrowing to run the city.

Meanwhile, the City Council paved the way for fiscal 1983, which begins July 1, by authorizing the treasurer to borrow money in anticipation of next year's taxes at its Monday meeting.

Only Councillor Leo J. Kelly voted against what has become an annual measure.

Kelly explained that he felt the annual authorization only encourages the city to delay the tax rate "and we've had too much of that in recent years."

McCauley Urges Police Substation In 'T' Terminal

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has suggested to the MBTA that the space being vacated in the Quincy Center station by McGilvray's Drug Store be used as a police substation to keep order in the station.

"I think part or all of this space would be ideal," he said in a letter to Gino L. Palmacci of the MBTA's real estate division. "I urge that you hold off bidding this space until further discussion."

"The city of Quincy is very concerned with how that space is used. We do not need another hangout or source of further litter. I will be writing to (Director) Jim O'Leary regarding these thoughts."

McGilvray's Drug Store, long a landmark in downtown Quincy even before it moved into the MBTA station, went out of business a couple of weeks ago.

McCauley also wrote to O'Leary, enclosing a number of letters from the Health Department and tenants of 1245 Hancock St., the Monroe Building, complaining about conditions at the station.

"The continuing litter and buses clogging the access road out of the station are legitimate concerns," said McCauley.

"As the mayor of a large city, I am facing the same 'tough times' you are but a secure, clean station is fundamental."

Winthrop Wade, director of environmental services at the Health Department, met with Pat Jordan of the MBTA and forwarded to the mayor these comments on terminal operation:

Buses should be provided with a parking area other than the area used presently on the access road.

The access road and sidewalk should be steam cleaned of all accumulated fuel spillage and oil.

The curbing along this access road should be repaired and the sidewalk cut deeper at the Faxon Trust parking area to allow a wider turning area for the buses.

The air pollution control requirement of idling diesel engines limited to five minutes enforced by the MBTA.

The refuse container owned by "SCA" on the Hancock St. side of the garage entrance should be eliminated or a single container used on the Burgin Parkway side.

The new cleaning contractor spoken of by Mr. Jordan should be aware of the refuse and litter problems associated with the premises and the parking area, and the area he is to clean specifically defined.

It was not clear to me if the garage cleaning was to become a part of the new cleaning contractors work. However, that question should be clarified.

Dr. McKeogh Decision Seen This Week

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The fate of Dr. Robert McKeogh as health commissioner will be decided before the end of the week.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he expects his administrative assistant Arthur Foley to report to him Thursday or Friday on the results of a hearing in Dr. McKeogh's case last Friday.

Meanwhile, his attorney, Richard Barry, said if Dr. McKeogh is fired from his position a complaint for summary judgment would be filed in Superior Court.

Barry promised the legal action after the 4½ hour fact-finding hearing to determine whether McCauley has cause to remove Dr. McKeogh.

Attorneys for both sides were to present their final evidence by June 9 to Foley.

The issue centers on whether Dr. McKeogh has the qualifications for the job, has devoted his entire time to the job and whether his operation of a private practice is a violation of state law.

City Solicitor William B. Golden charged that Dr. McKeogh conducted his medical practice and attended Harvard classes during normal working hours in violation of state law.

Dr. McKeogh contended that he put in more than 40 hours per week as health commissioner.

He also said that his duties included such things as studying pollution at Quincy Bay and Nut Island, addressing groups, attending lectures, and reading material outside of the office and beyond normal working hours.

According to Golden, requirements for the position include a public health degree and two years of public health service, or four years of such service.

Dr. McKeogh maintained that he had more than four years experience while serving as an army medical officer and at Boston City Hospital.

The health commissioner, who was represented by Atty. Richard Barry, recently earned a master of public health degree and the city paid three fourths of the tuition.

Dr. McKeogh said that before his appointment, he told then Mayor Arthur Tobin that he couldn't afford to take the health commissioner's post without his private practice.

"He (Tobin) said he didn't care if I never went to the Kennedy Health Center as long as I got the job done," said Dr. McKeogh.

Barry said that later he asked Golden if Dr. McKeogh took a job as a swimming instructor at the YMCA one night a week, or a paper route on Sunday mornings, if that would be a violation of the statute.

"He said yes," said Barry. "and I think that's absurd."

Office Building Underway

Out-of-ground construction began Wednesday on the 10-story $19 million 100 Hancock Street office building, located just off the Southeast Expressway at Neponset Circle on the Quincy-Boston line.

Developers and city officials tightened the bolts on the first steel column to be attached to a concrete pile in the construction area. Piles, pile caps and grade beams have been placed for steel erection which will begin June 14.

Permanent financing for the project has been arranged with a major pension company. Construction financing was secured from Lincoln First Bank, N.A., U.S. Division, Mortgage Banking Dept., White Plains, N.Y. Short term interim lender is Woonsocket Savings and Trust Co., Woonsocket, R.I.

More than 200,000 square feet of office space will be available at the building, which will overlook Boston Harbor and the Boston skyline.

Topping off ceremonies are expected to take place this year in mid-August. Grand opening is scheduled for the Spring of 1983.

Participating in the installation of the first steel column to launch the out-of-ground construction were General Partners of Gateway Associates, developer of the project: Michael Harrington, Kurt Schork, both of Boston and Arthur Robbins and Robert Borah, both of Providence. Also participating were Mayor Francis X. McCauley and City Planning Director James E. Lydon.

The main entry to 100 Hancock will be from the landscaped east parking area with a secondary entry from the west side.

There will be on-site parking facilities for approximately 500 cars and covered exterior arcades will provide sheltered access to the building. For MBTA commuters, the Red Line North Quincy Station is only a five-minute walk.

The building's long north facade is situated to take advantage of the water view facing the Boston skyline. The northwest side has been designed as a series of steps to create multiple corner offices to enhance the water view.

The facade consists of continuous strip windows and steel panels finished in shades of beige and gray. Interior spaces include a handsome three-story lobby, overlooked by office spaces and adjacent to banking and retail areas.

"The flexible layout of the building can accommodate a full range of tenant requirements," Robbins said.

As the building is completed, the site will be extensively landscaped with flowering trees, shrubs and ground cover, further enhancing the architectural setting, he added.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley of Quincy lauded the efforts of all groups involved in making the project become a reality.

"We welcome the Quincy Gateway Associates to our city and thank them for their commitment to Quincy's future," said McCauley. "A great amount of time and effort has gone into this development and each of the groups involved has contributed to making this project a success. I am certain that this development

She Wasn't Fighting City Hall

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Goodness, I had no intention of fighting city hall! Everyone knows that's a bore...and particularly so in Quincy, judging from recent events.

Last year on the evening of my son's graduation, we had a party at the golf-course clubhouse at the end of my street. This year another son was graduating, again from the Maritime Academy, so we thought it would be nice to have the party there again. On April 13th, I called and was referred (again) to the manager. We agreed that last year's party had been completely problem-free, and I was informed that this year only beer and wine would be served unless I obtained a one-day liquor license. In two subsequent phone calls I restriction that the beer and wine restriction was not a problem to us and mentioned that I was again arranging for a Quincy Police detail. I was told this was now mandatory rather than voluntary because of the new license.

Shortly before the date of the party I heard there was a 9 o'clock closing time and was referred to Mr. Gillis. He said he thought he could help me if I sent him a letter. The letter was written very quickly. It was a small item in my day...with six children, a full-time job and going to school, I wasn't looking for trouble. The tone of the letter was light and I joked about possibly having a one-hour party.

I had no way of knowing my letter would become public or would be a source of embarrassment to anyone. That was certainly not my intention, nor was I particularly angry that a mistake had been made. But I do think we owe each other, whether private citizens or public officials, an honest acknowledgement of the facts as best we know them. It's difficult to run a world with less than that.

Thank you for the opportunity to set the record straight, lest my friends...or more likely my children...think me more daft than I am.

A Thank You For Vietnam Veterans Day Support

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to thank the city of Quincy for supporting Vietnam Veterans Day.

A special thanks should go to the Quincy Elks who gave $2,000 dollars for the cost of the scroll. Also thanks to Mayor Francis McCauley, John Gillis, Past Department Commander of the V.F.W. Thomas McDonald, for helping to raise the rest of the money to support this very important day. A personal thanks should go out to all those Veterans groups of the Quincy Veterans Council, also to Peter Kenny who helped me more than anyone will ever know. Last, my heartfelt thanks to the personnel at Quincy's Veterans Services who compiled all the names. It took almost two years of searching files, records, and phone calls, between there other duties.

Names are being added as we learn of them. If anyone knows of any Vietnam era Veterans who should be on the scroll please contact me no later than June 30th, at 43 Curtis Ave., or call me at 471-7142.

Thank you

Next: Della Chiesa Park

Quincy has the Ross Parkingway and McIntyre Mall.

Now, Mayor Francis McCauley would like to see the Della Chiesa Park.

McCauley proposes that the mini-park now being readied in front of Quincy Center Plaza, downtown Quincy's newest building, be dedicated in memory of the Della Chiesa family.

DELLA CHIESA

"I think it would be most appropriate," says McCauley. "The Della Chiesa family served Quincy well."

"Amelio, of course, was mayor for 12 years—longest in the city's history. He was also a City Councillor and state representative. His brother, Aldo also, was a city councillor. Both were hard working honest men who loved Quincy."

The area now being made into a park, was formerly the Della Chiesa parking lot dedicated on Veterans Day in 1964 in honor of Lt. Walter Della Chiesa, only child of the late mayor and Mrs. Evelyn Della Chiesa.

He was killed June 22, 1950 when the jet fighter he was flying, crashed June 22, 1950 off the Korean coast at the start of the Korean War.

A 1948 West Point graduate, he was a classmate of the academy's legendary football heroes, Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard. Davis and Blanchard once stayed at the Della Chiesa's Hughes St. home during a visit to Quincy.

A plaque on a boulder was dedicated in young Della Chiesa's memory. McCauley attended as a City Councillor.

"I think we should reinstate the plaque," says McCauley. "But I would like to see the park named for the entire Della Chiesa family."

He notes that at the time of that dedication, both Mayor and Mrs. Della Chiesa and Aldo Della Chiesa were alive.

"But they are all gone now," he says. "So I would like to see the park a memorial to the entire family."

One of the few surviving members of the Della Chiesa family is Ron, son of Aldo Della Chiesa, who is a well known and respected radio and TV personality in Boston.

The Ross Parking Area, of course, was named for Mayor Charles A. Ross. McIntyre Mall is named for Police Capt. William F. McIntyre but is considered a tribute to the entire McIntyre family.

In a few weeks, Quincy may have Della Chiesa Park.

STATE Transportation Secretary James Carlin isn't winning many friends among state workers with his 30-30-30 theory of productivity of state employees. He explained it in a recent South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting like this:

"The first 30 per cent don't do any work all day. The second 30 per cent work hard all day long but they're working on the wrong things and the net result is the same as the first 30 per cent."

"The third 30 per cent are the journeymen who give you a damn good day's work and keep the state government moving. The last 10 per cent are the stars who make things happen."

"That always ingratiates me with state employees. I get most of the hate mail from the first 30 per cent."

AT LAST COUNT, there were 37 applicants for the $24,450 city personnel director post. The job will officially open June 30 when Mary McGinty, long-time popular head of that department retires.

McGINTY

Mrs. McGinty will be closing out a distinguished 28-year career with the city, the last 23 as director.

Of the 37 applicants only two or three are from Quincy, according to Mayor McCauley. There are no "political" names among them, he says.

In a sense, Mrs. McGinty will be helping to pick her successor.

"She will help us screen the applications," says McCauley. "Her input will be most helpful."

DURING THE PUBLIC hearing on Dr. Robert McKeogh's job status as health commissioner, his attorney, Richard Barry asked him to relate some of his public health responsibilities.

McKeogh started to mention a report issued a couple years ago concerning the possible epidemic incidence of asbestosis, a disease of the lung, affecting shipyard workers. McKeogh began to describe the disease as a probable "time bomb ticking away..." when the fire alarm suddenly sounded in the new City Hall annex. The hearing room was ordered cleared. The alarm proved false and when everyone returned, Dr. McKeogh mused: "Well, I won't use that phrase again."

AS THE HEARING resumed, McKeogh began to explain that although he had a private practice in addition to serving as health commissioner, he was available at all times by telephone and his page beeper.

He was making the point that he could be reached by the Health Department, his private office, the Quincy Hospital or wherever he might be needed when his page beeper buzzed. City Solicitor William Golden, who was interrogating McKeogh, quipped: "Dr. McKeogh, it looks as if you are wanted... somewhere."

Now That The Convention Is Over — What's Next For The Democrats?

Ron Iacobucci a Ward 2 delegate to the Democratic Nominating Convention in Springfield gives his impressions and looks ahead to the campaign and real battle coming up.

By RON IACOBUCCI

There were no surprises a week ago in Springfield. The Democrats merely tabulated the results of the Feb. 6th caucuses and declared Mike Dukakis the winner.

A week later, everyone — including the Dukakis delegates — agree that the convention was nothing more than the first skirmish in a long war to the Sept. 14th democratic primary.

Let's not take anything away from Michael Dukakis. He did his homework back in February and deserves credit for the win. The convention was all Dukakis from the first gavel to the last. Efforts to sidetrack the event and to picture it as a "closed" convention because of the rule limiting primary contenders to those getting 15 per cent of the convention vote failed to pass by a large margin.

Indeed, Springfield was Dukakis country. But the real battle for governor will be fought in the Democratic primary less than four months away. The 67 delegates from Quincy who traveled to Springfield to vote 2 to 1 for Mike Dukakis over Ed King will not be the same as the 31,000 registered Democrats of Quincy eligible to vote in the September primary. The results could be very different.

According to Governor's Councillor Peter Eley, a delegate to the convention and the Norfolk County Coordinator for Governor Edward King, the latter was enthused with the convention results especially since most of the uncommitted delegates came out to support him and boost his delegate total from 22 to 32 per cent.

"The campaign ahead will focus now on taxes and crime and will emphasize the differences between each candidate on those issues," says Eley. "The Governor has a strong record of accomplishment in both areas. For examples, support of the death penalty, raising the drinking age, stronger mandatory sentences against drug pushers and opposition to increased taxes including the proposed new Boston commuter parking tax. I'm looking forward to a busy summer of campaigning to get the message of the Governor's accomplishments out to the people."

Paula Golden, another Quincy delegate and Norfolk County coordinator for Governor Michael S. Dukakis said she was elated with the convention results.

"To beat an incumbent Governor 2 to 1 at a party convention," she said, "is a great victory. It is the first step toward putting Mike back in the Governor's office. When Mike lost three years ago he spent some time evaluating himself and concluded that to be governor again, he must be more sensitive and reach out to people."

"The convention process was an opportunity to do just that." The convention was not only a remarkable demonstration of the democratic process with representatives from all areas of the party involved but a very strong statement of the determination of the people to put Mike Dukakis back in the Governor's office.

"Mike's strategy in the campaign will be to form a winning coalition by developing issues especially in the area of crime, safety and proper fiscal management. Honesty in government is something that Mike Dukakis is very proud of and he is eager to set the standard for the executive branch."

The main concern is to get ready for the battle ahead as the campaign organizations shift gears from their convention strategy targeted for 3,500 delegates to a primary strategy that must appeal to all Democrats.

The question at the end of this process will be: can the democrats unite and go on to defeat the Republican candidate in the fall? Many will recall when Quincy's Frank Bellotti lost his bid to become a Governor after a bitter democratic primary. September could be more of the same.

The battle for Lt. Governor was of special interest to Quincy with Wollaston resident William Geary among the contenders. A good percentage of the delegates from Quincy were pledged to him.

Geary drew quite a bit of attention the very first day with his "delegate survival kit" that included shampoo and aspirin. His campaign was a good one but he was eliminated on the first ballot.

Four ballots and five hours later Evelyn Murphy defeated by 12 votes state Senator Sam Rotondi for the Democratic nomination for Lt. governor.

Five candidates qualified for the September ballot by receiving 15 per cent of the convention vote. The five: Murphy, Rotondi, John Kerry former first assistant Middlesex District Attorney, state Representative Lou Nickinello and Lois Pines of Newton. The five will face each other again in the September primary that will determine the "official" nominee.

The Democratic convention, the first nominating convention since 1970, approved by acclamation Frank Bellotti for attorney general, Robert Crane for treasurer and John Finnegan as the state auditor.

In the Secretary of State contest, incumbent Michael Joseph Connolly easily defeated former Boston City Councillor Rosemary Sansone, 3-1. Sansone received 15 per cent of the convention vote to qualify for the September ballot but fell far short of her goal to capture 30 to 40 per cent of the convention delegates. This past Friday she officially became another convention victim withdrawing her candidacy.

The convention vote was an impressive win for Connolly after serving four years as Secretary of State. Connolly will continue onto the Democratic primary unopposed and face token Republican opposition in the fall.

One of the highlights was Senator Edward Kennedy receiving the nomination at a Democratic convention, this time for re-election to the US Senate. Two years from now he could be at a National Convention getting a bigger nomination.

The Democratic Convention produced some clear winners: Dukakis, Murphy and Rotondi. And, some victims: Boston City Councillor Fred Langone and Chelsea Mayor Joel Pressman who as candidates for Lt. governor failed to receive the necessary 15 per cent of the convention vote, and will now take their fight to court to get on the September ballot.

Plan A Backers Report Progress In Petition Drive

The general committee formed to restore Plan A government to Quincy met at the Morrisette Legion Post and reported "satisfactory progress" in its petition drive to have the Plan A vs. Plan E question placed on the November election ballot.

The news media was barred from the meeting so the report was released in a statement signed by Thomas J. Gilmartin, Laurence J. Curtin, Charles M. Shaftoe and James J. Ricciuti, all members of the committee which had no identifiable chairman.

Meanwhile, the petitioners were running into some problems circulating their papers.

There were protests that 12-year-old boys, members of the Koch Club of North Quincy, were helping out in the petition drive after being promised by an unidentified sponsor that they would receive ball point pens and baseball equipment for their help.

President Richard J. Koch said that the Koch Club had no connection whatsoever with the Plan A drive, although he conceded that he and other adult members had been collecting signatures.

Joseph E. Brett, general chairman of the Elks' Golden Jubilee Flag Day Parade, said he was opposed to plans to circulate Plan A petitions along the parade route. He said he was opposed to petitions on any such occasion, not just Plan A.

TO NAME RECREATION DIRECTOR

City Manager Donald M. Blatt announced that he plans to name the city's first full time recreation director July 1.

There were three candidates for the job: Staton Curtis, recreation director at Brunswick, Me.; William Bowyer, a Quincy teacher and part-time recreation supervisor for 10 years; and William Ryan, recreation director for Dedham.

SEEK LAND FOR SCHOOL

The School Committee asked City Manager Blatt to put in a request with the City Council to take 10 acres of land adjacent to the Squantum Gardens Navy housing development for construction of a new elementary school.

Asst. Supt. Rudolph Lofgren told the committee that a 12-room school, enough to handle the 105 youngsters living in the development, could be built if the federal government chipped in $170,000 and the state came through with $120,000.

EXPRESSWAY ROUTE DISCLOSED

The State Department of Public Works announced that the route of the new Southeast Expressway through Quincy would go from Cross St. just north of Willard St., over Furnace Brook Parkway east of Willard and then to the Braintree line.

FLUORIDES AND TOOTH DECAY

Q: Why do they fluoridate water?

A: Scientists have known since the turn of the century that fluorides help prevent tooth decay. Since then, the use of fluorides and the understanding of how they work have increased.

Fluorides are of greatest benefit if they are both ingested while the teeth are forming and applied after the teeth erupt. The most reliable way to do this is for the community to have its water fluoridated, and for the individual to use a fluoride toothpaste. If fluoridated water is not available, dentists can prescribe fluoride dietary supplements. Fluoride rinses (now available without a prescription) can be of benefit, too.

Studies indicate that proper use of fluorides lowers the incidence of tooth decay AT LEAST IN HALF. Water fluoridation is accepted as one of the most effective, safe, and inexpensive public health measures a community can take.

The Greatest Monthly Deposit Growth In The History Of Our Bank

In this era when banks are singing the blues, The Quincy Cooperative Bank had the largest monthly deposit growth in its history during May, 1982.

Our loyal customers, both old and new, made it possible for us to have a May, 1982, deposit growth of $3,175,000. This helped to push our assets well over $155,000,000. This is a truly remarkable and sound growth of $66,000,000 in seven years, accomplished without mergers or borrowings.

Our new main office at 85 Quincy Avenue has done its share in this great growth. In the six weeks since opening, 1047 new accounts have been established at the new main office. The six-week financial growth at 85 Quincy Avenue is $3,057,000.

Customers have found that the new office is a convenient and pleasant place to bank. They like its large parking area next to the main lobby, the triple drive-throughs for in-car banking, and the ground-floor safe deposit facility.

McCauley Sees Sewer User Charge By June 21

Mayor Francis X. McCauley says he is looking forward to passage of a sewer user charge by June 21.

The City Council's Public Works Committee moved the measure one more step closer to reality Monday night when it approved McCauley's plan and sent it on to the Ordinance Committee.

Both committees are made up of the same nine members of the Council.

McCauley called City Clerk John Gillis Tuesday to urge quick advertising of the proposed ordinance so that it can be ready for passage by the Council at its June 21 meeting.

"The problems of sewer overflow during this week's storm points up the need to get a sewer user charge in place quickly," said the mayor.

Quincy is shut out of federal funding for upgrading its ancient sewer lines until it has a sewer user charge.

Under the McCauley plan, residential and most business users would be billed on their tax rates, which is the procedure now.

Seven large commercial users and tax exempt organizations would be billed on the basis of the amount of water they use.

Move Underway To Change Beauty Pageant Location

Some downtown Quincy merchants feel that the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant should be moved from its traditional location at the intersection of Hancock St. and Cottage Ave. to a more open spot.

But Quincy Center Business and Professional Association president Bernie Reisberg says the location of the pageant is ideal.

More than 50 persons reportedly have signed a petition to have the July 16 event moved to a location which would afford more spectators a view of the pageant.

Mike Cocio, owner of a building at the intersection, said that despite the presence of police, his roof was damaged last year by spectators who climbed onto the top to see the pageant.

He said cabanas for the event were also knocked down by gangs of youths.

Reisberg said the association will put on more police this year if necessary, and that moving the pageant to another location would defeat the goal of attracting people to Quincy Center.

He also said that last year was the first time there were any problems with the popular event.

will be an asset to our city."

Lydon pointed to 100 Hancock Street as "another expression of confidence in Quincy's potential and progressive movement. We welcome, with great pride, the construction of this fine office building at the gateway to our city," he added.

Robbins, who served as master of ceremonies, said: "We have found that the attitude toward development in Massachusetts in general and Quincy in particular is among the healthiest we have encountered. It is especially gratifying to work with city representatives who cooperate with the developer to resolve problems to the mutual benefit of each group."

"We feel that this area of Quincy has all the ingredients needed for a first class office building - location, access to a major highway, a short walk to the Red Line MBTA station, on-site parking and a breath-taking view of Boston's skyline and harbor.

"When we add to this location, a beautiful facility designed by one of the top architectural firms in the country and offer it to a prospective tenant through the most knowledgeable leasing firm in the area, we are convinced that we can't miss."

The 100 Hancock Street building was designed by the Boston office of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, an internationally known architectural and planning firm, which has offices in nine cities around the country.

The exclusive leasing agent is John O'Hearn, vice president of Meredith & Grew, Marshall Contractors, Inc., of East Providence, R.I., is the general contractor. Developer is Gateway Quincy Associates, with principal office at 10 Orms Street, Providence, R.I., opposite the Providence Marriott.

City Council Backs Island Ave. Project

The City Council Monday night "authorized, urged and encouraged" Mayor Francis X. McCauley to get started with the state on a $250,000 project to shore up deteriorating sections of Island Ave., Houghs Neck.

The Army Corps of Engineers has approved the expenditure of $250,000 in federal funds for the project and agreement with the state for local cooperation in the work is necessary before it can begin.

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly noted that he and other residents of Houghs Neck have been pointing out the need for repairs to Island Ave. for the past 10 years, even before Kelly was elected to the Council.

The $250,000 covers the costs of investigations, planning, engineering, supervision, inspection and administration involved in development and construction. The city would have to pay for any excess expenditures.

Animal League To Organize

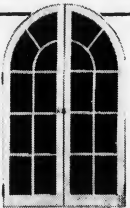

The first organizational meeting of the Quincy Animal League will be held Sunday, June 13 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Salvation Army Building, 6 Baxter St. according to John H. McDuff, Jr., chairman of the Quincy Grass Roots Committee of the New England Anti-Vivisection Society.

The League will concern itself with all animal-related issues, including humane treatment of pets, efforts to improve pound conditions, leash law enforcement, and anti-vivisection advocacy. McDuff said.

"Any person concerned about animal affairs is urged to attend," he said.

Last fall, the Grass Roots Committee succeeded in having a resolution passed unanimously by the city council opposing the Massachusetts Pound Seizure Law, which permits laboratories to seize pets held at pounds and experiment upon them.

Bethany Congregational Church Calls Associate Minister

Joel Huntington has been called as full-time Associate minister of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center effective July 15.

He was elected by a unanimous vote of the congregation at a special meeting recently, in the sanctuary following the morning worship service.

Mr. Huntington preached the Communion meditation, "To Be Misunderstood" based on John 3:1-8.

The meeting was chaired by congregation moderator, Howard S. Willard, Sr. The report of the Search Committee recommending Mr. Huntington was presented by the chairman, David S. Carr.

Other members of the search committee were Wendell Cosgrove, Cynthia Crofts, Gilbert Fitzgerald, William Lipp, Donna Pinel, and Marion Sprague.

Mr. Huntington, 29, has a B.A. degree from Earlham College, Richmond, his home state. This past May, he was graduated from Andover Newton Theological School and will be ordained into the ministry of the United Church of Christ in September.

For the past four years, the Huntingtons have resided in Jamaica Plain, where he was served as seminar assistant at Central Congregational Church.

The Huntingtons will be moving to Quincy in the near future.

Mrs. Huntington, born Tora Fernald in Cambridge, grew up in Columbus, Ohio. Also a graduate of Earlham College with a B.A. degree in elementary education, she is completing her work on a master's degree from Ohio State University.

This past year, she taught kindergarten in a private Jamaica Plain pre-school program.

Members and friends of the congregation greeted the Huntingtons during the fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor of Bethany Church.

Mr. Huntington will begin his ministry with Bethany July 15. His primary role will be to lead the congregation in a process of church growth and community outreach. He will also have responsibility for Christian education, including the church school and youth fellowships.

In addition, he will assist the senior minister of Bethany Church, the Rev. Mr. J. William

MR. and MRS. JOEL F. HUNTINGTON

Arnold, in conducting worship, preaching, and providing pastoral services.

The Rev. Mr. Elden D.J. Zuern, who has been the part-time Associate Minister at Bethany for the past five years, will continue until July 15. Since Mr. Zuern is also a probation officer at the Quincy Court, he was not able to assume the Associate Minister position full-time.

While he will no longer be on the staff, he will maintain his ministerial standing and affiliation with Bethany and will be available for some pastoral services.

He will also be continuing as the Protestant Chaplain at the Quincy City Hospital, a position now maintained by the Protestant Social Service Bureau.

New Gravestone Donated Special Honors For Inventor Of Doughnut

A salty Maine sea captain, credited with inventing the doughnut, will be given belated honors today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at his gravesite in Sailors' Snug Harbor Cemetery, Germantown.

The final resting place of Captain Hanson Gregory will be graced by a new gravestone, donated by the Dunkin Donuts Corp. to replace one apparently taken by vandals about nine years ago.

The desecration was first made public in a Quincy Sun story three years ago, prompting the doughnut concern to purchase and arrange for the placement of a suitable marker.

The public is invited as Gregory and 132 other mariners in the cemetery are remembered by children of Germantown. They will read poems and essays and place a flower on each grave.

According to Harold Crowley, a teacher at the Snug Harbor School and a member of the Germantown Historical Society, board of directors, there are three versions of how Gregory came to invent what went on to become a national lunch counter favorite.

The three versions have various levels of plausibility.

As told by Crowley, Gregory became angered when five shipmates fell overboard during a squall and immediately sank from the weight of soggy, underdone fried cakes they had just eaten.

Inspired by the shape of the ship's life preservers, Gregory picked up a belaying pin and knocked out the uncooked centers of the remaining cakes.

In the second version, Gregory was at the wheel of a ship, eating a soggy centered fried cake when a storm came up. Needing both hands on the wheel, Gregory jammed his cake onto one of its spokes. As the hole popped out, the first doughnut was made.

More prosaically, the third version has Gregory as a 15-year-old boy watching his mother fry such cakes in the kitchen of their Camden, Maine, home.

He asked her why the cakes were always so soggy. When she said the centers didn't cook, he suggested simply taking the centers out.

Crowley says mother and son were delighted with the result and so were friends and neighbors one of whom, a local grocer, began selling the cakes in his store. The doughnut was on its way to becoming a multi-million dollar industry.

Gregory was born in Maine in 1832 and spent his final years in the Sailors' Snug Harbor Rest Home after a life at sea. He died in 1921.

However Gregory did, or did not, create the doughnut, he is credited with the feat by the National Bakers Association. Today's commemoration are due to the efforts of the Germantown Heritage Society and Quincy Cemetery Department Supt. J. Vincent Smyth.

Gregory's monument will display an emblem combining the shape of a doughnut and an anchor.

Adams Building Rehab Imminent

Rehabilitation work on the historic Adams Building in Quincy Center, which dates back nearly a century, could get underway as early as next month, its new owner promised Monday night.

Harvey Gertel of Newton appeared before the City Council seeking approval to sell $2 million in low interest industrial revenue bonds to finance the restoration.

The Council swiftly gave its approval.

Gertel told the Council that he already has commitments for the bonds from a banking institution and can start work in 30 to 60 days with a completion date six months later.

He said one of the reasons for his interest in rehabilitating the old building is the advent of the new Quincy Center Plaza building across Hancock St., which has upgraded the square.

The Adams Building at 1354 Hancock St. has retail stores on the ground floor, offices on the second and third floors and a fourth floor that has not been used in some time.

Gertel called the whole building underutilized.

He said plans call for making the fourth floor habitable, rehabilitating the other floors and restoring it as it looked in the Victorian area, including candy-striped awnings.

Gertel said he has no intention of displacing the current tenants of the building, most of whom have long leases.

"We have had inquiries from prospective tenants," he said. "The market for this type of building is very strong."

Council Approves $2-M Block Grant Projects

The City Council Monday night authorized the mayor to apply for $2,049,000 in federal Community Development Block Grant money for the coming year.

The money is used in various target areas of the city for home rehabilitation loans, public works, economic development and public services such as elderly outreach programs.

Planning Director James Lydon told the Council that the grant is down about 6 per cent (some $120,000) from last year due to reductions in the federal budget under the Reagan administration. "Quincy has the lowest cutback in the state because of the way that we have run the program in the past," he said.

Lydon noted that those who receive loans from the grant for home rehabilitation pay those loans back for use over again "creating a loan pool that will last forever."

The grant will be divided up in target areas like this:

Houghs Neck, $166,808; Southwest, $368,656; Atlantic, $323,190; South Quincy, $52,695; Wollaston, $147,808; Montclair, $114,112; Central Business District, $97,112; Miscellaneous projects, $273,477.

Elks Flag Day Exercises Monday

Flag Day Exercises will be held Monday, June 14, at 8 p.m. at Quincy Lodge of Elks Hall, Quincy Center.

Ceremonies are open to the public, as well as to all Elks, their families and friends.

The program will begin with lodge officers performing the ritual service in honor of the American Flag.

Exalted Ruler Pasquale Venezia and lodge officers will participate in the formation of the Floral Bell of Liberty in the center of the room.

The program will include presentation of the American Flags which represented the United States of America prior to the adoption by Congress in 1818 of the Stars and Stripes.

Emblem Club members will participate by presenting the flags as each one is described. President Patricia Venezia will officiate.

Musical interludes throughout the program will be presented by lodge organist John N. DiBona.

Following the Flag Day program, scholarship awards will be presented to local high school youngsters by scholarship committee chairman Kevin Murphy.

Light refreshments will be served after the program.

The site was shifted from Veterans Memorial Stadium because of the heavy rain.

Dr. Robert M. Worthington, Assistant Secretary for Vocational and Adult Education, U.S. Department of Education, delivered the commencement address.

Speaking on "Your Rudder in a Sea of Change," he told the class to "celebrate and respect" themselves for their achievement, to set goals for their next achievement.

Worthington also said to "go out and strengthen America's freedom by exercising your own, and by encouraging and enabling others to exercise theirs."

He noted that in any era, many people are fond of talking about all the unsettling and confusing change going on.

"But for people with clear goals and direction in their lives, this is not the case," he said. "For a personal goal acts as a rudder in a sea of change and serves to steer you toward new opportunities, toward choices that will contribute to fulfilling the goals."

THE SIX senior members of the North Quincy girls' track team, unbeaten for three years in the Suburban League, rode in style to the recent Eastern Mass. meet. Coach Lou Tozzi, to show his appreciation for the girls' performances during the past three years, hired a limousine in which the six were driven to the meet in Lawrence. North Girls Cap Successful Season

The North Quincy girls' track team, unbeaten Suburban League co-champion and Eastern Mass. runnerup, capped another highly successful season last Saturday with a fine showing in the Mass. Invitational meet at Boston College.

The Raiderettes had no winners in the meet (strictly for individual honors with no meet champion), but did take several second places.

Michelle Millane placed second in the discus with a toss of 132-4, seven inches behind Kelly LeCompte of Beverly.

Nancy McCarthy was second in the mile with her second fastest time ever, 5:02.5, 4.2 seconds off the pace of Liz Natale of Newton.

Mary Kate Kennedy barely missed winning the 800 meters, placing second with a 2:12.0, just three seconds behind Caroline Mitchell of Needham.

And North's 1600-meter relay team also was second, McCarthy, Kennedy, Deirdre Donovan and Karen Lindenfelzer leading all the way only to be outkicked by Brookline. North's time was 3:59.7 to Brookline's 3:57.0.

Coach Lou Tozzi was pleased with his team's performance, but was unhappy about the weather conditions.

"We were looking forward to this meet, the kids have done well and were looking for good performances," he said. "This is the first time I can ever remember the Eastern Mass. and state meets having such terrible weather two weeks in a row, and I've been around for a long time."

Once Again It Was 2 Seasons In 1 For North

For the second year in a row the North Quincy baseball team had two seasons.

Charlie Bunker's Raiders lost five of their first six games, then went 6-4 over the rest of the schedule to finish with a 7-9 record.

North finished up last week with a 5-3 victory over Newton North.

Chris Bunker had a bases loaded double in the third inning to give the Raiders a 3-2 lead and scored on Bob O'Brien's sacrifice fly in the fourth to provide the game winner.

Steve Higgins singled in the final run in the fifth.

Junior Jim Kelley allowed only three hits and struck out five in a five-inning relief stint to get the win.

"If we had Kelley the first half of the season we would certainly have won a few more games," Bunker said. "He was sidelined with shoulder problems but came back to compile a 4-1 record.

"Our other top pitcher, Paul Earle, had his troubles early in the season but came along well and over the second half of our schedule I feel he and Kelley were as good as any pitchers in the league.

"After our slow start, I decided to go with my underclassmen and I think the experience they gained will prove valuable next year. The younger players really played well."

Quincy had ended its season earlier with a disappointing 5-11 record.

The highlights of the Presidents' season were Coach Bud Mosher's 100th coaching victory and an upset win over Brockton, which was 6-0 going into the game.

Burgin Sets Hot A.L. Pace Gear Holds Slim N.L. Lead

Burgin Platner is rolling along with a 10-0 record in the Junior Baseball League and holds a two-game lead over Kiwanis in the American League.

Boston Gear has a one-game lead in the National League with a 6-4 record.

In its latest outing Burgin topped Keohane's, 8-4, with Tom MacDonald having a triple and Brian Mosher, Robbie MacDonald, Billy Murphy, Mark DiMattio, Bob Thomas and Steve Nieters singles. John Quinlan and Steve Kavol played strong defense. For Keohane's Neal Balducci had a double and Dan Baker, Charlie Hughes, and Steve Leber singles.

Burgin walloped Boston Gear, 14-3, as Tom MacDonald won his fifth straight game, striking out 12. He has 58 strikeouts for the season. Robbie MacDonald had a home run, double and single. Tom MacDonald two doubles and a single, DiMattio two doubles, a triple and single, Quinlan, Murphy and Thomas two singles each and Mosher and Wayne Chambers a single apiece. Kavol played a strong defensive game. For Gear Chris Higgins had two singles and Steve Rabs, Matt Furtado, Shawn Craig and Mike Kiley one each. Paul Adams, Higgins and Craig sparked on defense.

Burgin also romped over the Elks, 10-3, with Mosher winning his first game of the year. He also had a home run and single. Tom MacDonald had a triple and double and Robbie MacDonald, Quinlan, Murphy, Thomas and Dave Santosuosso a single each. Sean Burke and Nieters starred defensively. Billy Davies had two doubles for the Elks.

The standings: American League; Burgin Platner, 10-0; Kiwanis, 8-2; Foley's, 6-3; VFW, 5-5; State Street, 4-6; Remick's, 2-8. National League: Boston Gear 6-4; Keohane's, 5-5; Houghs Neck, 5-5; Colonial Federal, 4-5; Rotary, 3-7; Elks, 1-9.

• Junior Farm League

Braves Blank Dodgers

The Braves blanked the Dodgers, 7-0, in the Junior Farm League as Joe Crespi pitched three-hit ball.

The hitting stars were Jeff Bell, Joe Bevilacqua, Peter Whyte and Stan Berg. Berg and Bob Crespi turned in fine defensive plays in the sixth inning to preserve the shutout. For the Dodgers Billy Campbell pitched well and Tom Cossaboom excelled behind the plate. Chris Barrett had two hits and Aaron Silverman the other.

The Pirates bombed the Tigers, 21-4, with Mike Baylis pitching all the way and shutting out the Tigers until the sixth. He allowed five hits and struck out nine. The Pirates had 17 hits with Matt Kelley having a home run, Mark Kelleher three, Billy Curry and Steve Sumpter two each, Chris Polito, Kelley, Ron Last, Baylis, Steve Pearson and Jason Radzevich made outstanding defensive plays. For the Tigers John O'Connell and Mike McDonald stood out on defense.

The Orioles went in a hitting spree and scored 15 runs in the fourth inning and bombed the Tigers, 22-7, as Sal Manganaro had a triple, two doubles and a single and six RBI. The Kelley brothers had a good night with John having a three-run homer and Kevin a two-run triple. Joey Nabstedt had three hits, Russ Connolly reached base three times and Steve Kohler, who pitched well, was on base four times.

Richie MacDonald pitched the Angels to a 6-1 victory over the Mets and also had two hits, including a home run. Jamie Tapper had three hits and two RBI and Peter Kelley and Bobby Loughlin also had hits. Mark Cafano pitched well for the Mets and he, George Walsh and Richie Powers played strong defensive games.

The Pirates topped the Orioles, 4-2, with three runs in the last inning. It was one of the best games of the season with both teams playing errorless ball.

Both teams scored a run in the first inning, and that was all the scoring until the sixth when the Orioles took a 2-1 lead. They would have scored more except for the fine defensive play of Steve Sumpter, Steve Carroll, Ron Last and Chris Polito. Mike Baylis, with a fractured wrist in a cast, made a fine throw from right field to stop a run and winning pitcher Matt Kelly had a key strikeout.

In the bottom half Baylis drove in Mark Kelleher (3 for 3) with the tying run and, with the bases loaded, Polito drove in the two winning runs.

Kelley and the Orioles' Jim Monroe were outstanding on the mound. Last had an unassisted double play. Billy Curry made a good play in center field to stop a run and Mike Lally made a good tag at home to halt another. Freddy Regan had two hits for the O's.

First 200 Foot Hammer Throw Tops Elks Meet

Harold Connolly of Brighton became the first American to clear 200 feet in the hammer throw in the 67th annual New England AAU track and field championships, held as part of the Quincy Elks Golden Jubilee celebration at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Connolly, a graduate of Boston College, overcame the handicap of a withered left arm to hurl the 16-pound hammer 201 feet, 5 1/4 inches to break his own American record of 197 feet, 1 1/2 inches which he had set only five days before at Fort Devens.

Another Connolly toss of more than 205 feet was nullified when it was ruled that he had barely fouled.

Dave Settele of Weymouth, the New England intercollegiate hurdles champion from Northeastern, was a double winner at the meet, capturing the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.6 seconds and the 220-yard low hurdles in 27 seconds.

A night earlier, nearly 2,000 spectators showed up for the Elks Golden Jubilee boxing card at the stadium in which Lou Brouillard Jr., son of the former world welterweight and middleweight champion, made an unsuccessful local debut.

Young Brouillard, a 19-year-old heavyweight from Hingham, was floored twice in 47 seconds of the first round by Lee Williams, 212, of Boston before Referee Jimmy McCarron stopped the fight.

"It was strictly a case of being overmatched," said the young fighter's father, who worked in his son's corner. "He never should have been matched against such a rugged and experienced opponent. However, we'll keep working with Lou and bring him along slowly."

The boxing show was so successful that Eddie LaCroix, boxing director for the Elks, said an effort will be made to land the 1956 National AAU fights for Quincy.

COOLIDGE SPARKS PAL

Bob Coolidge, making his first South Shore League appearance since completing his freshman year at the University of Miami, belted a long home run in the second inning to start the Quincy Police Athletic league team off to a 3-2 victory over the Milton AC.

The victory was PAL's ninth in 10 starts and moved the Quincy team into a 2 1/2 game lead over Most Precious Blood of Hyde Park atop the South Shore League.

Bob Kopp scored the second run in the third inning when he walked, stole second and scored on Eddie Densmore's single. The PAL's winning run came in the fourth inning on Jim Fleming's walk, Al Elkhill's single and a fielder's choice.

Ernie Goguen had a shutout for Quincy until the seventh when Milton scored two runs on a double, a single and an error.

TWO-HITTER BY MACAULEY

Arthur Macauley threw a two-hitter and John MacLean knocked in the winning run in the sixth inning as the John Quincy Adams Club defeated the Elks, 1-0, in a Quincy Little League game. Macauley struck out 10 and walked only one.

Ed DiSalvio stroked two home runs, driving in four runs, to lead Sears to a 5-4 Pony League victory over Fabricated Steel. Dave Hanson had a double, Terry Tedrow two singles and Jim Green and John Swan a pair of safeties each for Sears.

Frannie Conroy pitched a five hitter and Al Warrington belted a home run, a double and a single as South Shore Buick demolished Remick's, 12-2, in another Little League encounter and UCT trampled Granite Mobile, 16-2, on homers by Bill Nota and Bill Landry.

MORRISSETTE LEADS

The Morrisette Junior Legion baseball team came from behind with five runs in the last of the first inning for a 10-5 victory over Weymouth behind pitcher Nick Taylor, its fourth win in a row in search of a second straight Zone Six championship.

Milton Legion handed Wollaston its first loss of the season, 1-0, as Wollaston hurler Bill Wanless came up with his second straight standout performance. Each team collected three hits, one of them a triple by Jack Kelly of Wollaston.

SPORTS BITS '55

The No. 2 team of Charlie Ford and Bill McCarthy set the pace as Furnace Brook's four-ball team won the Norfolk League title for the seventh time in eight years by beating Norfolk, 10-2, on the home course. . . . Dick Donovan of Quincy won his ninth game in 11 decisions with a four-hit, 3-0, victory over Washington, his fourth shutout of the year for the Chicago White Sox. . . . Pvt. Walter A. Morse of Island Ave., Houghs Neck, won the 101st Infantry Regiment Golden Gloves lightweight title at the Fast Newton St. Armory in Boston.

Stephanie Osgood, Beth Bunker and Lee Fitzgerald had six points each against Wollaston and Stacy Welch had four. Paula Sullivan played a strong game. Robin Crooks had 11 points for Wollaston, while Barbara Kvalnes, Randy Gollub and Michelle Larkin played excellent defense.

Mass. Fields is in second place one game behind, losing only to Montclair.

Mass. Fields defeated Wollaston, 16-6, and Parker, 22-7, last week.

Jill Caldwell scored eight points in each game for Mass. Fields. Also playing well were Elaine Joseph, Krisie Shafon and Kim Rayne. For Wollaston Jessica McKeon, Kerri and Kathy Musso played well. For Parker Kris Phipps, Krissy MacDonald and Susan Hall played well.

Earlier Montclair had rolled to wins over Wollaston, Parker and Mass. Fields.

Flukes led the way against Wollaston with eight points while Karrie Pistorino and Lee Fitzgerald played well. For Wollaston Kvalnes had five and Robin Crooks and Mary Feeney also scored.

Flukes had 14 points in the win over Parker and Miles, Earley and Bunker had six each. For Parker Eileen Campbell had six and MacDonald and Renee Robichad also scored.

Montclair had Mass. Fields its only defeat, 21-15. Bunker had eight points but it was two baskets by Osgood in the final quarter that assured the win. Peterson and Welch played well. Caldwell had five for Mass. Fields and Shelley Mahoney and Dawn Sullivan had good games.

Mass. Fields edged Squantum, 13-11, on Caldwell's three-point play with a minute left. Playing good defense were Debbie Panaro and Deirdre Murphy.

Mass. Fields also topped Parker as Caldwell had six points and Joseph and Andrea Kelly four each. Campbell had three for Parker.

Parker defeated Wollaston, 18-13, behind Campbell's 11 points. Kristen Drake and Lisa Rodriguez played fine all-around games. Kvalnes had nine for Wollaston. Gollub rebounded well and McKeon played good defense.

Squamtopped Parker, 12-6, as Rita Rooney scored eight points. Liz Harrington and Sheila D'Antone also played well, while Johnson and Barbara Carroll led Parker.

Legion Baseball Underway

Morrisette, Quincy, Wollaston Open

The Zone 6 American Legion baseball season opens this week with Morrissette, Quincy and Wollaston again in the fold.

Quincy opens tonight (Thursday) at Adams Field at 8 against Weymouth. Wollaston hosts Holbrook Friday at 6 at Adams.

Morrisette was forced to cancel two games this week and will open Monday night at Hingham at 6 and will open its home season Tuesday night at 8 against Brockton at Adams Field.

Morrisette, again coached by Ray Cattaneo, has a good representation from Quincy, North Quincy, Abp. Williams and B.C. High schools.

From Quincy there are pitcher-outfielder Jim Bandera, a second-year player who led the Suburban League in batting this season and also pitched well; third baseman John Balzano, also in his second year and the team's No. 2 hitter a year ago; pitcher-outfielder Mike Notarangelo and infielder Paul Cedrone, both playing for the first time with Morrissette.

Representing North Quincy High are Paul Earle, a three-year veteran who had a fine year pitching for North, and three first-year players, outfielder Chris Bunker, infielder-outfielder Jackie Bolster and catcher Mike Gill. Bunker and Bolster have four years of Legion eligibility and have excellent potential.

From Abp. Williams are two three-year veterans, pitcher Mike Morris, who could be the No. 1 pitcher, and infielder Jim O'Tool, one of the finest shortstops this year in the Catholic Conference. Kevin Whalen, a second-year player, is a fine relief pitcher, and infielder Scott Mele and outfielder Dan Kelly, first-year players, are outstanding prospects.

B.C. High players are headed by a pair of three year veterans, infielder Brian Reale, one of the finest players in schoolboy circles, and first baseman Steve Peevich, who had an outstanding season this spring. Catcher Marty McLoughlin and pitcher Mike Marshall are playing for the second season and should have fine years.

Infielder-outfielder Jeff Timberlake is playing for the first time and is rated by Cattaneo as one of the best 16-year-old players around.

"We have a good nucleus of veterans and some outstanding newcomers," said Cattaneo, whose teams are always contenders for the zone title. "If our pitching holds up we should have a good season, but there are some strong teams in our league and it should be an interesting season."

LITTLE Anthony Lallis, 5, of 111 Doane St., Quincy, a victim of leukemia, will go to Disneyworld thanks to the $1,500 raised at the annual Quincy Police charity golf tournament.

Youngster Real Winner Of Police Tourney

It was hardly a day conducive to playing golf, but, as John Caporale said while walking up the 18th fairway in the rain at the Pembroke Country Club, "I wish it could have been a nicer day, but golf was not the reason we braved the elements to play in this tournament today."

The occasion was the annual Quincy Police Charity tournament and co-chairman Dennis Mannix had just announced to the players that $1,500 had been raised to send a stricken Quincy youngster with leukemia to Disneyworld.

The tournament, held by the Quincy police with the help of local businessmen, is designed to help local charities. This year Mannix and co-chairman Bob Edgar changed the format from donating the money to a particular charity to sending a needy youth with leukemia to every youngster's dreamland, Disneyworld.

With the assistance of Bill

DeRosa, public relations officer of Floating Hospital, it was decided that Anthony Lallis, 5, of 111 Doane St., Germantown, would benefit most from such a trip.

Anthony, who has been a patient at the hospital for a year, could only say, "I've always wanted to meet Mickey Mouse and Goofy," when informed by Edgar and Mannix that he would be leaving for Disneyworld June 30.

Steve Drysdale was the gross winner with a seven-over-par 79. Jim Bevilacqua was the net winner with a 73. Other prize winners were Cliff Marshall, closest to the pin; Drysdale, longest drive on the 18th fairway; Roy Cavicchi, Mark Bortman, Sheldon Chaisson and Mannix, who won prizes on selected holes.

Dan Quirk, owner of Quirk Ford of Quincy, said before the tournament he would donate a 1982 Escort to any golfer who made a hole-in-one on the 11th hole.

The car was located at the entrance to the course as a reminder to the golfers as they paraded to the first tee.

Arthur Shea, a member of Furnace Brook Golf Club and a Quincy police captain, provided the greatest excitement when he stroked a six-iron within inches of the hold on the 165-yard hole.

Master of ceremonies Paul O'Donnell stated at the awards ceremony that "if Arthur hadn't cheated last year, he probably would have won the car."

The Quincy Police thank the following sponsors for making the annual tournament a big success:

Bargain Center, Rogers Jewelry, Coleman's Sporting Goods, The Golf Doctor, Quincy Cycle, Fleishman's Package, Wollaston Wine and Liquor, Alfredo's Restaurant, Sherry's Restaurant, Eddie's Diner, Knotty Pine Restaurant, Mr. Kelly's Restaurant, Golden Bowl, Cathay Pacific, China Star, Joy King, Nostostasia Club, Liberty Lounge, Beacon Sporting Goods, President's Golf Course and Tech Hi-Fi.

HN Edges Morrisette 6-5

Houghs Neck edged Morrisette

6-5, in a Babe Ruth League game as Pat Hennessey won his third game in a row.

Both teams were off on defense following an extended layoff due to the weather.

Dave Zuroms had a tremendous home run for Houghs Neck, hitting the ball out of Merry-mount Field onto Hancock Street. Mark MacDonald (triple), Tim Collins, Hennessey, Greg McGlame and Joe Ciardi also had hits, Ciardi driving in two runs. Tom Connolly had two hits for Morrisette and Paul Canavan and Jack Outerbridge had the only other hits off Hennessey, who struck out 13.

Stay Alive!

FEARLESS FAIRWAY DRIVER

Unless you're playing with Spino Agnew, you probably think golf is a safe sport. Actually it is, but the harmless-looking golf cart is another story. This little tri-wheeled vehicle may seem harmless, but even at slow speeds, smashups can cause serious injuries.

A Wisconsin man suffered a triple fracture of the ankle and a dislocated shoulder when the brakes failed on a hill. A Pittsburgh lady suffered a fractured leg when she was thrown from her cart when the steering wheel broke and the cart veered abruptly. Two brothers barely escaped serious injury when one of the wheels fell off and the cart plunged off a wood-plank bridge to the rocks 15 feet below.

The biggest menace on the fairways, however, is the drinking driver who becomes playful and reckless. Used properly, the golf cart can save overexertion but if you don't treat it with respect you can get hurt.

WEEK OF: JUNE 10

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Stalled plans are re-activated this week and romance specifically gets a helpful boost. Two warnings: your advice to the lovelorn can backfire, your advice to parents can be misunderstood.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Financial dealings with a friend may be unwise. Successful creative venture can be launched by Monday. News from afar may affect your summer plans. Authority figure is supportive.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Easysonging friend may be hard to please now; there could be difficulties when sharing expenses. Week has an international flavor - you experiment with cuisines or practice a new language.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

You're ready to make new friends; be outgoing but not aggressive, especially through the weekend. This is a financially favorable time, but think twice before making luxury purchases.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Your spontaneous invitations make for a delightful week. If not romantically committed, things may change now. Tackle jobs with enthusiasm and win points - and rewards - for sportsmanship.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Partnership is stressed and decisions made in twos prove your wisest. Rival at work steps out of the picture - but don't lose your guard. Try developing new interests through week.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Objective observers give the soundest suggestions on an emotional family matter. Financial status begins to improve. By the weekend, you should be over a romantic slump.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Straightforward family issue gets out of hand with everyone making a contribution. It's probably best to rely on your instincts. Unexpected guests make the weekend lively.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Good week for contacting old friends or making new ones. Your leadership abilities are put to the test. Companion is unexpectedly receptive to your ideas and opinions.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Work hard to settle financial disputes before Wednesday. Involvement and leadership are emphasized - in community organizations and/or health-and-fitness routines. Romance is increasingly upbeat.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

A busy week, with visitors, conferences and journeys filled with discovery. At the job or on the homefront, you may be appointed to role of financial manager.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

If you've put all your cards on the table, insist that other parties do so too. By Monday-Tuesday, you reap the benefits from a job completed early in 1982.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

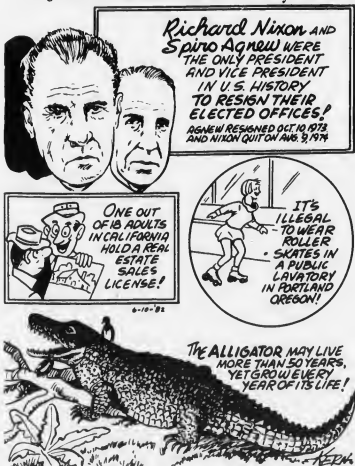

Opposite traits are found in your nature - as an example, you're easily bored but you're easily intrigued. You're a witty talker and keep up to the minute. Prospects this year include change of address and unusual teaching opportunity.

BORN THIS WEEK

Polluted Beaches May Open Monday

Winthrop Wade, acting head of the Public Health Department, said Tuesday Quincy beaches may be opened to swimming by Monday if the MDC's sewer treatment plants have a good weekend.

Former Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh ordered the beaches closed Friday when the bacteria count in the water rose to unprecedented heights due to heavy rains that backed up Boston sewage.

Wade, who is director of Environmental Services, said he took samples of the water Tuesday morning "and if the samples meet standards the beaches could open Thursday (today) but I'm not optimistic."

He said that the little used facility on Moon Island had pumped more than one billion gallons of untreated sewage into the bay since May 23 and Nut Island discharged 415 million gallons since June 5.

Junior And Senior High Report Cards Out In July

Arthur S. Woodward, director of secondary education, has announced that junior and senior report cards for the fourth quarter will be available after the end of the Wade said a count of 700 is the maximum permitted for swimming in salt water and in some sections of Wollaston Beach the count taken last week reached 34,000.

"I've never seen counts this high since I've been here," he said.

He said the culprit was the heavy rains over the weekend which forced the MDC to send sewage destined for the Deer Island Treatment Plant through pipes to Moon Island.

"It's done a awful job on the water in the bay," said Wade. "The water even looks discolored. It stinks to high heaven."

Clam flats in Quincy were closed by the state last Thursday because of the pollution.

Some other coliform (bacteria) counts in waters around the city were: Orchard Beach, Squantum, 20,000; Merrymount Beach, 16,000; Edgewater Drive Beach, Houghs Neck, 7,000; and Avalon Beach, Quincy Point, 2,000.

school year.

Woodward said the parents or students may pick up the cards at the various schools on July 7 to July 9 from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 2:30 p.m. for grades 7 to 11.

Condon Pushes For Health Board McKeogh To Appeal Firing By Mayor

By TOM HENSHAW

Dr. Robert P. McKeogh plans to contest in court his ouster by Mayor Francis X. McCauley as city health commissioner.

And City Councillor Joanne Condon plans to push ahead at Monday night's Council meeting with her proposal that the commissioner be replaced by a board of health.

Dr. McKeogh was fired Monday for what McCauley called a violation of state law by failing to devote his entire time to his duties as health commissioner and maintaining a private practice on the side.

Dr. McKeogh's attorney, Richard W. Barry, said he will file an appeal from the dismissal in Norfolk Superior Court next week seeking a declaratory judgement on whether or not the mayor acted properly.

"The only way he can be removed is for cause," said Barry. "State law says that he shall be employed the entire time as commissioner and we contend that he is available all the time, days, nights, weekends.

"Even the mayor's fact-finder has found that Dr. McKeogh works 35 hours a week as commissioner."

Mrs. Condon said that she will file a resolve at next week's Council meeting asking the mayor to study the feasibility of setting up an unpaid board of health to run the Health Department.

"There is strong support for it in the Council," said Council President John J. Lydon Jr. "An unpaid five member board would save the city money and broaden the department's expertise."

The commissioner's job is good for $37,180 a year.

"Many other boards like the Board of Appeals and the Planning Board function unpaid over departments," said Lydon, "and I see no reason why a board of health cannot serve the city in the same way."

Replacing the commissioner with a board of health would require a charter change by way of a legislative home rule petition, Lydon noted, and it also would require a change in the makeup of the License Board.

Mayor McCauley said that "as a practical matter we have no time this year to establish a board of health but it certainly is worth looking into. I could see a board of health in 1983."

N. Q. Shooting Touches Off Huge Drug Raid

It started five months ago when Lee Shorter, 49, of Cleveland, Ohio, was found shot in the chest lying on a ramp of the Neponset River Bridge outside the Quincy Bay Inn in North Quincy.

Two men, one of them a laid-off Boston police officer, were arrested on charges of attempted murder in the Shorter shooting. Quincy police suspected that drugs were involved.

Names supplied by the arrested men led to Brintree. Police in that town came up with some more names. The investigation zeroed in on a home on Sheppard Ave. in East Brintree.

Superior Court Judge Thomas Dwyer decided that there was enough evidence to justify a telephone wiretap on the house. The case widened to Marshfield, Brockton, Dorchester, Jamaica Plain.

Throughout the month of May, at least 27 Quincy police officers were at work around the clock, some of them putting in hours of unpaid overtime to bust a multi-million dollar South Shore drug ring with New York and Florida connections.

It went down Monday.

Quincy police spearheaded a series of swift early morning raids that netted seven men and one woman on drug charges and confiscated 10 pounds of cocaine with a street value of about $1.5 million.

Charged with conspiracy to violate the narcotics drug laws were:

Lawrence Goldman, 41, of Brintree; Antonio Santana, 38, of Brockton; David George, 31, of Marshfield; Robert Reilly, 48, and John Miskel, 27, both of Dorchester; and Richard I. Gold, 49, Robert W. Epstein, 42, and Robin J. Albelda, 30, all of Jamaica Plain.

All pleaded innocent and their cases were continued to June 23 in Quincy District Court.

Miskel was held without bail; Goldman's bail was set at $200,000 surety, $20,000 cash; George $100,000 surety, $10,000 cash; Santana, $75,000 surety, $7,500 cash; Gold $3,000 cash; Epstein, $1,000 cash, and Reilly $500 cash.

Albelda was released in $100 personal recognizance.

Police Lt. David F. Rowell said raiders confiscated $100,000 in cash, $18,000 in silver ingot bars, 68,000 quaalude tablets, 10 pounds of cocaine, three pounds of marijuana, nine guns and three expensive cars, one of them a Cadillac limousine.

The series of raids, dubbed Operation Red Eagle and set for 6 a.m. Monday, went off smoothly, efficiently and almost without a hitch.

Five minutes before the appointed time, Red Eagle One reported to the command post at Quincy police headquarters that the main target of the raid,

North Quincy Shooting Touches Off Huge Drug Raid

Goldman, was not home at 56

Sheppard Ave. His car was not there. It didn't really matter.

The 6 a.m. deadline passed nervously while the command post waited for all six units to be in place. Some had farther to go than others. Boston police were a little late getting to a target in Jamaica Plain.

At 6:04 a.m., Red Eagle 2 reported from 12 Elder St., Dorchester that it had two prisoners and requested a wagon to take them to the station.

"What the hell's he doing going in there," snorted Lowell at the command post.

That didn't really matter either. At 6:09 a.m. all units were in position and Rowell barked, "Execute!" into the mike of his radio. Reports began to come in swiftly.

Three minutes after the go-ahead was ordered, Red Eagle Five in Marshfield reported the arrest of George. The unit wanted to know if the warrant included a dark blue Caddy. Negative. Don't touch it.

At 6:13 a.m., Red Eagle One reported "no bodies present" at the Sheppard Ave., Braintree, address. No one was home at 266 Arborway, Jamaica Plain, either. There was some concern.

At 6:28 a.m., the problem was resolved, Goldman, Epstein and Gold were in custody at Gold's apartment at 111 Perkins St., Jamaica Plain.

By 6:30 a.m., all eight were in custody and the raiders, armed with search warrants, were prowling the premises for evidence. Here a .357 magnum pistol. There $6,000 in cash. Cocaine, marijuana, drug paraphernalia everywhere.

The house at 12 Elder St., Dorchester, yielded about 100 little glassene envelopes with cocaine.

"A lot of kids won't be doing coke," said one of the raiders from Boston.

Ako Patrolman Peter Flynn, Deputy Sheriff William Grindlay, Det. Robert Bird, Kevin Mormino, Thomas Stansbury and Mary McCarthy.

Officers from Boston, Braintree, Milton, Brockton, and Marshfield also took part along with those from the federal Drug Enforcement Agency, the U.S. Customs Office and Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms unit.

1 A.M. Closing Vote Awaits McKeogh's Successor

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The long awaited, and much debated, License Board decision on a 1 a.m. closing hour for bars, establishments was continued Tuesday until a new health commissioner is named to replace the fired Dr. Robert P. McKeogh.

Fire Chief Edward Barry made the motion to continue the matter until a five member board is present.

Barry pointed out that it has been the board's usual procedure in the past to await a full board before voting on important matters.

After the meeting, City Clerk John Gillis said he didn't think it would be long before Mayor Francis McCauley names a new health commissioner.

"I should think he'd do so soon," said Gillis, "so the business of the city can go on."

With regard to Dr. McKeogh's firing, Gillis said, "I liked him."

"He was an asset to the License Board. He certainly did his homework."

"Although I disagreed with him, I liked the man."

$2.5 M In Taxes In City Till

Auditor Robert E. Foy III, who is supervising the tax collector's office until a new one is chosen, reported that $2.5 million in taxes was collected by the close of city business Tuesday.

That's 10 per cent of the $25 million tax levy for the second half of fiscal 1982. The other 90 per cent have until Monday, June 28, at 4:30 p.m. to pay up.

Foy said the day-to-day receipts are enough to pay the current expenses of the city but that several loans taken in anticipation of taxes had to be rolled over for lack of funds.

Sears Remembers Quincy

Late Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa would have been pleased if he were alive and could have heard John Sears talking about him.

Sears, campaigning for the Republican nomination for governor, dropped by The Quincy Sun last week for a chat.

And a few minutes later you got the idea that if Sears should be elected governor, Della Chiesa might have a posthumous effect on state government.

"I worshipped Della Chiesa," Sears said. "I served in the House with him, you know."

"He told me once that if he had one more term as mayor he would contract out just about every service in the city. The state could start thinking along that line."

"I think we could farm out the MBTA bus lines. I'd sit down with the MBTA unions and tell them that if they don't pick up speed then we won't stand for it."

"The private sector unions have gotten the message. It's time for the public sector unions to get the message, too."

Sears noted that he is "not exactly invisible in Quincy."

"I worked with Joe Brett and Mayor Della Chiesa to straighten out the Greenberg Bridge over Black's Creek. We rebuilt Caddy Park and fixed up the Dorothy Q. House."

Sears, whose most recent public job was as a Boston city councillor, became most familiar with Quincy while commissioner of the MDC.

"Mike and Ed (that's former Gov. Michael Dukakis and Gov. Edward J. King, the Democratic candidates) have had about 10 MDC commissioners between them and I haven't seen them do a darn thing," he said.

Sears' visit to Quincy came on the heels of two polls taken by Channel 5 and the Boston Globe showing him well ahead of his principal opponent, John Lakian of Westwood, who was endorsed by the Republican convention.

The Channel 5 poll had him leading 28-15 and the Globe poll showed him ahead 27-18.

"I'm pleased and a little surprised, too," he said. "I thought John would have spurted ahead because of the excitement of the convention."

Sears is also touring the state in the interests of other, more obscure Republican candidates. On one lapel he wore a Sears button. On the other, one for Leon Lombardi for lieutenant governor.

"I'm also campaigning for Jodie Dow for state secretary, Mary LeClair for treasurer and Mike Robertson for auditor," he said. "We've got to talk up these Republicans to get the party moving again."

"We've even recruited a lawyer named Gil Kaplan to run for the House in my district. I notice there is no Republican running in John Lakian's district."

"If we don't have a Republican winner pretty soon, it'll be the Duke and the King running against each other for the rest of the century."

SPEAKING OF Della Chiesa, we mentioned last week that Mayor Francis McCauley would like to have the mini-park at Quincy Center Plaza named in honor of the Della Chiesa Family.

We noted that the Ross Parking Way was named after late Mayor Charles McGrath. And McIntyre Mall after Police Capt. William McIntyre, father of Mayor James McIntyre.

But we neglected to include Thomas S. Burgin Parkway, named after the former mayor and Quincy's elder statesmen. Sorry, Tom.

BURGIN

MARY COLLINS concedes that she might someday like to be Quincy's first woman mayor.

At least, she says on Quincy Newsmakers, the Ch. 3 panel show on Quincy Cable-systems, that she would be interested. The video taped show was shown Monday night and will be repeated tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m.

COLLINS

FORMER Mayor Arthur H. Tobin is taking a three-day leave from his new post as clerk-magistrate at Quincy District Court to go to Harvard. He's studying executive court management at Harvard Law School through Saturday.

TOBIN

THOSE 1,700 names on the Quincy Vietnam War veterans scroll at City Hall were hand done in Old English by Stella Krupka, former teacher at Broad Meadows Junior High School. She also does college diplomas. Names of Quincy residents are still being added. Stella, incidentally, knew Pope John Paul when he was a Cardinal.

SENATOR Paul Harold will have no opposition after all in his bid for re-election. Kevin Tarmey who earlier filed nomination papers has been ruled off the ballot by the Ballot Law Commission. A Baintree couple, Carol and Gerald Richmond of Baintree, objected to Tarmey's candidacy on the grounds he was actually a resident of New Hampshire and not Sterling St., Quincy where his parents live. Tarmey did not contest the objection.

HAROLD

REGARDLESS, the Harold committee will go on with its "campaign kickoff" reception for Harold scheduled for Tuesday, June 22 from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club. Tickets ($12.50 per person) may be obtained from General Chairman Mike Linnane, Paul Bregoli, Phil Shea, or Paul Hogan or by calling 471-9520.

A Tribute To Quincy Visiting Nurses Assn.

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

One of the finest, most helpful, and dedicated groups rendering personal services in our city is the Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, Inc. From personal observation of those well educated and carefully trained nurses, I am pleased to commend them in the highest terms for their outstanding and unselfish service to those requiring home care following hospitalization or upon a doctor's certificate.

Only recently, after surgery, it was necessary that I receive home care that I was unable to do personally. The daily and helpful calls by the visiting nurse, Mrs. Dorothy Cullen, R.N., were most professionally administered, resulting in complete recovery from a condition, while not serious, was most uncomfortable.

To those who have not experienced the need for home nursing care for either themselves or a member of their family, I say without hesitation that just in knowing of the available service rendered by the Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, Inc., they should feel reassured.

This dedicated group deserves, and I certainly hope will, receive the loyal support and financial assistance, when and if needed, to continue its outstanding community service in these trying days of ever increasing costs.

Dr. McKeogh To Appeal Ouster As Health Head

Peter Kenney, the mayor's executive secretary, conferred with Winthrop Wolfe, now the highest ranking official in the Health Department, who, he said, has pretty much run the department on a day-to-day basis.

"He is authorized to sign death certificates," said Kenney. "He can test the waters. He is also authorized to reopen the beaches that were closed last week when he deems it appropriate."

McCauley said he has no one in mind to succeed Dr. McKeogh but he will appoint someone to fill the unexpired remainder of his term which ends in January, 1986.

The mayor conceded that it will be difficult to fill the post because the qualifications as set down by law are quite strict.

The job calls for a person with a medical degree plus a degree in public health and two years experience or, in lieu of a public health degree, four years experience.

The Health Department had no representatives on the License Board Tuesday when that body postponed action on the controversial matter of the 2 a.m. liquor licenses.

The mayor and Dr. McKeogh disagreed strongly on the questions, with the mayor in favor of a rollback to 1 a.m., but McCauley said the clash of opinions played no role in his decision to fire Dr. McKeogh.

"My action has nothing to do with Dr. McKeogh's position on the license board nor with his competence as a physician," he said.

At a news conference Monday, the mayor gave these specific reasons for removing Dr. McKeogh:

- He failed to devote his entire time to the performance of his duties as health commissioner.
- He failed to devote his entire time to the supervision of Health Department employees.
- He did not, at the time of his appointment in January, 1981, meet state law with regard to qualifications for the position.
- He attended classes as a full time student during normal working hours.
- He has been unable to fully and effectively discharge the responsibilities of his office by engaging in personal activities during the normal working hours of his department.

Over 1,000 March In Koch Club Flag Day Parade

Despite the record cool temperatures and overcast skies, the 31st annual Flag Day Parade was conducted in Quincy Monday evening.

More than 1,000 members of recreational organizations as well as boy scouts, girl scouts and camp fire girls braved the cold to march in a tribute to "The Stars and Stripes."

The North Quincy High School and Hull High School Bands provided the marching beat for the hundreds of boys and girls as they paraded with their red, white and blue flags in Quincy Center to the Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy for the past three decades, the line of march paused at the Church of the Presidents as wreaths were placed on the tombs of the second and sixth Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

The parade again rested at the John F. Kennedy Health Center as a wreath was laid at the steps in a tribute to the 35th President of the United States and the only honorary member of the Koch Club.

At the brief stadium ceremonies, the Bryan VFW Post Color Guard raised the flag as the North Quincy High School Band played the "National Anthem."

The flag used in the exercise was flown over the nation's capital during the Bi-Centennial Year and was presented to the Koch Club by former Congressman James A. Burke.

Prayers were offered by Fr. Cornelius Heery, Pastor of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, Dr. Stephen W. Nease, president, Eastern Nazarene College, and Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue.

The Koch Club Scholarship Award winners were introduced by Anthony T. Delmonico, chairman, assisted by committee members David J. Donaghue, Howard F. Crowley and Richard J. Koch, Jr.

Awards were presented to Mary E. Golden and Paul Victor Dindy of North Quincy High School, Denise L. Jolley and Jeffrey Morrison of Quincy High School and Helenanne M. Kelley and William E. Dunn, Jr. of the Quincy Vocational Technical School.

The First Division was led by the Quincy Fire Department Color Guard. They were joined by the South Weymouth Naval Air Station and a contingent of Headquarters 126th Signal Battalion.

City and state elected officials participated in the line of march and were introduced at the stadium exercises.

Farmers' Market Opens Friday In Hancock Parking Lot

Quincy is joining the growing list of cities and towns in the "Farmers' Market" movement.

The market, where Massachusetts-grown fruits and vegetables may be sold by the growers themselves, will open Friday, July 16, from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the John Hancock Parking Area.

It will be held every Friday at the same time for the remainder of the growing season.

The site is close to several housing projects for senior citizens and within walking distance of the Quincy Center MBTA station with its access to Boston and other South Shore communities.

Details of the market were worked out during the past five months by the state Department of Planning and Community Development and the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program of the Norfolk County Extension Services.

In addition to fresh fruits and vegetables, plants, flowers, eggs, honey and fresh cider will also be offered for sale. But processed foods and baked goods will be banned.

Sellers will register each day with the market master with a fee of 50 cents for walk-ins, $1 for cars, $2 for station wagons, $3 for vans and $4 for pickup trucks charged each time.

Further details may be obtained by contacting the Norfolk County Extension Services at 205 Beale St., Wollaston, telephone 479-6065.

Council Rejects Bid For Purchasing Agent

The City Council was in a mood to reject most everything at its weekly Monday night meeting.

Councillor Frank N. Orcutt failed to get approval of a resolve asking that City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. stop making purchases himself and appoint a city purchasing agent.

Orcutt said Deegan, who is paid $13,500 a year, and his $5,000 a year assistant were devoting too much of their time to purchasing and too little time to overall city management.

"They tell us about all these thousands we are saving," said Orcutt. "Well, I'm from Missouri. Let's cut out the fooling. Let's cut out making a mockery of the purchasing department."

The Council also turned down a proposal by Councillor Alfred G. Helfrich asking that $225,000 be taken from the excess and deficiency fund to start an account to build a new high school in five years.

Another Helfrich bid was rejected to establish municipal internships to further the training of graduate students in public administration who wish to be town and city managers.

ANGELS TIE UP TRAFFIC

The Navy's Blue Angels stunt flying team put on a show over the Squantum Naval Air Station that attracted 200,000 spectators and tied up traffic from the Fore River Bridge to Columbia Circle in Boston.

It took nearly two hours to filter some 10,000 cars parked on the Squantum base back into traffic on Quincy Shore Drive after the show. Parked cars lined side streets as far away as North Quincy High.

The display by the six Grumman F9F Panther jets, which skimmed the field as low as 100 feet off the ground at speeds up to 500 miles an hour, led five local youths to apply for Navy flight training.

POPULATION AT 83,190

Harold P. Minnock, district census supervisor, announced that a preliminary population count for Quincy in the 1950 census was 83,190, an increase of 7,380 people over 1940.

Minnock said the final figure is expected to be higher when Quincy residents who are serving in the armed forces, or who are away at school, or otherwise away from home are included in the count.

SCHOOL BILL PASSES

A bill permitting Quincy to borrow $2 million outside the debt limit for school construction in the next five years passed the House, shepherded by Rep. William W. Jenness.

The first two projects on the list are elementary schools on Fenno St., Wollaston, and in Germantown.

Quincy Cooperative Bank has a word for this . . . Dedication

Class of 1982: Our Pride and Joy

The Quincy Cooperative Bank takes great pride in announcing that once again the Josiah Quincy Jr. Scholarships have been awarded to an outstanding group of students, selected by their schools for dedication to scholarship and good citizenship.

The awards are made by the bank in the knowledge that the future of the communities we serve is in the hands of our young people. We believe, too, that our schools provide the surest guarantee of future excellence in community leadership.

The scholarships are named for Josiah Quincy Jr., the father of cooperative banking, and for whom the bank is named. We believe encouragement of learning is totally consistent with his ideals.

The photograph above, taken at the presentation luncheon, shows nine of the eleven winners. Awarded $100 scholarships were John Gonzales, Archbishop Williams High School; James St. Andre, Braintree High School; Daniel Hall, Cohasset High School; Douglas T. Thomson, Hanover High School; Catherine M. Feeney, North Quincy High School; Carla Casey, Quincy High School; Monique Powers, Quincy Vocational-Technical High School; Laura Parkin, Thayer Academy; Lisa Smith, Woodward School for Girls; Damien T. Cahill, South Shore Vocational-Technical High School.

The $1500 scholarship for a Quincy Junior College graduate who plans to go on to a four-year college was awarded to Donald L. Combs.

Brownell Elderly Tax Plan Favored

The Legislative Committee on Taxation has reported favorably on a package of proposals, sponsored by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell, that is designed to reduce the tax burden on the elderly.

"This legislative package would increase the elderly income tax deduction from $700 to $1,000 and allow for a $2,000 personal exemption for each spouse, regardless of income," said Brownell.

"Also, the interest exclusion on savings would be increased to $200 for a single taxpayer and $400 for a joint return.

"The elderly property tax exemption eligibility requirements are also expanded as a result of this legislation.

"The allowable income for an elderly exemption would go from $6,000 single and $7,000 married to $10,000 single and $12,000 married and the whole estate value for eligibility would be increased to $20,000 single and $23,000 married.

"Most significantly, the principal residence would not be included in the calculation of the whole estate for the purpose of determining eligibility."

Other provisions include an exclusion on the capital gains tax of $125,000 on the sale of a principal residence by an elderly taxpayer, which is an increase of $25,000 from the previous law.

New Short-Form Wills And Trusts

Massachusetts residents may now take advantage of new short-form versions of wills and trusts, State Senator Paul D. Harold reports.

A new chapter of the General Laws, 184B, provides a method of granting executors authority to manage property without having to list each specific authority in the will itself.

Harold said the new law also makes provision for trustees' powers, including discretion to distribute part of the trust fund for the benefit of the beneficiary.

"These new short-form versions may be of assistance to people who want to make certain their fiduciaries have the authority they need to carry out the terms of a will or trust," Harold said.

The new law also establishes a new Chapter 201C, creating a statutory custodianship trust, which any adult may use to set up a trust during his lifetime, Senator Harold noted.

Cancer Crusade At $7,800 Mark

Richard J. Koch, general chairman of the Quincy Cancer Crusade, announces that $7800 or 60 percent of the $13,000 goal has been collected to date.

The annual house-to-house education and fund raising drive of the American Cancer Society is conducted on behalf of its research, education and patient service program.

Koch requests that volunteers visit their neighbors as soon as possible, and return the Crusade Kits to the main office or any branch of the Hancock Bank.

Six hundred fifty kits of the 1250 total have been returned. The committee hopes to have residents contacted by the crusaders and all assignments complete before May 29.

A total of $2,605.595 was raised in this state in addition to $1,083,841 which was raised in legacies last year, according to Koch.

This year, the state goal is $3,500,000 Koch said, noting that the American Cancer Society is not government-funded. "We depend entirely upon the generosity of people in Massachusetts to continue the society's lifesaving work."

According to Koch, money raised in this year's State Cancer Crusade - the society's annual educational and fundraising campaign - will be allocated by the Society's Massachusetts Division volunteer Board of Directors. It will support programs aimed at the prevention, early detection and treatment of cancer, and provide assistance to people who have cancer.

Koch noted that the American Cancer Society is among the highest rated charitable organizations in the nation according to standards set by the Better Business Bureau.

"Research claimed 30 percent of the budget in Massachusetts last year," Koch said. "A total of $12.3 million was invested by the society in Massachusetts institutions for this purpose."

He completed Princeton Theological Seminary in 1957 and accepted a call to the First Presbyterian Church of Cranbury,

REV. ROGER A. KVAM

In 1964, Mr. Kvam received a master's degree from Harvard University in political science, then accepted a charge as interim pastor in Ohio while teaching in the Department of Political Science at the State University of Akron, Ohio.

Mr. Kvam returned to the Boston area and in April 1975 accepted a call to become the 16th Minister of the First United Presbyterian Church of Quincy.

After the service, each pupil received a potted petunia plant.

Children's Day Service At Squantum Church

The congregation of the First Church of Squantum saw an unusual sermon Sunday during the annual Children's Day service.

Instead of delivering an oral sermon, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, painted a picture on a large canvas mounted near the front of the sanctuary. The picture depicted a scene from the life of Jesus.

The worshippers sat in silence as the pastor worked on the painting. When he was finished, he concluded with a few remarks to explain the spiritual significance of what he had done.

The service was unusual in another way as well. It was led entirely by children of the church. Blythe Bumpus gave the call to worship. Andrew Ogilvie led the opening prayer. Amanda Young read the Scripture and Kristen Reister offered the prayer of dedication at the time of the offering.

Melissa Stamos and Krista Olson assisted Evie Curry and Katie Crossman as greeters. Kim Olson, Lori Ogilvie, Kerry Galvin and Michael Stamos were ushers. Tom McKim and Bonnie Adams served as junior ushers for the day.

During the service, the pastor presented Melissa Stamos with a new Bible for her achievement in Sunday School.

At the conclusion of the service, each child was given a flowering plant by Recilla Stamos and Ellen Ogilvie who represented the Board of Christian Education.

The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Doris Longmire, Drucilla Warnes and Barbara Frazer.

The service next Sunday will begin at 10:15 a.m. and will conclude with an adult baptism in Quincy Bay and the dedication of a child on a nearby shore.

FEVER BLISTERS

Q: Why do I get fever blisters? What causes them?

A: Some people are occasionally bothered by cold sores or fever blisters. These sores are usually caused by a herpes virus. They will arise on the lips and skin around the mouth, causing pain, itching, and crusting. They last one to two weeks and then heal, only to recur.

Most people are infected with herpes as infants. These children are quite ill, with a severe rash all over the mouth and throat, often with high fever. After the infection subsides, the virus retreats in some patients and hides out in certain nerves. When resistance is low, the virus creeps down the nerve and affects the skin.

There is no cure. Wait for the sores to heal. Medication containing any form of cortisone should not be used, as these can spread the virus. Touching the sore should be avoided, as the virus is contagious and can be spread by contact.

INVISIBLE MENACE - GLASS DOORS

The newest menace on the home accident scene is the sliding glass door - the kind that stretches from floor to ceiling and usually opens to the backyard or patio.

Last year over 150,000 people were injured when they walked into doors they thought were open. Report after report tells of lost eyes, cut tendons, disfigured faces and severed arteries...all from flying glass.

One of the problems here is that a great majority of the glass in these doors is flimsy - often, not much stronger than ordinary window pane. But there are some solutions recommended by the National Safety Council:

Decorate your glass door with a decal or sandblasted-type design to alert people when the door is closed. A foolproof precaution, however, is to install a door made of shatterproof safety glass which doesn't cost too much more than ordinary glass. But whatever the cost difference, it's worth it.

Sousa Station Remodeling Planned, Board Told

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Representatives of J.R. Sousa and Sons, Inc., 60 Franklin St., told the License Board Tuesday they will remodel the gasoline station which Building Inspector Allan MacDonald called "a disgrace to you people and the city."

The board scheduled the hearing to show cause why the South Quincy's station's gasoline license should not be revoked because of untidy conditions at the station. The hearing was continued for three months.

"We're not proud of the building ourselves," said Lou Arvenettes of Sousa, "we apologize for it."

Arvenettes said Sousa is negotiating to buy property next to the station, and he outlined plans to demolish three fourths of the building and the three bays which are not used.

After viewing the plans for the building, Fire Chief Edward Barry said, "I wonder if this is a ploy to wait until self service comes to the city."

"It doesn't seem too good to me."

City Clerk John Gillis responded, "I'm not in favor of any oil company, as you well know, but who are we to say what they should do?"

"You can't tell them how big to build their building," said Police Chief Francis Finn.

Win Miltrey, an engineer for Sousa, told the board the building will be "a very nice picture for the city when it's completed."

Arvenettes said Sousa hopes to get started on the remodeling right away.

"If we had known what was going on," said MacDonald, "we wouldn't have had to bring you in."

McCauley Asks Close Watch On Bryant School

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has asked the Police Department to make frequent checks of the area around the abandoned Gridley Bryant School in West Quincy, site of a suspicious two-alarm fire Monday.

Two firefighters were injured battling the blaze, which did about $20,000 damage to the building that is in the process of being sold for development for $151,000 to SPQR Associates.

Thomas Sanborn was treated for a dislocated ankle at City Hospital and Mass General Hospital and Allen Trotman was treated for back and shoulder injuries at City Hospital.

Fire Chief Edward Barry called the fire suspicious.

Damage was confined mostly to the rear of the building but the second alarm was turned in because flames on the first floor threatened for a time to spread to the upper level.

The Gridley Bryant is one of the five schools that were closed last year due to budget cuts. They have been the targets of vandals since they were abandoned and boarded up.

Just Monday night, police were summoned to chase a gang away from the abandoned Great Hill School in Houghs Neck and the police log noted, "Youths are destroying this building."

The Great Hill School is to be torn down.

Danny's License Request Postponed To June 22

A License Board hearing on reconsideration of a common victualer-wine and malt license for Danny's, 126 Quincy Ave., was postponed to June 22.

But chances are, the matter will not be voted on at that meeting either.

License Board members indicated Tuesday that the matter will be tabled, as was the 1 a.m. closing question, until a fifth board member is named to replace fired

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert McKeogh.

The board denied Danny's request Nov. 10, 1981.

The decision was appealed to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission which remanded the matter to the board.

The ABCC has recommended that the license be granted.

Board Briefs

The City License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a request from the Thomas Crane Public Library to hold a block party Friday, June 25, 7 to 10 p.m. in the parking lot of the main library. Library director Warren E. Watson said there will be country music and refreshments. There is to be a police officer in attendance, and the library is to check with the health department on serving food.

- Granted a request from the South Quincy Social Club for a one-day all alcoholic license for Sunday, June 27, at the Fore River Clubhouse.

- Granted a request from Burger King, 505 Quincy Ave., for a 7 a.m. opening hour.

- A request from Burger King, 62 Granite St., to put five cement based picnic tables on the right side of the restaurant was continued for one week. A site plan was requested.

- Granted a request from Heritage Drive Restaurant, Inc., for transfer of the common victualer, all alcoholic license from 95 Heritage Drive, ninth floor, to Three South Road, seventh floor.

Faherty Named To Appeals Board

Michael E. Faherty, a retired State Police captain who works in security at Filene's, has been named to the Zoning Board of Appeals to fill the vacancy left by the death of Chairman John J. McKenna.

The post is unpaid. Faherty, whose term on the board will expire on the first Monday in February, 1984, was an unsuccessful candidate for an at large seat on the City Council in 1977 and 1979.

He retired from the State Police as captain commanding Troop E on the Massachusetts Turnpike in June, 1970, and has since held security posts with Jordan Marsh, State Street South and Filene's.

He is presently employed by Filene's as a regional corporate director of security for all branch stores.

A Navy veteran of World War II, he attended Cathedral High School in Boston and Newman Prep. He is a member of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus and the Massachusetts and International Chiefs of Police Association.

Faherty lives at 28 Furnace Brook Parkway with his wife, the former Patricia M. Duggan. They have five children.

"It has also been called to my attention that youths are playing basketball at 2 a.m. and 3 a.m."

DeCristofaro Seeks More Police In Bradford Park

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro has asked Police Chief Francis X. Finn for more patrols and surveillance in the Bradford Park area of Quincy Point.

"I have received many telephone calls from residents concerning drinking parties and cars parked around that general area at all hours of the night," he said in a letter to Finn.

WEEK OF: JUNE 17

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

You meet several inquisitive people this week; resist divulging more facts than you should. Consider improving wardrobe, environment, physique. Be sure you're granted the credit you've earned.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

A deceptive period if trying to interpret motives of others. Honors may come your way by Wednesday. Relatives excel in mental and/or athletic contests.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Good week for collecting overdue debts and balancing accounts. Friend may become very possessive, which can lead to a confrontation. Weekend sees you expanding your realm of interests.

Friends are surprisingly intellectual - don't try to keep up. Showdown with higherup can be fiery, and then it's forgotten. Financial news brightener cheers you after the weekend.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Communication breakdowns are prominent this week. Messages arriving through an intermediary can get garbled. Unwelcome guest may need more than a casual hint. Rapport with youngster strengthens.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Discovering new places, seeing new faces are the week's highlights. You can be vulnerable in financial dealings. Don't hesitate to ask questions and root out all the facts.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

As the week proceeds, you become increasingly outgoing - and even adventurous. Avoid risky investments now. Communication's a strong point. You may be invited to address an audience.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Legal transactions are complicated, romantic admirers unpredictable, a job rival competitive. You want to get away from it all. The good news is that travel can be fun and profitable now.

6-17-82 Solution

• Junior Farm League

Red Sox A. L. Leader, Pirates, Braves Tie In N.L.

The Red Sox lead the Junior Farm League's American League with a 9-2-0 record, followed by the Orioles, 9-4-0.

The Pirates and Braves are tied for the National League lead with 9-2-1 records.

The Braves bombed the Mets, 23-0, as Joey Crespi and Joe Bevilacqua combined for a one-hitter and they and their mates pounded out 28 hits. Leading the attack were Matt Sullivan, Bob Crespi, Ralph Bevilacqua, Joe Crespi, Peter Whyte, Mike Duran, Jeff Bell and Tom Sullivan. Sean Berg went deep into the hole at shortstop to make a spectacular stop and throw to second and Bob Ricciarelli made a fine running catch at third base. Jim Mahoney, George Walsh, Mark Cafano and Rich Powers played well for the Mets.

The Pirates collected 25 hits and pounded the Mets, 24-4, with Billy Curry the winning pitcher. He went all the way, giving up six hits, striking out 12 and walking eight. Steve Stumpter hit a home run. Mike Baylis and Steve Carroll had four hits each, Matt Kelley, Stumpter and Billy Lydon three apiece, Mark Kelleher, Ron Last and Chris Polito two each and Mike Lally and Steve Pearson one each.

Pearson made an unassisted double play, Stumpter, Kelley and Curry made fine plays and Baylis made a great throw to Mike Lally to nab a runner at home.

The Braves edged the Red Sox, 7-6, with Bob Crespi giving up six runs in the first inning and blanking the Braves the rest of the way. The Braves chipped away and Crespi won his own game with a home run in the last inning. White, Joe Crespi and Bob Crespi all played well both ways and Whyte had three hits. Ralph Bevilacqua made an outstanding play in center field.

Morrisette Post In Nostalgic Reunion

By PETE ZOIA

Morrisette Legion Post held its second annual baseball reunion last Friday at the post home with a fine turnout of players from the first team in 1945 to the present.

Frank Osborne, who has been connected with the teams from the start, as scorer and jack of all trades, was chairman of the committee and did another excellent job. Frank, who always threatens that he "may go south," managed to stick around and give his all to the Morrisette teams and the Quincy Father's Club football organization.

Former Morrisette coach Nick Malvesti was the principal speaker. Nick alternates between Florida and Quincy every year, coming here for the summer. He will be remembered for being a three-letter star at Quincy High and Bridgton Academy.

Malvesti spoke of his association with Ted Williams and other Red Sox players at Winter Haven this past training season.

"After seeing these players day after day and they seeing you, conversation springs up and you find that even though they may be superstars, they prove to be down to earth regular guys," stated Nick. Malvesti went on to say that the 1975 Champion Morrisette team that traveled to the finals in South Dakota certainly excited the people of Quincy like no other team ever did.

The first team from the post was in 1945 and Malvesti was an assistant under Pryor Hall and became head coach after one year.

The 1945 team was represented at the dinner by Warren Mills, Leo Doherty, Milton Miller, Dick Burrell and present head coach Ray Cattaneo.

Coaches Osborne, Cattaneo and Bill Corcoran were from the famous 1975 team. Athletic Officer Gus Russo of the '45 club also was in attendance, along with players Steve McKinnon, John Lawlor, Chuck LoPresti, Mike DePaulo, Brian Corcoran and Frank Micelli.

Weymouth Legion Coach George Christiansen was introduced and Cattaneo mentioned that for the past several years either Weymouth or Morrisette finished on top in their division.

"We feel that we should have a competitive team. We have some young players who are talented enough to be on the starting team," said Cattaneo. He also mentioned that there seems to be a lack of pitching among the players of today. "No one wants to pitch anymore, we can't figure it out," the popular coach went on to say. "Another thing, you can't teach a boy how to hit a baseball, he has to figure it out himself."

Among other well wishers at the reunion were Norfolk County Baseball Chairman Charlie Ward, George Page of the Quincy Park Department, Aldo Bielli, a long time Morrisette fan, and Bob Osborne, a past athletic officer.

Other former players present were Charlie Sacchetti, Mike McCormack, and Mike McKenzie. Placed at the head table were coaches Osborne, Cattaneo and Bill Corcoran, Post Commander Robert LaFleur, Athletic Officer John Doucette, Commissioner Ward, Post Chaplain Eddie Boland, Malvesti, and past Commanders George Nicholson, Mario Ghilardi and Larry Visco.

Post Historian Olin Taylor made the rounds snapping pictures to be seen at the Post viewing room.

Pena, Daley Lead Paddocks To SSL Lead

Manager Peachy Reggie credited the league's best one-two pitching punch of Jimmy Pena and Ed Daley with keeping his South Quincy Paddock Club in a neck and neck race with the Weymouth Town Team for first place in the South Shore League.

Daley was called upon to relieve starter Ed Healy after he had given up three runs in three innings and the veteran right-hander pitched four-hit ball the rest of the way in pinning down a 5-3 victory for the Paddocks over the Braintree White Sox.

The Paddocks clinched the win in the fourth inning with three runs as Gay Salvucci, Carl Erickson and Dick Cox singled and they all came in on Mando Reggie's long double to center field to drive White Sox hurler Mike Grano from the mound.

The Paddock Club lineup included: DeCelle 2b, Reggie ss, Marini 3b, Leary rf, Bandini lf, Salvucci cf, Erickson c, Cox 1b, Healy p, Daley p.

The victory left the Paddock Club with a one point margin over Weymouth at the one third mark in the league schedule with the White Sox, the Hingham Legion and the Chittick Club of Hyde Park trailing far to the rear.

NO-HITTER FOR CUNEO

Southpaw Gus Cuneo pitched a no-hitter and scored the only run of the game as the Wollaston Junior Legion baseball team defeated Milton 1-0, in a Zone 6 contest at Adams Field. Cuneo also struck out 17 batters while walking only four.

Cuneo opened the fifth inning with a single, went to third on a perfect bunt by Tommy Girvin and scored on a throwing error by the Milton first baseman.

The Wollaston lineup included: Girvin ss, Nelson lf, Coulacos lf, Burns 3b, Young rf, Abbott 2b, Carroll lb, Rose c, Cuneo p.

The Zone 6 race tightened up when Quincy won two, defeating Wollaston, 11-7, as Ken Balducci belted a three-run homer, and topping Braintree, 9-5, paced by George O'Rourke's double and three singles and Joe Frazier's three safeties.

ADAMSES IN STATE OPEN

The Adams brothers, Ted and Bob, both professionals who learned the game as caddies at Wollaston Golf Club and played for Coach Jack Donahue at North Quincy High School, were given a chance to win the State Open Golf title at South Shore Country Club.

Ted Adams, only 19 at the time, was acclaimed as the "boy wonder" of New England golf when he won the State Amateur championship in 1939. Seven years later he took National champ Ted Bishop to the 19th hole before losing in the state final.

Bob Adams, now the professional at Franklin Country Club, had been overshadowed by his brother ever since he won the State Junior championship at Salem in 1938.

SPRING BASKETBALL

Dick Drake threw in 21 points and Pete Ramponi was injured but not seriously as the Quincy President scored an impressive 92-59 victory over the Braintree Jets in a YMCA Spring Basketball League game under the lights.

The Quincy lineup included: Ramponi, O'Rourke, forwards; Drake, Johnson, centers; Doyle, Garcia, Ciriello, guards.

SACRED HEART LEADS

Sacred Heart of North Quincy moved out into a seven point lead in the Quincy Park League with a 5-0 victory over St. Jerome's of North Weymouth behind the six-hit pitching of Bob Murphy. Bob Morton chipped in three safeties for the winners.

The Sacred Heart lineup: Dunlop 2b, Donovan lb, Casey 3b, White lf, McGuigan c, Creedon cf, Morton rf, Johnson ss, Murphy p.

DONOVAN ADVANCES

The defending champion, Helen Donovan, formerly of Wollaston, now of Hyannis, moved into the semi-finals of the third annual Women's Tennis Tournament at the Quincy Tennis Club with victories over Mrs. Lackey Eliot, 6-2, 6-1, and Carol Wendell, 6-2, 6-2.

MET TOURNEY IN QUINCY

South Shore Commissioner Hobie Robinson announced that the annual Metropolitan Boston Amateur Softball Association Tournament will be played in Quincy starting Sept. 9 with games slated for Rotary, Faxon, Pageant and Upper Merry-mount Fields.

SPORTS BITS '80

The Massachusetts Striped Bass Association met at the Fore River Clubhouse, Quincy Point.... Boston Braves pitcher Dick Donovan of Quincy told a Lions Club luncheon that the Braves would have to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers if they expected to win the National League pennant.... Burgin Extends Win Streak To 12

Burgin Platner improved its league-leading record to 12-0 with two more wins during the past week in the Junior Baseball League.

Burgin topped VFW, 12-5, with Mark DiMattio winning his fifth game, allowing four hits and striking out 10 to give him 43 for the season. DiMattio also led the attack with three singles. Tom McDonald and John Quilan had a double and single each, Bobby Thomas, Billy Murphy and Chris Bourdreau two singles each and Wayne Chambers and Steve Neiter a single apiece. For VFW Jim Mullens, Mike Ainsley, Dan Overby and Tom Roberts had the hits.

Burgin defeated Foley's 3-1, in one of the season's best games.

Foley's filled the bases in the first inning but winning pitcher Tom McDonald stopped the threat and Burgin took a 1-0 lead in its half when Brian Mosher walked and Tom McDonald and Robbie McDonald tripled and Chambers singled.

In Foley's third Dan Biagini doubled and Jackie Mulken singled but a double play ended that threat. Burgin came back in its half with two runs when Tom McDonald walked, Robbie McDonald tripled and Chambers singled.

Biagini homered over the center field fence for Foley's only run in the fifth.

Rotary walloped Kiwanis, 13-3, behind the three-hit pitching of Joe Mulvey, who won his second game in a row, struck out eight, walked only one, and fielded his position flawlessly.

Rotary had only six hits but took advantage of 12 walks. Mike Mullany led the attack with three hits, including a long triple. Kevin McDougal had a double and Bill MacDougal and Mulvey also had hits. Brian Kelly scored twice. Mike Barkus, Dan McDonald, Rich Golden, David Murphy and Matt Collins played strong defensive games.

Ron Fletcher had two hits including a triple and pitched well in relief for Kiwanis and Ron Hersey had a single.

Boston Gear continued to win and blanked Kiwanis, 7-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Matt Furtado and some superlative defense. Gear, the defending city champion, leads the National League. Furtado also led the attack with a triple and single and three RBI. Danny Piccini and Mike Leonard had key doubles and Chris Higgins, Mike Paccetti and Steve Rabs had singles. Mike Kiley made several fine plays in center field, including a spectacular diving catch. Paul Adams and Mike Cronin also made outstanding plays. Also playing well were Jimmy Glynn, Shawn Craig, Jimmy Collins, Pat McDonough, Danny Gilmartin and Nancy Flukes.

Eddie Flavin pitched well for Kiwanis and had two of the team's three hits, a double and single. Ron Hersey had the other hit. T.J. Steen made a spectacular play in center field, making a diving catch and doubling up the runner at third.

Gear scored nine runs in the first two innings and defeated State Street, 11-4, with Furtado and Higgins dividing the pitching and giving up nine hits. They also led the attack with three singles each. Craig had two clutch hits, a single and double, and Flukes and Adams also had key hits. Leonard, Danny Piccini, Rabs, Paccetti, Gilmartin, Cronin, McDonough, Glynn, Kiley and Collins all played strong defense.

Robbie Cinquerano pitched well for State Street and also had two hits. Mike Tufts had a single and double, Bob Hubbard two singles, Billy Dineen a double and Mark Gillyooly and Danny Steele a single each. Mike Walsh and Hubbard sparked in on defense.

Gear overcame a 5-2 deficit and scored eight runs in the fifth inning to over power Remick's 13-5. Rabs was the starting pitcher but developed arm trouble and 11-year-old Higgins relieved with Remick's leading, 5-2, and pitched shutout ball the rest of the way. He gave up only one hit and struck out five.

Gear scored three runs in the fourth to tie the score, then came the eighth-run fifth inning explosion. Higgins had a double and single, Craig a towering home run and double, Furtado two singles and Leonard a single. Gilmartin, Flukes, Piccini, Kiley, Glynn, Paccetti, Collins and Cronin and McDonough played outstanding defense.

Gary Salomone, Jimmy Kimmell and Mark Rudnisky all singled and Todd Kimmell tripled. Rudnisky was the winning pitcher.

Alpine dropped two extra inning decisions, losing to Gacia, 4-2, and to President Pharmacy, 9-8.

In the loss to Gacia, Rudnisky was the losing pitcher. He was given excellent support until the extra inning when errors resulted in the two winning runs.

Alpine had only eight players available against President Pharmacy but took an early lead with five runs in the first inning and forced President into extra innings. Sala pitched well in defeat for Alpine.

• Babe Ruth League

Houghs Neck Wins 8th In Row

Houghs Neck defeated the Sons of Italy, 5-3, for its eighth straight Babe Ruth League victory, with Pat Hennessey pitching one-hit ball to improve his record to 4-0.

Dave Zuroms had a triple and single and Hennessey, Joe Ciardi, Mark MacDonald, Tim Collins, Tom Elmore and John Carroll each had a hit. HN played a strong defense and pulled off two double plays. Greg McGlame threw out a runner at third after making a catch in the outfield and Dennis DeCoste made an outstanding running catch.

Houghs Neck earlier had edged the Firemen, 8-7, barely holding off the losers who rallied for four runs in the final inning.

Zuroms was the winning pitcher, allowing only four hits and striking out seven, but he had control problems which kept him in trouble. McGlame had a triple, single two walks and two RBI. Ciardi had two singles and two RBI, Peter Furtado had a single, walk and an RBI, Hennessey had a single, walk and an RBI and MacDonald and Zuroms each had a hit. Jerry Arroyo had two hits for the Firemen.

Morrisette squeezed by Local 1139, 1-0, as Jack Outerbridge outduelled John Comeau in a brilliant pitching duel. Outerbridge pitched a one-hitter and Comeau allowed just two hits. Outerbridge, making his first start, struck out 13 and walked two, striking out the side twice. Comeau also had 13 strikeouts and walked three.

Morrisette scored the winning run in the fourth when Cristiani singled to left, stole second and third and scored on a wild throw to third base. Chad Hallett had the only other Morrisette hit. Tom Connolly made an outstanding catch in the outfield and Paul Canavan excelled at shortstop. Steve Kelly had the only hit for Local 1139, a double.

Morrisette also bombed Barry's Deli, 13-0, as Cristiani pitched three-hit ball and struck out six.

Morrisette scored four runs in the third, keyed by doubles by Rick Kelley and Outerbridge and a single by Canavan. It exploded for six runs in the sixth, the key hits being a bases-loaded double by Connolly and a single by Steve Perdios, who in the previous inning had made an excellent catch in the outfield. In the seventh Morrisette added three runs. Canavan had three hits, Connolly and Kelley two each and Cristiani, Outerbridge, Perdios and Dondoro played strong defense and threw out two runners from his outfield position.

• Senior Babe Ruth

Quincy Downs South Boston, 6-2

The Quincy Senior Babe Ruth team started its South Shore League schedule on the right foot, topping South Boston, 6-2, under the lights at Adams Field.

Pat Connolly pitched outstanding ball and struck out nine and also contributed to the offense. The defensive play of the game came when shortstop Dwayne Wilcoxon went into the hole, came up with the ball and made a great throw to first baseman Tony Green for out.

Wilcoxon, Connolly and Pearson led the attack as all Quincy players saw action.

Coaches Bill and Neil O'Brien expect to build a complete baseball program for the Senior Babe Ruth League team in the next few years.

Most of the players have played in the Babe Ruth League before moving up to the Senior team.

Also in the South Shore League are Milton, Weymouth, Norwood, Dorchester, Hyde Park, South Boston, Braintree and West Roxbury. The players are between the ages of 16 and 18.

Quincy's Senior Babe Ruth team has developed many players who have moved on to the South Shore Coast League and other leagues.

The Quincy roster includes John Bille, Connolly, Green, Gerry O'Rourke, Danny Pearson, John Tolland, Brian Donovan, Tom Foley, Wilcoxon, James Jachnig, Bill DiMatteo, Ken Wright, Scott Owens, Mark Chambers and Paul Cahill.

Elks Lose 5th In Row

After winning their first two South Shore Coast League games, the Quincy Elks have fallen on hard times and have lost five straight games.

The Elks, formerly the Mariners, will play a doubleheader Sunday at 1 o'clock at Scituate and Tuesday will play at Hingham at 6 o'clock.

Last Sunday the Elks dropped a doubleheader to Canton, 4-2 and 7-1.

Bob Bolster pitched three-hit ball and struck out nine in the opener but, with Quincy trailing, 2-1, Canton's Gene Doucette drove a pitch over the left centerfield fence with a man on to give his team a 4-1 lead.

Todd Mills opened the game for Quincy with a double, went to third on the throw in and scored on a wild pitch. In the seventh, Mike McCormack walked and scored on Danny Boyle's triple to right.

In the second game Steve Healy singled Jamie Walsh home with Quincy's only run after Walsh had walked and stolen second. Walsh had two singles and two stolen bases. Brian Condon had the only other hit for the Elks.

Montclair School Wins Children's Literature Contest

"This boy spends a lot of his time at Glenwood School where he is a crossing guard. He is friendly with a girl who is sensible, but doesn't like her little sister who is a pest. He proves he has courage becaeing a canful of Woolfies Dog Food. Who is he?"

If you answered "Henry Huggins", from the books by Beverly Cleary, then you would have scored a point for your class in the first Children's Literature Championship of the Quincy Public Schools.

Mrs. Maureen McKenna's Grades 4-5 class from Montclair

School won the title at Squantum School, narrowly defeating Carol Feldman's sixth grade, the champions from Wollaston School.

Third place went to the host school, Mrs. Audrey Smith's class, grades 4-5, from Squantum.

Prizes were awarded by Supr. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon. Also present were Arthur Gillis, director of Library-Media Services and two principals, Ruth Haggerty of Squantum School and Les Gould of Montclair School.

The contest is the creation of Theodore G. Clarke, elementary media specialist, who holds the contests daily in each of his schools. This was the first time city-wide playoffs have been held.

"The quizzes generate a lot of interest in books," Clarke says. "We've developed some good readers, but more important than that, the children have developed an interest in books."

"In an age when television is offering instant gratification without much depth, it is pleasing to find that Kipling, Twain, Stevenson and some of the new authors are occupying the leisure time of so many young people."

Study Skills Program At Beechwood Center

Beechwood Community Life Center announces a new summer class "Study Skills Program".

The course is designed to provide an introduction to study skills such as study habits, note taking, textbook reading, memory, listening, test taking. The lessons are activity-oriented on the belief that one learns best by "doing".

The course is offered to students in Grades 6-12 and will be offered twice, once beginning July 6-15 and then July 19-29. The class will meet Monday through Thursday for one hour each day.

The price will be $25, which includes the Student Text. Instructors are Certified Reading Teachers.

Also available is a summer camp program in two week sessions for children ages three through 12 and a full range of academic classes for grades one through 12. Call the Center at 471-5712 for details.

Stage Named For Parker School Principal

In a surprise ceremony recently the Parker School Media Center Stage was dedicated to Principal Eugene W. Creedon for founding and guiding the Parker School Children's Theater Program.

The dedication was made at the annual Children's Theater cast dinner, winding up the production of "Tom Sawyer."

Creedon was presented a plaque by Ann Burke, president of the Parker School Parent Teachers Organization.

The theater program each year features a Holiday Play for primary grade children and a Spring Play for 5th and 6th graders. It is estimated to have involved more than 2000 children in Creedon's eleven years as principal.

Boys, Ages 11 And 12 Admit Bryant School Fire

Three Quincy boys, ages 11 and 12, have admitted setting the fire which damaged the abandoned Gridley Bryant School in West Quincy last week, police said.

Sgt. Daniel Lyons of the Juvenile Division said that in view of their ages they were admitted into the Juvenile Diversion program at Quincy District Court.

They were taken into custody following an investigation by Deputy Fire Chief Carl Valenti and police officer Frank Bertoni, assisted by Sgt. Thomas Frane and Detectives Thomas Malvesti and Kevin Murphy.

"Both the parents and the youngsters were very cooperative," said Lyons. "It was decided that they would be better served by the juvenile diversion program."

Meanwhile, Planning Director James Lydon told the City Council Monday night that the fire in the abandoned school may lower its sale price to a developer.

Steve Ricciardi, whose SPQR Associates plans to buy the school for $151,000 and turn it into office condominiums, said he has not discussed a new price with the Planning Department but he didn't think it would be a problem.

"The building was not devastated," he said. "There was damage but there was no substantial change in the property."

The Council approved the sale Monday night after also approving a suggestion by Councillor James A. Sheets that a plaque be added to the building noting its historical significance and the man for whom it was named.

City Council Closes Parking Fine Loophole

The City Council moved with haste Monday night to close a loophole in the city's parking ordinances through which some $140,000 slipped last week.

The Council passed an ordinance, which had been pending for two weeks, setting $5 and $10 fines for parking violations and permitting the city to add a surcharge for those who paid late.

"The reason this was submitted by the mayor," said City Solicitor William Golden, "is to clarify what appears to be a defect or a gray area with regard to parking fines in Quincy."

It was that gray area through which one Jeffrey Grossman slipped last week when he challenged the city's right to make him pay a surfine of $630 for 126 tickets unpaid after 21 days.

Judge Albert Kramer ruled in favor of Grossman, a Patriot Ledger reporter who lives in Wellesley, after a search of the city's ordinances failed to come up with one establishing the penalties.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley conceded that, out of $220,000 in back fines and penalties paid since the first of the year, the city will have to refund about $140,000.

Peter Kenney, the mayor's executive secretary, said Purchasing Agent Robert Denvir, who will be the city's parking

Council Plans Limit, Charge For Yard Sales

If the City Council has its way, Quincy homeowners will be able to hold only one yard sale a year; they'll have to pay $2 to do it; and they'll have to apply to the Council for permission.

A proposal to stop the licensing of yard and garage sales was passed by the Council Monday night over the objections of Councillors Patricia Toland, Leo J. Kelly and Stephen J. McGrath. Councillor Joanne Condon filed the resolve at the behest of City Clerk John Gillis, who is also chairman of the License Board.

Gillis contended that many yard sales are held at the same locations and that professional second hand dealers purchase used goods at flea markets and resell them at yard sales.

"We're not out to penalize anybody," said Gillis. "It's not good to have too many yard sales at the same location."

He recommended that the number of sales be limited to two a year and that a fee be charged. Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro suggested one a year and his colleagues concurred.

Councillor John J. Lydon added the stipulation that people apply for permission to hold a yard sale through the City Council to the License Board and that brough Councillor Toland into it.

"We don't have enough help now," she cried. "Do you know how many yard sales are held in

3 Still Closed

Most City Beaches Reopened

By TOM HENSHAW

The Health Department Tuesday reopened all but three Quincy beaches to swimming after they had been closed by sewage pollution since June 11.

Winthrop Wade, director of Environmental Services, announced Tuesday that coliform samples taken from Quincy Bay water Sunday showed the bacteria count to be below the acceptable level of 700.

Still closed were Perry Beach and Post Island Rd. Beach in Houghs Neck and Nickerson Beach in Squantum. Perry Beach had a count of 1,200; Post Island Rd. 1,500; and Nickerson 1,200.

Wade said those beaches will be closed for another few days.

He notified the MDC around 3 p.m. Tuesday that it was all right to reopen Wollaston Beach where 11 days ago the coliform count was 34,000 due to sewage discharges from Moon Island and Nut Island.

"We will continue to do sampling," Wade said. "We're still going to keep an eye on the situation."

Wade said the pollution of the bay was the result of heavy rains which overhwhelmed the facilities at Nut Island and forced diversion of some sewage from Deer Island to little-used Moon Island pipes.

In a related matter, City Councillor Leo J. Kelly congratulated the federal Environmental Protection Agency for its planned crackdown on MDC procedures at the Nut Island treatment facility.

EPA officials said last week they plan to issue an administrative order requiring the MDC to repair electrical generators at Nut Island and staff the plant sufficiently to prevent future spills.

"The new regulation requiring the MDC to notify the local health department when the Nut Island plant is pumping non-treated sewage and at least treat this sewage with chlorine is an important one," said Kelly.

He said he hopes the generator repair and staffing orders "is just the beginning and you will take further steps forcing the MDC to upgrade other functions of treatment."

"I am also requesting that you appoint a qualified person from the EPA to be assigned exclusively to the operation of the Nut Island plant until such time as this plant is being run in a manner which will not impair the health and welfare of the people," Kelly added.

Monday Is Deadline For Final Tax Payment

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has issued a reminder to Quincy taxpayers that second half payments on real estate and personal property taxes are due no later than Monday, June 28.

Payments received after that date will be subject to a 14 per cent interest charge retroactive to May 28, the day that property tax bills went into the mail.

McCauley also called attention to the fact that payment of water bills and excise tax bills is due no later than Wednesday, June 30.

Moneys received by that date are credited to the revenues of fiscal 1982 and will improve the city's financial picture for the year that ends June 30.

65 To Lose School Jobs

The jobs of 65 school department employees will end when Quincy schools close Friday.

Included among employees whose jobs fall victim to budget cutbacks approved last April by the school committee are 44 aides, 10 custodians, and nine secretaries.

The school committee was under a directive from Mayor Francis McCauley last April to cut some $3 million from the proposed 1982-83 fiscal year budget.

The cuts made by the school committee meant the laying off of 180 employees in all at the close of the current school year. Included in the layoff were some 80 teachers.

Ban On Quarry Swimming

The City Council Monday night voted to ban swimming in the West Quincy quarries.

The new ordinance is designed to replace an old one that called for a $150 fine for trespassing in the area, which Councillor James A. Sheets called unworkable.

He said he'll ask the Council to rescind the old ordinance at its June 30 meeting.

Quincy Car Thieves Heist 7 Cars In 8 Hours

Quincy may well have been the stolen car capital of the nation Monday.

No less than seven automobiles were reported stolen in the city over a period of eight hours—one of them for the second time in a week.

Lawrence Francis of Scituate got the parade of reports underway at 9:13 a.m. when he told police his 1974 Ford Maverick was stolen from 12 Old Colony Ave., Wollaston.

Police said it was the same car that was involved in an accident early Monday morning on Marion St., Wollaston, when it went through shrubbery, smashed into another car and came to rest 35 feet off the road.

Francis said the car was stolen June 16 and recovered in Marshfield. He had picked up the vehicle and taken it to a Quincy garage for repairs when it was stolen a second time.

Craig O'Donnell of Willard St., West Quincy, reported his 1972 Ford Mustang stolen from the home address.

Dennis Accera of Plymouth St., South Quincy, reported his 1977 Mercury Cougar taken from the Quincy Center MBTA station.

A 1971 Ford Torino was reported stolen by Wendy Brooks of 925 Hancock St. from the rear of her apartment building.

Joe Piazza of Curtis St., Quincy Center, reported his 1973 Chevrolet Malibu stolen from the T.J. Maxx area of the Ross Parkingway.

Oliver MacLeod of Ardell St., Montclair, reported his 1976 Buick Century stolen from the Stop and Shop parking lot on Newport Ave.

Joseph Buckley of Summit Ave., Wollaston, reported his 1972 Lincoln taken from the North Quincy MBTA station parking lot at 4:45 p.m. ending a busy day for car thieves in Quincy.

Hussey New Health Head

McKeogh Still Plans Appeal

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy had a new health commissioner this week but the old one still refused to go quietly. Atty. Richard W. Barry, counsel for ousted Commissioner Dr. Robert McKeogh, said he will file an appeal for his client in Norfolk Superior Court, maybe by the end of the week, certainly next week.

Barry said the delay in filing the appeal was due to the sensitive nature of its wording — "We don't want to accuse anyone of committing a crime," he said.

Meanwhile, Dr. M. Grace Hussey of Merrymount was named by Mayor Francis X. McCauley to the post from which Dr. McKeogh was fired for allegedly failing to devote his entire time to the job.

Dr. Hussey, 69, who retired in 1981 after 30 years with the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, takes over the $37,180 position for the remainder of the term that expires in 1986.

Dr. Hussey, who had a private medical practice in Quincy from 1940 to 1951, was director of the Division of Maternal and Child Health Services in the State Public Health Department when she retired.

Dr. Hussey replaced Dr. McKeogh on the License Board but, McCauley added, he has not discussed the controversial 2 a.m. closing rule with her prior to her appointment.

Dr. Hussey said she does not know how she will vote on the question of rolling liquor licenses in the city back to 1 a.m. but she said she plans to study it thoroughly.

Dr. McKeogh voted for the 2 a.m. closing, a view which clashed with that held by McCauley.

Dr. Hussey is the widow of Dr. Joseph M. Hussey, longtime Quincy physician, who died in 1977. She makes her home at 121 Shore Ave.

Her son, Daniel, is chief prosecutor for the city of Las Vegas, Nev., and a daughter, Dr. Kathryn S. Evers, is chief of mental health in Portland, Ore.

Cautious Council Asks Health Board Study

The City Council went on record Monday night — but just barely in favor of taking a look at the possibility of a board of health for Quincy.

The vote was 5-4 with a majority of the councillors quick to point out that the vote did not necessarily mean they were in favor of changing the current public health commissioner system.

The resolve asking that Mayor

Francis X. McCauley study the feasibility of a board of health was filed by Councillor Joanne Condon, an early proponent of a board.

It was sailing along toward passage when Councillor Stephen McGrath asked for a roll call vote.

"The mayor has already said he is going to make such a study," he said. "If I vote in favor of this resolve it might indicate I favor a board of health and I don't want to be recorded in favor."

"I don't mind anyone taking a look at it," said Councillor Patricia Toland and four fellow councillors agreed with her — Condon, Theodore P. DeCristofaro, Joseph J. LaRaia, and John J. Lydon Jr.

Last Council Meeting June 30

The City Council will hold its annual wrapup special meeting to close out business for the 1982 fiscal year Wednesday, June 30, at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall.

I'll Miss It!

Editor: The Quincy Sun:

For 38 years I've been proud to be a caring, dedicated teacher in the Quincy School System, inspired and supported by administrators and elected officials who were in the majority, likewise.

That dedication grew naturally from sharing many happy and sad times with fellow teachers, youngsters for whom I was responsible and their parents. I was involved in a multitude of activities - I did not "merely teach". Memorable are the 15 years as chairman of the QEA Scholarship Committee, responsible for building a trust fund so that there would always be money to help with future education of Quincy students. And as I gave of myself - I reaped. There are few colleagues whose happiness equals mine.

And this past year at the Pollard, with Frank Keegan and Laura DiTullio as inspirations and supporters, I reached my zenith.

However, during the past few months we have witnessed the demise of much that was good. Gone is the high degree of caring and dedication which was the pulse of the system for years; prevalent is a large degree of frustration and low morale; sadness is rampant. Many put the blame on "2 1/2". I put it on the political arena and the factions therein who are motivated primarily by personal goals. Yet, being an optimist, I feel the pendulum will swing back to what we were - great!

Therefore, though not ready for it physically or psychologically, I have decided, reluctantly, to terminate my services on June 30, 1982, happy that I was part of the "good years" and happy that I "touched" so many lives.

Lydon Mayoral Contender?

If you're keeping a list of potential mayoral contenders, add the name of Jack Lydon.

You might not have caught it, but he certainly sounded like a future mayoral candidate a couple of weeks ago.

That was when he announced he was withdrawing as a candidate for Norfolk County clerk of courts.

Lydon noted at the time that he was unable to work out a plan for someone else to run his funeral business for him if he became court clerk which is a fulltime job.

He didn't sound like a mayoral candidate at that point but he did when he added: "I am looking out to bigger and better things locally."

He's now City Council president so a bigger and better thing for him locally politically would be mayor.

The mayor's job is also full-time, of course, like the clerk of courts. So if he couldn't work out a plan for someone to run his funeral business if he became clerk of courts, how could he become mayor?

"Well," he smiles, "I wasn't able to find the person I wanted this year. But that doesn't mean I couldn't find him in the future."

NOMINATION FOR Fisherman of the Year in quantity if not quality is Bob Gibbons, legislative aide to Rep. Thomas F. Brownell.

Gibbons and five companions caught more than 1,500 pounds of fish, including pollock, bluefish and a 35-pound striped bass on a recent Sunday charter trip to Stellwagen Bank off Provincetown.

The catch was so impressive that the charter skipper, Capt. Jim McFarland of Marshfield, said he plans to use a picture of the party and their fish on the cover of next year's brochure.

"It was unbelievable," said Gibbons, "I caught over 100 pounds of fish on one spreader, three pollock and a sand shark. And that's no fish story."

Gibbons took 50 pounds of assorted fillets home and gave most of them away.

"The bluefish was delicious," he said.

MORE THAN 800 residents of Norfolk County attended a reception for Gov. Edward J. King, candidate for re-election, last week at the Milton Hoosic Club.

Prominent among the Quincy residents at the reception were Governor's Councillor Peter L. Eley, county coordinator for the King campaign, and Sheriff Clifford Marshall.

Also City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath, former Councillor Daniel G. Raymond, former Rep. Joseph E. Brett, and John J. Barron.

Edward J. Moore, administrative aide to former Cong. James A. Burke, was the chairman of the reception.

ON THE OTHER side, the Quincy Committee to Elect Michael Dukakis, has selected its ward coordinators. They are:

Ward 1, Joan and David Colton; Ward 2, Margaret King, Ward 3, Donna and James French and Linda Luke; Ward 4, Mario Traficante and Donna Smith; Ward 5, City Councillor Patricia Toland and David Tenney; Ward 6, Dale Musgrave and Mary Coughlin.

Bernice Mader is city coordinator for Dukakis.

BERNIE O'DONNELL, former Quincy Sun staffer, has been named city editor of the Gloucester Times. Bernie, a North Quincy High School-Northeastern U. product, was a general assignment reporter at The Sun and left here in O'DONNELL April 1981 to join the Gloucester daily staff. Obviously, The Sun and The Times know a good newsmen when they see one. Congratulations, Bernie and the best of luck and continued success.

QEA Elects Officers

The Quincy Education Association recently held an election of officers for the 1982-83 school year. Elected were:

Herman Pasquerella, president,

Quincy High English teacher; Richard Haines, vice-president, head guidance counselor at Quincy Vocational-Technical school;

Mary Curtin, secretary, 2nd grade teacher at Atherton Hough, and Robert Mattsson, treasurer, Math teacher at Sterling Junior High.

Joe McWeeny Retiring From A Varied Career

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

When Joseph McWeeny was a member of North Quincy High School's football team in the early 1930's, he blocked the kick at the school's first game against Taunton on Thanksgiving.

Another player fell on it to give North a 6-0 win.

"Lucky you did that McWeeny," said Coach Jack Donahue, "otherwise, you played a lousy game!"

McWeeny went on to many other accomplishments, including designing the "N" in the "Q" insignia for North, and its doubtful they can be attributed to just luck.

At age 66, he retires today (Thursday) from a career which has included building homes, raising Irish setters, sailing and teaching industrial arts at Atlantic Junior High School.

He was born in Manchester, N.H. Feb. 26, 1916. The family moved to Tyler St., North Quincy, when he was young.

He attended the Parker Elementary School and went on to the first ninth grade class at NQHS.

He was active in school activities at NQHS, and was on the first city championship team in 1933 which defeated Quincy.

While at North, he met Helen Collins who he was later to marry in 1941.

During those years, he mixed ice cream with Howard Johnson, Sr. in Wollaston.

Graduated in 1938 from Boston University's Bouve School with a BA degree and teaching certificate, he started out in real estate but soon switched to building houses. Over the next 25 years, he built more than 100 houses in Quincy and especially Squantum.

JOSEPH McWEENY today and when he was a student and football player at North Quincy High School in 1933.

His most notable accomplishment was the design and refinement of a six room colonial with simple lines and ornate finish. His design became so popular that it spread to Hingham and Milton.

During those years, he also "built" a family. Son Bill was born in 1948 and teaches science at Central Junior High School.

Caron, born in 1954, is a registered nurse at Braintree Nursing Home.

McWeeny and his daughter have been raising Irish setters for 15 years and have the youngest champion ever — Kate. They also boast the top pointer bitch in the country — Josie.

In the late 1940's and 1950's, McWeeny, with help from Tom Coleman Sr., and Bunny Glazebrook, sailed the "Sequin" to dozens of victories.

The most notable championship was a year at Marblehead Race Week when McWeeny and his crew won six out of seven races.

In the early 1960's, the housing market changed and McWeeny began his second career. He was hired as an industrial arts teacher at Rockland High School in 1962.

He transferred to Atlantic Junior High School in 1965 where he remained for the next 17 years.

On the eve of his retirement, he plans to start his third career. It includes time in the workshop of his home in Hanover where he moved from Quincy five years ago.

He also plans to work with Irish setters and pointers, and spend time with his family which now includes granddaughter, Jenny, 5.

Dr. Hussey Now Key Vote

Bar Hours Rollback Vote At Least Week Away

The continuing saga of a possible hours rollback for local liquor establishments will continue for at least another week.

City Clerk John Gillis said Tuesday that the 1 a.m. closing issue will be continued to June 29, to allow the new board member, Dr. M. Grace Hussey, to review the problem.

Dr. Hussey was named by Mayor Francis McCauley to succeed the ousted Dr. Robert McKeogh effective Monday.

Gillis offered to supply Dr.

Hussey with minutes from past meetings in which the board discussed the hours roll back.

Fire Chief Edward Barry pointed out that the issue is tentatively scheduled for next week.

"If there's a full board," explained Gillis. Next week is the board's last meeting before the summer recess.

After the meeting, Dr. Hussey said she expects to be prepared to vote on the issue next week.

She said she's trying to get a line on the issue, and has studied closing hours of neighboring communities such as Hingham, Weymouth and Braintree.

"I haven't made up my mind yet," said Dr. Hussey.

She also said she enjoyed her first board meeting very much.

"I like considering the problems that affect the growth of Quincy."

"I also like how sincere we are in trying to help Quincy people out."

"It's an admirable job."

7% Pay Hike For 20 QHA Employees

The Quincy Housing Authority signed a two-year contract with the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees union for a 7 percent wage increase involving 20 employees of the Authority.

Administrator John Comer, made the announcement following last week's meeting of the authority.

Drive Begun On Illegal Fire Crackers

Deputy Fire Chief William Sands inaugurated a campaign against the sale of powerful firecrackers that had been declared illegal by State Fire Marshal John W. Reth following reports of many injuries among youngsters.

Sands issued the warning to the more than 50 stores in Quincy that were selling fireworks in the weeks prior to the Fourth of July.

The illegal firecrackers were described as Chinese-made, two inches long, three-eighths of an inch in diameter and containing an explosive charge made up of 3.7 grains of aluminum dust, potassium nitrate, charcoal and sulphur.

The aluminum dust gave the cracker a much greater explosive power than the black gunpowder that is usually used, said Sands.

DRUNK DRIVING EXPLAINED

Judge Albert Avery in Quincy District Court fined a Dorchester salesman $100 for driving a car under the influence of alcohol — even after the judge conceded that the man might well be a better driver drunk than sober.

The man's attorney asserted that his client could not possibly have been drunk since he drove all the way from Nantasket Beach to North Weymouth in heavy traffic, passing at least a dozen police officers on the way, without mishap.

"Offentimes," said Judge Avery, "a man under the influence of liquor will be found to be a more careful operator than is the case when he is sober."

GARRETT SOUGHT

Quincy police were alerted to be on the lookout for Oliver B. Garrett, the deposed head of the Boston Police liquor squad, who was now a fugitive from justice and believed to be hiding on the South Shore.

The alert went out for Garrett after he failed to appear for trial in Suffolk Superior Court on charges of larceny and extortion.

GRANITE FOR POST OFFICE

Cong. Richard B. Wigglesworth won a notable victory in Congress when the $670,000 contract for construction of a new Post Office building in Worcester specified that only granite quarried in New England could be used on the project.

The news was expected to touch off a spirited bidding competition between companies in Quincy, Cape Ann, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

User Charge To Free $2.5 M In Sewer Funds bureaucracy it takes time.

"I imagine it will take the next 90 to 180 days to implement the plan."

The city is in the process now of obtaining 90 per cent state and federal funding for the $2.8 million Fort Square sewer project in South Quincy, which was threatened by the failure to pass a user charge.

"We have to get the money committed by the end of the federal fiscal year, Oct. 1," said Anderson. "I figure if everything goes well we'll be able to get the project moving in the fall or summer of 1983."

Quincy's sewer user charge will have major industrial users and tax exempt institutions paying sewer charges on the basis of water used.

The user charge proposal, which was rejected four times by the City Council during the administration of Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, passed the Council swiftly Monday night by an 8-1 vote.

Under the proposal put forth by Mayor Francis X. McCauley, residential and small commercial sewer users, which make up 76 per cent of the system, will continue to pay on the basis of the tax rate.

The sole dissenting vote was cast by Councilor Theodore P. DeCristofaro, who said he feared its effect on small family and elderly homeowners.

"I feel that when 100 per cent valuation rolls around, the people with small families and older people will get hit," he said. "There should be a user charge right down the line."

Ice cream will be served to the children during the afternoon and prizes will be awarded for the races and contests. Ice will be available for family tonic and coolers and cold drinks will be available for the children attending.

Informal games and activities will be held between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Competitive programs will begin at 1:30 p.m. with children races according to age groups. Home run hitting contests for boys baseball and girls softball will be held at 2 p.m. A mother and daughter softball game and father and son baseball game is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. At 3:30 p.m., an egg throwing contest between fathers and mothers.

The event will mark the opening of the 35th year of the Koch Club as a community organization and will begin a series of programs being scheduled during the 1982-83 season.

Don't take my word —

Come and See for Yourself

I tell everyone we have the finest banking facility of its kind in all New England. But don't take my word -- come and see for yourself what we have created at our new headquarters at 85 Quincy Avenue.

The fanned windows on the colonial brick facade let pleasing daylight into our spacious, modern banking lobby which includes new safe deposit boxes. To the left, out of the photo above, is our 95-car parking area.

The rotunda, at the right in the photo, houses our lending services department. Farther to the right, beyond the rotunda, is our triple drive-in facility.

I could go on and on about our unique banking facility. All of us here at the Quincy Cooperative Bank are proud of our new bank and we invite you, whether you are a customer or not, to come in and see it for yourself.

Clerk Of Committees Raised To Full Time

Jeanne Reardon, the City Council's clerk of committees, got a $7,800 raise Monday night — but she's going to have to work twice as hard for it.

Mrs. Reardon has held the post on a parttime basis for the past two years at an annual salary of $8,754, but it was determined that the work is too much for a parttimer.

The job was previously held by Josephine Carnali, secretary to the city clerk, who was able to work it into her daily schedule. She gave it up when she became acting assistant city clerk.

The council pegged the clerk of committees' fulltime salary at $16,553 Monday night.

After completing normal school, Sister Francis Joseph taught for many years in New York and New Jersey and was the librarian and Dean of Residents Students at Mount Saint Mary Academy from 1956-65.

She was superior and principal of St. Joseph's High School in Toms River, N.J. from 1965-67, when she was assigned to Mount Saint Mary College as director of the library.

Baby Dedicated During Father's Day Service

The dedication of a baby to God was the highlight of the Father's Day service at the First Church of Squantum Sunday.

John and Vivian Ahearn dedicated their daughter, Andrea Marie, in the presence of the congregation.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, conducted the dedication. He was assisted by Evelyn Ahearn and Donald Frazer, both of the Board of Deacons. Evelyn Ahearn is also the baby's grandmother.

It was originally planned to have the baby dedicated immediately after her father's baptism in Quincy Bay but that service had to be postponed because the city had closed all Quincy beaches.

That baptism was postponed to August.

Sermon for the morning was entitled "An Act of Commitment." Greeters were Mrs. Minnie Langevin, the pastor's mother, and Mindi and Marci Hurd, his nieces, all of whom are visiting from Michigan.

The Fellowship Hour was hosted by May Lewis, Eva Martin and Katie Crossman.

Health Food Restaurant Runs Into Opposition

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Forty business people from Quincy Center are concerned about the licensing of a proposed health food type restaurant, Handshakes, at 8 Granite St. across from the new Stop & Shop building.

But City Clerk John Gillis, License Board chairman, feels the three Quincy young men applying for the license should be given a fair shake.

The matter was continued to June 29 at this week's license board meeting, and Police Chief Francis Finn suggested the two sides get together to discuss the proposal.

Atty. Peter Eley told the board that Timothy Cahill, (who ran unsuccessfully for city councillor last year), Edward Graham Jr., and Joseph Irvine were requesting common victualer and Lord's day licenses for the proposed establishment at the former site of Crimston Travel Service.

Eley said that the restaurant would offer items such as muffins, croissants, quiche, banana bread, chicken, turkey, fruit cups, juice, and shakes for breakfast and lunch.

He said that soup and stews could be added to the menu later.

There would be about 50 seats in the restaurant according to Eley who said that he expected most of the business would be from foot traffic.

"If there's ever been a group of good Quincy boys, these are them," said Eley of the applicants.

"If they're granted the license," said Fire Chief Edward Barry, "I think they'll be able to make it."

"There's a great potential," Building Inspector Allan MacDonald said he had questions on egress, lack of parking spaces, and the number of eating establishments already in the area.

"There are about seven restaurants within a stone's throw," said MacDonald.

Austin Wickens, executive director of the Quincy Center Business & Professional Association, read the board a letter which stated:

"...Quincy Center has reached that saturation point on smaller fast food restaurants there is a continued need for a larger sitdown eating establishment."

"The building in which this new business is to be located has just undergone extensive renovations and has historical significance. With this in mind, one would have to ask whether this is the best possible use for this location."

Wickens gave the board a petition signed by 40 local business people and asked that the matter be continued to allow more time to review the facts.

Patti Elson of the Pilgrim Restaurant, which she said recently spent $300,000 to remodel, asked how many more restaurants could fit in the square. She said she opposed the proposed location of Handshakes, and pointed out that all restaurants are struggling.

Chandler Garland of Old Colony Bank, which recently moved to the Greenleaf Building, said he was at the meeting with an open mind and wanted what was best for the community.

Robert Megow of Big J's, 1442 Hancock St., was concerned with business which would be lost to a new restaurant. He also said there are 32 restaurants in the area from Danny's to Barry's Shiphaven.

John Kerrigan of Baskin Robbins opposed the restaurant, and said the number of licenses granted even, at the flea market, scared him.

Gillis asked Wickens to poll the QCBPA membership on the proposal and report back to the board next week.

He also said he didn't think any business should try to knock another business down. Gillis said he thought the applicants should be given a chance.

"We give everyone else a chance."

"If we don't, it will be a sorry day in the city of Quincy."

ANTIBIOTICS AND ORAL INFECTION

Q: My dentist gave me a prescription for an antibiotic. Is that usual?

A: The treatment of infections in and around the mouth, as with infections every where else in the body, underwent a dramatic change with the introduction of antibiotics in the 1940s. Severe and life-threatening infections became relatively rare. Penicillin, the first antibiotic introduced, remains the most effective antibiotic in the treatment of most oral infections.

Antibiotics were such wonderful new drugs that some doctors overused them or used them inappropriately. As a result, germs resistant to the effects of antibiotics developed. Some toxic and allergic reactions occurred as well.

Now most health professionals are more cautious in the prescribing of antibiotics. Sometimes infection in the mouth will be controlled by allowing drainage, instead of prescribing an antibiotic.

Antibiotics can be lifesaving, especially where used with care.

Burgin Wins 15th Straight

There appears to be no stopping the Burgin Platner baseball team, which is running away from the pack in the Junior Baseball league with a 15-0 record.

Burgin holds a four-game lead over Foley's in the American League, while Boston Gear, with a 9-4 mark, has a three-game lead over Houghs Neck in the National League.

Burin edged Kiwanis, 3-2, in a 10-inning thriller, one of the best games of the season.

Burgin scored a run in the top of the first when Tom McDonald homered, but Kiwanis took a 2-1 lead in the bottom half when T.J. Steen tripled and Matt Hurley homered.

Burgin tied it in the fourth when Mark DiMattio doubled, went to third on an infield out and scored on a passed ball.

Burgin won it in the 10th when Tom McDonald singled, Robbie McDonald singled and Tom scored on John Quinlan's fly to left.

Brian Mosher of Burgin and Ryan Hersey of Kiwanis pitched fine ball but, by Little League rules, both had to be relieved after six innings.

Mosher gave up six hits, struck out seven and walked three, while Hersey pitched four-hit ball, struck out five and walked only one. Tom McDonald went in to pitch for Burgin and Steen for Kiwanis.

Steen gave up four hits, struck out eight and didn't walk a batter, while McDonald didn't allow a hit. His record is 7-0 and he has 80 strikeouts. He also is batting .630 with three home runs.

Burgin also topped Rotary, 13-7, pounding out 13 hits. Robbie McDonald was the winning pitcher, winning his first game. He gave up five hits, struck out 14 and walked seven.

For Burgin Tom McDonald had a home run and three doubles, DiMattio a home run, double and single, Robbie McDonald a home run, Billy Murphy a double and Mosher and Quilan a single each. Steve Netters played strong defense.

For Rotary John Pennelatore had a triple and two singles and also sparked on defense. Mike Mullaney had a triple and Bill McDougall a single.

Bryan Post edged Colonial Federal, 9-7, in seven innings with Mike Ainsley the winning pitcher. Dan Overby pitched the first six innings and struck out 12. Steve Connolly won the game with a three-run double with two outs in the seventh. Ted Stevenson had a triple and double and Ainsley, Overby, Matt Norton and Kevin Songtag had key hits. Tank McNamara had a triple and double for Colonial.

The standings: American League-Burgin Platner, 15-0; Foley's, 9-4; Kiwanis, 8-6; VFW, 6-7; State Street, 6-7; Remick's, 3-11.

National League - Boston Gear, 9-4; Houghs Neck, 7-8; Keohane's, 6-8; Colonial Federal, 5-7; Rotary, 5-9; Elks, 3-11.

QHS Boys Track Team Looks To Better Times

The Quincy High School boys' track team, with a small squad and undermanned in every meet, had a rough season and didn't win a meet, but coach Dan Coughlin was pleased and hopes for more interest next season.

"Several of our team members had personal goals to reach and worked very hard to attain those goals," Coughlin said.

Mike Williams, the team captain and high scorer, scored 88 points and was undefeated in the 440 and 880. He lost only once in the long jump, finishing second to North Quincy's Rich Palma.

"Mike is only a junior and has the potential to be the best in our league in both the 440 and 880 next year," Coughlin added. "His hard work and dedication earned him a fifth place in the state Class A 800 meter run with a time of 1:59.3, his best time. He plans to run this summer and work out with the Quincy Track Club."

Others who worked hard to accomplish personal bests included Croce Verochi in the mile, Peter Kearney in the mile, Mike Nevins and Mark Picot in the shot put, John Cardarelli in the discus and javelin, Koi Toy in the 100 and Bill Walsh in the high hurdles.

"We hope to have more members next year and be more competitive than we were this year," said Coughlin. "In several of our meets we were unable to enter anyone in some of the events. With Williams to build around, Quincy should be able to build a strong team."

N.Q. Boosters Seek New Members, Financial Aid

Since 1959 the North Quincy High School Football Boosters Club had recognized and honored the achievements of North football teams, usually by hosting a dinner and awarding sweaters, jackets and trophies according to Joseph A. Gelsomini, who is heading a membership drive.

"The Boosters have also obtained various pieces of equipment and supplies for team use as requested by the coaching staff and game-time refreshments have been provided to the players. The club also operates the concession stand at home games at Veterans Memorial Stadium," said Gelsomini.

Various events have been conducted by the club to raise the necessary funds to cover the costs of these items.

However, in these times of Athletic Department budget reductions, the supportive role of the Boosters will be ever widening and the commitments to the team will be ever increasing.

It is expected that the coaching staff will rely more heavily on the Boosters to furnish additional equipment and supplies, currently provided by the Athletic Department, to maintain a viable football team.

North Quincy High has fielded football teams since 1932.

Cavanaugh's Bat Beats Southie In Twi League

Dutch Cavanaugh drove in four runs with a pair of triples as Quincy ran up a 6-0 lead and then held on for a 6-5 victory over South Boston in a Boston Twilight League game at C.J. Lee Park in Southie. The win had Quincy in fourth place, a half game behind Dorchester.

Southpaw Barney Curtin baffled the rival hitters with his assortment of slow stuff, holding the Southie nine scoreless and limiting them to five hits over the first five innings before he weakened and was solved for seven hits and five runs over the last four frames.

Curtin struck out the last batter to face him with men on second and third in the last of the ninth but his catcher Tom Maloney failed to hold the third strike and the batter, Bortelli, was barely nipped at first base as the potential tying run crossed the plate.

Quincy scored three times in the first inning when two singles and an error loaded the bases and Cavanaugh cleaned them with the first of his two three-baggers. Then Cavanaugh was doubled off third when he left too soon after Teddy Rouillard fled out.

The Quincy lineup included: Mauro 3b, Clark rf, F. Rouillard 2b, Capobianchi cf, Cavanaugh 1b, T. Rouillard ss, Hebert lf, Maloney c, Curtin p.

The victory made up for an earlier loss in which South Boston pounded Lefty Moors and Mush Lubarsky for 16 hits for a 10-7 win at Merrymount Park. Quincy tied the game at 7-all with six runs around two Maloney doubles in the eighth but Southie got three in the ninth.

In other Twilight League games:

Bill Clancy, a recent member of Salem's New England League team, belted a three-run home run off Les Andrews in the first inning for a 4-1 Dorchester victory over Quincy. Norman Sims, the Holy Cross captain-elect, limited Quincy to seven hits.

The defending champions from Roslindale maintained a game and a half lead over second place Malden by trouncing Quincy 9-2. George Clark accounted for both of the Quincy runs with a double and a single in three official trips to the plate.

CARSON JUNIORS WIN

Duke Mitchelson booted the winning goal with three minutes left to play to give the Carson Juniors a 2-1 victory over the Quincy Red Lions in Mass and New Hampshire State Junior soccer cup competition. It was the Carsons first victory ever over their rivals.

Sammy Hay gave the Red Lions a 1-0 lead with a goal out of a scramble in front of the net but Hugh Logan tied it up for the Carsons on a pass from Danny Farquhar.

The Red Lions lost their star back, Harry Mitchelson, in the second period when he got into a fist fight with Carsons' Vaino Tirri. Both players were ejected from the game and the two teams had to finish up with 10 men each.

The Carson Juniors lineup included: DiLoreto, goal; Cosgrove, Pineau, backs; Tirri, Edwards, H. Fraser, halfbacks; Logan, McAuley, Farquhar, A. Mitchelson, Thomson, forwards.

The Red Lions lineup included: McVicar, goal; H. Mitchelson, McAllister, backs; MacLellan, Munn, Cairns, halfbacks; J. Swans, Hay, Wilson, F. Swan, Pitts, forwards.

QUINCY GIRL SURVIVES

Louisa Rood of Wollaston, who recently won the tennis championship at Quincy High School, was one of eight survivors of the first two rounds of play in the Younger Girls Division of the State Open Tennis Tournament at Longwood Cricket Club in Brookline.

Miss Rood defeated Barbara Paine, 6-3, 6-1, in the first round and Grace Cutter, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3, in the second round. Top-seeded Lucy Fowle, a protegee of Mrs. George W. Wightman, also advanced into the quarterfinals.

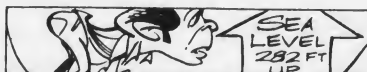

HURJAS TOP HOGHS NECK

Jim Daley scored two runs on a pair of doubles and drove in two more with a single to lead the Hurja AA to a 5-3 victory over the Houghs Neck Town Team at Houghs Neck Playground. Ricco Mainini held the Neckers to six hits and struck out 13.

The Hurja lineup included: E. Mattison ss, Lubarsky 1b, Lastra 2b, Daley rf, Niemi c, Mainini p, Zaccchini 3b, W. Mattison lf, Rusconi cf.

The Morrisette Legion baseball team is off to a fast start in Zone 6, winning its first three games.

Ray Cattaneo's team will play at Milton Friday at 6, will be at Weymouth Sunday at 2 o'clock, will host Canton Monday at 6 at Adams Field and will face Wollaston next Wednesday at 8 at Adams.

Quincy will host Norwell Friday at 8 at Adams, will be at Holbrook Sunday night at 8:30, will face Brockton Monday at 8 at Adams and will be home to Milton next Wednesday at 6 at Adams.

Wollaston will play at Randolph Friday at 6, will play at Hingham Monday at 6, will host Braintree Tuesday at 6 at Adams and will face Morrisette next Wednesday at 8:30 at Adams.

Morrisette won its third in a row last Saturday, defeating Hingham, 5-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Mike Morris, who struck out seven and walked two.

Morrisette scored three runs in the first when Chris Bunker reached on an error, Jeff Timberlake singled, Jim Bandera forced Timberlake at second, John Balzano singled in a run and Brian Reale drove in two with a triple.

Morrisette added two runs in the sixth when Morris reached on an error, Bunker singled, Timberlake scored Morris with a single, Bandera walked and Timberlake scored on a fielder's choice.

Last Friday night Morrisette squeezed by Norwell, 4-3, in a game which had a little bit of everything.

Morrisette won the game on only three hits, while Norwell had five. Paul Earle started on the mound for Morrisette, giving up all five hits, striking out seven and walking five, while Mike Marshall pitched the last inning.

Norwell scored all three runs in the first inning on four walks, a double and a wild pitch.

Morrisette scored once in the first when Timberlake singled, Bandera walked and Timberlake scored on a wild pitch. It added a run in the second on a walk, two wild pitches and a fielder's choice.

In the third Morrisette tied it on two walks, a wild pitch and Reale's single. The winning run scored in the fourth when Jack Bolster walked and scored on three wild pitches.

Morrisette had opened its season with a 3-2 victory over Brockton as Bandera and Marshall combined for a three-hitter.

Morrisette scored all its runs in the second inning. Balzano singled, Reale doubled, Steve Pecevic walked, Marty McLaughlin singled home two runs and Dan Kelly brought in Pecevic with a sacrifice fly.

Brockton scored its runs in the fourth and had the bases loaded when Marshall relieved Bandera, retired the next two batters and pitched 3 2/3 innings of no-hit ball and struck out six.

Reale, who has been hitting well all season, had three hits.

Wollaston, which had opened its season with a win over Norwell, was defeated by Weymouth, 5-1, as Weymouth scored three runs in the fifth to clinch the victory. Andy Eames was the losing pitcher.

Quincy was bombed by Braintree, 9-1, in its opening game.

Morrisette has three games to make up. The scheduled opening games with Randolph and Braintree had to be postponed due to the schoolboy tournament and Monday night's game at Holbrook was rained out in the first inning.

BIKE RIDERS ARE GUILTY

You hear of a motorist striking a child on a bike and what's your reaction? Usually a slight outrage against the motorist. The surprising truth is that in bike-car collisions, the driver is seldom at fault. Fully 80 percent of the bike riders killed by cars are clearly in the wrong. They are struck down because they violate a traffic rule.

Parents of bike-riding children should take note of this fact. Teach them traffic regulations and insist they obey them. In most communities, bicycles are in the same class as automobiles and subject to the same rules of the road. Bike riders must obey all traffic signals and signs. There should be no sneaking through red lights. At busy intersections a child should get off his bike and walk it across.

on the far right of the road. Riding on the left, facing traffic, is definitely more dangerous according to all surveys.

Boys, Girls Hershey Track Meet Next Week

The Quincy Track Club and Quincy Recreation Dept. will host a community meet for boys and girls age 9-14 Wednesday, June 30 and Thursday, July 1 at 6 p.m. at Veterans Memorial stadium.

This is the first step toward the Hershey National Track and Field championships.

The boys' meet will be held Wednesday and the girls' meet Thursday.

The meet is open to all boys and girls of proper age and they do not have to be members of a community track program. Registration will be taken on the evening of the meet. Each participant's age is determined as of Aug. 31, 1982.

This meet will provide the first step in a competition which includes district, state and the national finals in Charleston, W. Virginia. Those from New England who advance to the nationals are awarded an all-expense paid trip by Hershey, the national sponsor.

Contestants may only enter three events and if three are chosen one must be a field event. Spikes and starting blocks are not allowed.

The Hershey Youth program emphasizes friendship, sportsmanship and physical exercise aspects of track and field, and is an excellent opportunity for youngsters to participate in a free program which can stimulate their interest in a low cost recreational activity for all abilities.

Recreation Director Barry Welch praised the many volunteer coaches of the Quincy Track Club, who provide the necessary staff to enable the city's residents to participate in such a fine national program.

"Geoff Hennessy and his dedicated group of volunteers continue to provide opportunities in track and field for hundreds of Quincy youngsters and their hosting the Hershey's National Track Meet for the City of Quincy is another outstanding example of this organization's service to the youth of our community," Welch said.

WEEK OF: JUNE 24

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Selectivity is important all week. Whether purchasing appliances or choosing words for a report, you can afford to be picky. Big plans can be revealed by Tuesday.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Partner wants you to make a commitment and can be highly convincing now. Late-month news from far-off friend can influence travel plans. Children give you reason for optimism.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Family member opposes major request, but the file is not closed. Financial gains favored starting Monday. Tuesday offers outstanding chance to show your dedication to a job.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Nod of approval comes from superior just when you've abandoned hope. Thursday-Saturday see you in the limelight. Week favors meeting someone from overseas and forging interesting associations.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

You could be warming up to a new neighbor, proving that first impressions are not always lasting ones. Tasks completed now will come under the eye of influential people.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Romantic relationships are accented this week. A neighborhood secret may be out in the open by Monday. Agreements arranged now are binding, read between every little line.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Love life perks up when you act from the head rather than the heart. You're nominated for a position of authority. Be sure you know precisely what you're getting into.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Health and romance benefit when you and partner sign up for joint recreational program. Advice offered a friend will be ultimately appreciated. Just don't force the issue right now.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Diversification is keyword. New ways to spend your leisure time and staying involved in a number of tasks keep you informed and alert. Neutral friend can solve a romantic dilemma.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Emphasis is on career and travel, with friendship or romance involved in either area. Relative asks lots of questions. You needn't tell all — or anything, for that matter.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

There's a leaning toward extremes — which means a warning about excessive amounts of sunshine and general activity. Injured relationship regains some health. Travel plans include surprise expenses.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Range of interests expands significantly now. Family split is not irreversible, but don't force any treaties. Antique collecting is favored. Modernization program may be delayed.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're persistent, imaginative, have a strong memory — and moods can change like phases of the moon. Good chance around October for meeting someone who complements your personality. Thanks to your guidance, relative earns important award in early '83.

Book Bobby Block Party

Country and Western music will fill the air Friday, June 25, 7 to 10 p.m. when the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library sponsor a Book Bobby Block Party.

This event, which begins the library's summer activities, will benefit the fund raising campaign organized by the Friends of the Library to install book security systems at three library units.

In case of rain the Block Party will be held in the children's room. Young and old are urged to support the public library by attending the Book Bobby Block Party.

Apartment Owners To Meet To Fight Condo Ordinance

Members of the Quincy Apartment House Owners Association will meet Tuesday, June 29, at 7:30 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club to hear a report on efforts to fight a proposed condominium conversion ordinance.

Roger B. Lyons and John M. Marrone, representatives of the landlords on the City Council's Special Condominium Subcommittee, urged members of the association to contact their state reps and senators.

A home rule petition permitting Quincy to have a condo conversion ordinance and spelling out its provisions is due to be admitted to the House shortly.

And statewide enabling legislation that would permit any community in the Commonwealth to pass condo conversion ordinances passed the House 130-15 and went into third reading.

Lyons, in a letter to members of his association, called the proposed Quincy ordinance "flawed".

"The materials which we have made available to the City Council, the State Legislature and Senators prove that the ordinance is both unconstitutional and an abuse of the Council's power," he said.

"Among other things, the proposed ordinance controlled units, as opposed to buildings, and applied to future construction as well as existing.

"It also covered all rental properties, even two-family. The penalty for landlord violations are almost confiscatory."

Lyons, who, with Marrone, was a member of the subcommittee that drew up the ordinance, called the experience "both frustrating and rewarding, but never at any point in the middle."

"To my way of thinking," he said, "it was always the intention of the subcommittee chairman (Councillor Stephen J. McGrath) to seek the maximum condominium conversion controls.

"The ordinance which emerged from the subcommittee, despite the objections of Mr. Marrone and the undersigned, achieved that goal."

clerk after July 1, is working on a plan to refund the money.

City Solicitor William Golden said the problem was an ordinance that the City Council passed July 30, 1980 which it was thought implemented the late penalty payment system but really did not.

Golden said Monday night's ordinance did that.

"This ordinance," he said, "sets specific fine schedules very similar to that which existed before the state law was accepted (on July 30, 1980).

"It would also permit surfines to be added in 21 days. The numbers in the schedule are those proposed by the mayor but we invite the City Council to review and change those numbers."

The numbers proposed by the mayor were these:

A fine of $5 for most parking offenses, with a surfine of $5 if not paid in 21 days and a surfine of $10 if not paid by the time the registrar of motor vehicles is notified.

A fine of $10 for parking within 10 feet of a fire hydrant, blocking a driveway, double parking and parking in a handicapped spot, with $5 and $10 surfines for late this city in a year? This is the silliest thing I ever heard."

Toland called the proposal "a mean-spirited gesture to tell an ordinary citizen that he can only hold one yard sale a year and that he will have to pay for it."

Besides, she added, "it takes away from the social life of the city in the spring and the fall."

Nevertheless, the Council voted to approve the resolve and send it on to the City Solicitor to be drawn up as an ordinance.
